CONSTRUCTION OF THE steel elevated water storage tank near the E. P. Coleman Steam Plant is complete. Only painting and sterilizing are required. Water mains will have to be constructed to the site before it is operational. The water tank is one of several projects the city is engaging to improve its water and sewer service to residents and the industrial site north of Compress Road near the water tower above.

City, Industry to Benefit From Water, Sewer Projects

Several water and sewer construction projects to benefit Sikeston residents and industry, both new and existing, are underway now, or will be soon. A portion of the work has been completed.

The Board of Municipal Utilities in its meeting Wednesday night voted to recommend the city council accept the apparent low bid for additional construction of water and sewer projects of $831,663.35 submitted July 18, by Refractory Construction Inc. of Tulsa, Okla.

The recommendation will contain a stiuplation that acceptance of the low bid will depend on approval of the contracts by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, E. R. Inman, director of the Sikeston Light & Water Co. said.

The bids have been reviewed by William G. Riddle & Associates of Kansas City, consulting engineer for the city.

The water and sewer projects will be in all parts of town. The work is authorized by the passage of water and sewer bonds totaling $1,200,000 in 1965. A federal matching grant of $982,000 also has been received to help the city improve and expand its water and sewer service.

To date, the city has let contracts for improvements totaling $571,000. If the apparent low bid is contracted, the total work under contract will amount to $1,402,663.35. The only contracts yet to be bid are for the expansion of the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram and the water plant on Center street.

The 500,000-gallon steel elevated water storage tank on Northwest St. costing $121,500 is constructed. Painting and sterilization of the inside of the tank remains to be done. While the tank will be ready in the next 30 to 60 days, it will not be operational until 12" water mains are laid to it from Salcedo Road and from Malone Avenue. The water main work is bid in the Refractory contract presently under consideration.

The sewer construction contract that has been let to Clinton Construction Co. is about 30 per cent completed, Inman said. The contract calls for the contruction of $168,500 in four sewer construction projects: Sewer work from Taylor street to the north city limits along Highway 61 North is completed except for a few road crossings, Inman said.

The sewer project from Clayton Avenue to Malone & Hyde has not bee started yet. Work has just begun on a sewer line to be laid from Malone Avenue to Canvas Products. The fourth sewer project in the Clinton contract calls a line to be laid from Malone avenue north to Compress Road and from Compress Road to the industrial site north of the E. P. Coleman steam plant.

A water main contract let to C B Contractors of Eldon calls for construction of $192,300 in water mains. More than 30 per cent of the work has been completed. The water main from Linn St. along Taylor to Highway 61 North and from Highway 61 North along the highway to the north city limits has been completed.

The C B workers are now putting in a water main on North Kingshighway from Tanner to Wakefield. The line will then extend from Kingshighway along College avenue to Sikes Avenue.

Another project in the same C B contract has not been started. It calls for the construction of water mains from Malone Avenue southward along Maple St. to Virginia St., along highway 61 South, to the South Y, then northward from the South Y to Murray Lane and west on Murray Lane to School St.

Ralph Boyer Construction Co. has just begun construction on a $32,800 contract let to build a sewage lift station at Frisco and Maud streets. It is expected to be completed by the end of October.

Of the work already contracted, three projects to increase the volume and pressure of water to residents of the east section of Sikeston were completed before March 15.

The completed projects are Construction of a one million-gallon ground storage tank opposite the Rail Haven Motel at a cost of $57,600. Construction of a water pumping station at the same site at a cost of $48,500, and construction of 16" water lines from the water treatment plant on Center street to the ground level storage tank on East Malone at a cost of $49,800.

Plans for one of the two expansion projects to be bid yet have been prepared. All plans for the expansion of the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram have been readied. They are in the office of the Water Pollution Board in Jefferson City for review and approval. An application for a construction grant accompanies the plans.

The project calls for doubling the present capacity of the treatment plant. It will cost approximately $250,000. The grant should cover about half the cost, Inman said.

"We expect to hear from the office in Jefferson City in the next week to 10 days," Inman said.

Plans for expansion of the water treatment plan on Center street are expected to be completed in the next 30 days, Inman said.

Hearing in Fatal Shooting Case Delayed

BENTON -- A preliminary hearing set for yesterday in magistrate court into the first degree murder charge against J. C. Woods, Haywood, City, was postponed until next Wednesday.

Woods is charged in connection with the death of Jessie McClinton of Oran.

The hearing was postponed because not all doctors called to testify appeared, Scott County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore said.

The shooting took place on the afternoon of June 30, at the McClinton home in Oran after an incident at Turner's Tavern in Haywood City. Following the shooting, Woods reportedly put McClinton in his car and drove back to the tavern.

Woods died July 1 of a gunshot wound in the chest in the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

Pace Quickens In Lieutenant Governor Race

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis and William S. Morris of Kansas City, candidates for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, were to hold a joint news conference today.

Dowd challenged Morris about a week ago to appear with him before Kansas City newsmen to answer questions about Dowd's charges that Morris is supported by underworld elements in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Dowd scheduled a news conference for that purpose in Kansas City Tuesday, but Morris refused to attend, saying as the challenged party he had the option to set the time and place. He chose Thursday in St. Louis.

Dowd, formerly president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, walked unannounced into a Morris news conference in Kansas City Tuesday night, but the face-to-face meeting did not fully develop.

Another candidate for the lieutenant governor nomination, Jim Shaffer of Kansas City, invited Dowd and Morris to appear with him on television for a debate. He arranged to purchase Sunday air time on St. Louis and Kansas City TV stations to "talk about the real issues." It was not immediately known whether Dowd or Morris would accept the invitation.

Others in the eight-man field for the Democratic nomination stepped into the Dowd-Morris hassle.

State Sen. John E. Downs of St. Joseph said neither Dowd nor Morris has a knowledge of state issues.

Their ignorance of state government is matched only by their greed for public office," Downs said.

Bill Beeny, speaking in Centralia Wednesday, called on the two men to "stop acting like two gossiping old women."

Automobile Accident Injuries Cost Life of Dexter Boy, 15

DEXTER–Kenneth Vaughn Dix, 15, 806 Bain St., died Wednesday night in Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff from injuries suffered in an automobile accident Sunday on one-mile road three miles southwest of Dexter.

The accident occurred at 9 p.m. when a speeding 1963 Falcon, driven by Lindell Miller, 15, Dexter, came to a hill on the gravel road, the state patrol reported.

Kenneth Dix was born Feb. 12, 1953, in Pontiac, Mich.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Dix, Dexter; two brothers, Ronald Dix and Larry Dix, Pontiac; two sisters, Diane and Lisa Dix, his maternal grandparents, Mrs. Pearl Moore, Dexter, and J. R. Fowler, Essex; and his paternal grandfather, Barney Dix, Perks, Ill.

Rainey Funeral Home of Dexter is in charge.

Seven in a 1960 Dodge were injured seriously when their car struck a parked 1964 Ford diesel tractor - trailer, Wednesday at 5:05 a.m., on highway 61, four miles south of Portageville.

The tractor - trailer, driven by Alec Hughes, 48, Lakeland, Fla., had a broken axle, and was halfway on the highway, according to the state patrol with flares placed in front and back.

The Dodge driven south by Mary Carney, 49, East St. Louis, Ill., rammed into the rear portion of the truck.

The driver of the Dodge suffered broken legs, a broken right knee and body cuts. Willie Carney, 51, received a broken left ankle, a head injury and cuts on the face and body; Anthony Carney, 8, received a head injury and cuts on his body. Both are from East St. Louis.

Sandra White, 11, had a brain concussion; Rose White, 51, legs and an arm broken and cuts; Charles White, 55, broken leg, cuts on face, head and body; and Diane Holmes, 3, a broken arm and cuts on her body. All are from Chicago.

The seven from Chicago were taken to the Pemiscot Memorial hospital in Hayti.

At 1:30 a.m. today at the junction of highways 60 and 62, two miles east of Charleston, a two-car collision resulted in injury to one of the drivers.

John Wiget, 53, Huntington, W. Va., driver of a 1964 Dodge, apparently went to sleep. He failed to stop at a stop sign and pulled in front of a 1968 Mac semitrailer, driven by Billie Stegall, 34, Hazelhurst, Miss., the state patrol reported. The two vehicles collided.

Wiget received cuts on his scalp and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Today at 6:40 a.m. at the junction of highway 60 and route T in Butler county one man was seriously hurt and three others injured in a two car collision.

A 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Ralph Daniels, 41, Broseley, made a left turn in front of a 1960 Pontiac, driven by Roger Hopson, 30, Poplar Bluff, the state patrol charged. The two cars collided.

Daniels received a skull fracture, and is in serious condition. A passenger, Elsie Daniels, 38, received cuts on her body.

Hopson received a bump on his head, and a passenger in his car, Bessie Suiter, 19, had cuts and scratches.

Another Steel Firm Joins Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The Pittsburgh Steel Co. announced a general price increase today as smaller producers appeared to be ready to join the price hike parade started Wednesday by the nation's three biggest steel firms.

Pittsburgh Steel, ranked 14th in production, said it was increasing prices from $3 to $10 a ton Aug. 8 on all its products except two types of pipe.

Other producers hinted strongly that they ould follow the lead of the big three-U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic, which raises prices Wednesday only a day after United Steelworkers union won its richest contract ever.

Despite sharp criticism from President Johnson, the steel firms indicated the price hikes will stand.

Post Office Cuts Deleted

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The House sent to President Johnson Thursday a bill exempting most postal employes from the congressional order for a cutback in the number of government workers.

Without the exemption, the Post Office Department said it would have to end Saturday mail deliveries and curtail other service starting this weekend.

The only postal functions now exempt would be the headquarters office in Washington with 1,930 employes and regional offices which now have about 3,200 workers. The department has about 730,000 employes altogether.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson told Congress his department could not handle a personnel cutback because of the increase in its workload.

He said if his agency was not excluded from the mandate, he would have to cut back mail service and close some post offices. He said eventually it would mean a cutback to four-day mail delivery.

Despite cries of blackmail, Congress exempted the Post Office Department.

Nixon Calls for Non-Military Peace Step-up

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon called today for a dramatic step-up in non-military efforts to end the Vietnam war "rather than further escalation on the military front."

In a special Vietnam statement submitted in his behalf to Republican platform writers, the frontrunner for the GOP presidential nomination also urged his party to give "our full support" to the administration's efforts for peace through U.S.North Vietnamese talks at Paris.

And he joined Michigan's Gov. George Romney, who has dropped out of the White House race, in telling the party plankdrafters that they must face up to the Vietnam issue.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of the platform committee which opened hearings Monday, announced the group would buckle down in closed session this afternoon to what he termed the serious business of drafting the party's 1968 policy document. The group hopes to finish the job Saturday well in advance of next week's nominating convention.

House Votes $20,000 Limit on Farm Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, going along with arguments the federal farm program is a bonanza for corporate farmers, has approved a $20,000 ceiling on payments to any one person.

But backers of the farm program said the ceiling would only drive big operators away from the voluntary program, make it unworkable and cripple chances for its extension beyond 1969.

The House approved the $20,000 payments lid on a 230-160 vote Wednesday. Backers of the restriction said 25 large farm operators received payments ranging from $442,327 to $4,091,818 in 1965.

The House then approved a one-year extension of the federal farm production control program beyond its present 1969 expiration.

But Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, who tried unsuccessfully to get the same four-year extension approved by the Senate, said said the Senate would not accept the payments ceiling and there may be no extension at all.

The limitation would apply to all payments to individual farm operators under programs involving wheat, feed grains, cotton and wool, becoming effective in 1970.

The present basic program, which has made possible annual payments of more than $3 billion for land retirement, does not expire until the end of 1968.

The limitation was supported by 137 Republicans and 93 Democrats. It was opposed by 130 Democrats and 30 Republicans. The one - year bill then was passed on a 213-176 vote.

Girl to Be Tried as Adult for Slaying

BENTON -- Margaret Ann Robertson, 14, Sikeston, a juvenile who had been charged in juvenile court of Scott county in connection with the killing of Irvin Williams, 15, Sikeston, will be tried as an adult in the case, Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig said Wednesday.

A hearing to determine if the suspect should be tried as a juvenile, or as an adult was held Wednesday in the circuit court room.

The juvenile court charges against Miss Robertson will be dropped and the prosecuting attorney in office will file charges against her in magistrate court, Scott County Juvenile Officer Fred Glover said. She is in the custody of the Scott county sheriff's department in Benton.

Williams died of a knife wound in the chest on July 21, at 203 Felker.

Johnson Launches Housing Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today the most far-reaching housing act in the nation's history. The measure is the start of the President's goal to wipe out substandard U.S. housing in 10 years.

At the signing ceremonies in front of the curving new headquarters of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Johnson said the new law "can be a Magna Carta to liberate our cities."

The President said the threeyear, $5.4 billion program marks the start of the final stage of a federal commitment to housing that began in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

While Congress has authorized the first stages for the President's program, future Congresses must vote the actual money to make it a reality.

The government apparently will have enough money to finance the early stages of the three-year, $5.4-billion program. But even the current Congress has repeatedly slashed President Johnson's budget requests and its own authorizations. If Congress should still be faced with war and inflation six months from now, appropriations to carry the measure through its second and third years may well be cut back to disable Johnson's 10-year goal of 6 million new and rehabilitated homes.

The key new feature of the bill would help poor families buy homes and its $300 million outlay over the next three years would be the most generous government subsidy ever enacted for such a purpose.

The program's cost, however, is expected to increase greatly from the initial $75 million authorization.

The measure also includes new money authorizations for many existing programs seeking to deal with problems of city slums and the impoverished.

Among these are rent subsidies, low-rent public housing urban renewal, and model cities and a package of aid to help set up whole new towns.

The legislation also wraps in far-reaching new provisions setting up a government insurance corporation to help make policies available to homeowners and businessmen in riot-potential areas and to establish a national flood insurance program.

The Housing and Urban Development Department estimates new subsidy plans should help 500,000 families buy homes in the three years covered by the bill and enable 300,000 to rent suitable apartments.

Under the home ownership plan, the government would subsidize the monthly mortgage payments by paving all of the interest charges above 1 per cent in the case f those with the lowest incomes.

Many home buyers now must pay 7 per cent or more.

Families with incomes of $3,000 to $8,000 are expected to qualify for the subsidies. Down payments could be as low as $200.

The new rental program also would be based on a subsidy covering all interest charges above 1 per cent on apartmenthouse mortgages.

The bill contains dozens of other provisions making significant changes in government housing programs. Among them are:

Czech-Soviet Talks to Be Expanded

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have agreed to discuss the Czechoslovak situation with other communist countries beginning Saturday in the Slovakian city of Bratislava, a communique said today.

The four-day talks of party leaders from Moscow and Prague ended today with a call for the broader meeting including the hard-core Soviet allies who have backed the Kremlin's demand that Czechoslovakia change its liberal course.

Joining the talks in Bratislava will be Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Romania and Yugoslavia were not included in the list.

The meeting that ended today at the Czechoslovak railyards town of Cierna on the Soviet border, the communique said, "was aimed at the search for ways of further developing and strengthening the traditional friendly relations" between the Soviet and Czechoslovak Communist parties and peoples.

The communique did not indicate what if anything, was decided about ways of improving relations. Relations had deteriorated into open Soviet hostility, backed by military maneuvering on the Czechoslovak borders, over the liberal course of Prague's Communist leader, Alexander Dubcek.

The five parties that will meet with Czechoslovak leaders Saturday are the ones that met in Warsaw in mid-July to condemn Czechoslovak liberalization. Dubcek refused to attend that meeting.

The Warsaw meeting sent a letter to Prague saying the cause of defending communism in Czechoslovakia demanded a number of steps that would halt and even reverse liberalization. They included muzzling of Prague's free press.

Dubcek's party rejected the demands. The Russians stepped up their threatening statements and military activities around Czechoslovakia and then met with the Prague leadership last Monday.

The unclear results of the unexpectedly drawn-out talks in Cierna suggested to some Moscow observers an appeal to the broader Communist grouping to consider any settlement of the crisis.

The Czechoslovak press, firmly supporting Dubcek's regime, maintained an air of optimism.

15 Enrolled in Civil Air Patrol Class

Fifteen high school age boys and girls are enrolled in the Civil air patrol. They are under the command of Capt. Hugh McCollum, and receive weekly class instruction.

Assisting in instruction and flight training is Chaplain James L. Estep, a licensed commercial pilot, ground and flight instructor.

After the students reach their proficiency grade in 11 weeks of ground and instrument training, the top students are given 30-minute flight training.

After additional training they become eligible for a solo flight.

It grieves us sorely that our good friend and columnist Dr. A. H. Marshall of many years passed to his reward Monday morning.

We admired the good Doctor for many reasons.

He ran for Congress two times and told the people what they needed to hear and heed.

He ran for President once and gave the people a platform which some future President will be elected on.

The Dr. was many years ahead of his times in thinking and saying.

An outstanding physician and consultant he was kept quite busy before his retirement.

This is the year the Doctor should of been in the running for President, he would of had hundreds of thousand followers and supporters.

One of the favorite sayings of Dr. Marshall was that "many people think I am crazy but none think I am a damn fool."

May the Good Lord rest his soul. We extend our condolances to his children and brothers and sisters.

AN APOLOGY

This editorial is a humble apology to those whose feet we must have stepped on when we criticized Sen. Ed Long in our editorial two weeks ago. Another editor in Shelby County seemed to feel that we were wrong in stating a few of the "short comings" of their favorite candidate "Ethical Ed." This newspaper and this editor feels a responsibility to the readers and the community we serve to give full information and facts concerning a politician who, in our opinion, has not fulfilled his obligations to the citizens of Shelby County and the state of Missouri.

For many weeks we have read of the "enviable record" of Senator Long. We, too, believe it is an "enviable record." Wouldn't it be nice to be a Senator who seldom works at his job of representing Missouri and draws a government salary of $35,000 a year and at the same time receives $30,000 or more per year from a St. Louis union attorney who is associated with James Hoffa, now serving a federal prison term for attempted bribery of a jury. Senator Long is now associated with ex - convict Lawrence Callanan, another St. Louis union leader.

Now for the record: "Quoting from the Congressional quarterly record in 1963 Senator Long was recorded as voting on only 54% of the roll calls between January 9 and November 21. The average for all Democratic Senators was 82%. Senator Symington's score was 85%."

From the National Reform Committee May 1968: "U.S. Senator Edward V. Long of Missouri is classed as a "Needless Spender" of taxpayers' money in a study of 28 Senators eligible for re-election in 1968, made by the National Tax Reform Committee, Washington, D. C. Senator Long has a "useless spending" rating of 94% and a "saving" index of only 6% in the figures released May 13, 1968.

"The Committee's ratings are based on 37 specific measures presented to the Senate the past two and a half years to trim a total of $7.0 billion from the Federal spending requests, as amendments to cut funds or to recommit.

"The analysis shows Senator Long voted to spend $6,577.7 million of tax dollars unnecessarily and to save only $401.0 millions, as he voted on 33 issues. The Senators present and voting were evaluated only an Aye and Nay votes recorded."

From April 1 through May 10 of this year Senator Long was present only 29% of the time at his "job in Washongton." This places him among the lowest in one - the - job representation of the fifty states of the Union. At the other extreme, Senator Stuart Symington had a perfect attendance recorded.

The above are facts and this newspaper and this editor believe that the voters should know how badly they have been represented by our present Senator Ed Long.

The State's number three candidate, True Davis, with all his spending ability has not convinced anyone that he is really "True." He proposes to be the farmer's friend, but wasn't he selling his cattle when the rest of the NFO members were withholding their stock from the market?

The number one selection as far as our State - wide polls are concerned is Lt. Governor Tom Eagleton, the Democrats choice for the nomination for United States Senator. Eagleton is youth, energetic, aggressive and not for sale. To us he is the "White Knight in Shining Armour, the hopes and dreams of an uncorrupt government. A man who will speak the truth and work for the interest of not only Missourians but also the nation as well as the entire world. He is a man who will not ask "what the country will do for him, but what he can do for his country and the world." Tom Eagleton is truly the newest Statesman of this great nation and should be elected to serve his State as U. S. Senator from Missouri.

TWO STATE ENDORSEMENTS

Two primary election contests in Missouri have provided some relief from the hectic, harrowing races for other offices: the Secretary of State contest and the State Treasurer's campaign.

Neither has attracted much attention in Democratic circles primarily because the outcome is a foregone conclusion in one and nearly as obvious in the other.

The incumbent Secretary of State is James Kirkpatrick, former Windsor, Mo., newspaper editor and publisher. Kirkpatrick has a good record in office and, besides that, has no primary opposition. That's the way politicians like to run for office, and Kirkpatrick is in an enviable position for the August 6 election.

The other state office in which there is little interest is that of State Treasurer. Originally there were six men in the race, and then one withdrew, but from the beginning, there actually appeared to be only one serious contender: William E. Robinson, who originally came from Bonne Terre and moved to a state office in Jefferson City several years ago.

Robinson filed early for the four - year office, and secured the tacit support of both Governor Hearnes and some of the original anti - Hearnes groups in state banking circles, headed by Howard Cook, Jefferson City banker. What Robinson told these two groups in order to get their support is still amystery; he has promised this newspaper that he will treat all banks fairly in the matter of state deposits and we are inclined to believe him.

Robinson's chief opponent is L. E. Morris, a Jefferson City pharmacist, who must have gotten into state politics because of the similarity of his name to that of M. E. Morris, the incumbent State Treasurer. Morris is a spunky kind of a guy who appears to enjoy waging political campaigns. We wish him well, but he really has no major support and cannot hope to overcome Robinson's lead.

We must admit that we know little of Robinson, except for the fact that he is a Southeast Missourian, has held several responsible state positions and apparently performed them satisfactorily. He has the tacit blessings of Governor Hearnes and Howard Cook at the same time, so depending upon your point of view, he can't be all bad.

We expect Robinson will perform the rather routine duties of the State Treasurer in a satisfactory manner. If he will be fair - and this he has promised us he intends to be - then he will be an improvement over the present musical chairs arrangement in Jefferson City. Besides, he can only serve one term, and under the rules of the Missouri Constitution cannot succeed himself in office.

We endorse both Kirkpatrick and Robinson and recommend their nomination on August 6.

What has become of the old fashioned school teacher who "boarded around" with the families of her pupils.

It is quite fashionable in reports of drownings to say that the victim was a good swimmer; some even go so far as to use the word "expert."

I have to dissent on use of the words 'good' or 'expert' in most cases, since, by my definition, a good swimmer does not take needless risks, and it is obvious that many drownings are the result of reckless chance - taking.

People dive into water whose depth they do not know, and break their necks on the bottom or submerged objects; they defy swift currents; plunge into water too cold; they neglect to follow the basic rule that there should always be two competent swimmers along - one should never go in alone.

They overload boats, relying on floating cushions to support them if the craft should capsize; they scorn to wear life preservers, and blithely boast that they have jackets in the boat, but a jacket on a thwart is no more value to a man overboard than a parachute hanging in the fuselage of an airplane is to a falling man.

By my definition, a good swimmer is one who observes all safety rules, and avoids trouble so he won't have to prove he's an expert.

NEW YORK (AP) — When our youngest goes off in pursuit of a higher education this fall, we won't be losing a daughter—we'll be gaining one-third of a chair.

Because our living room is crammed with such objects as wall-to-wall bookcases, electric organs and other assorted furniture not made for sitting purposes, there is space for only one easy chair in the entire room.

The coach, it is true, provides seating for three persons, but it is cold, hard and forbidding compared to the deep luxury of that overstuffed chair with broad armrests, which is the real seat of family inactivity.

Since this refuge of comfort also boasts the best reading light in the house, its popularity cannot be overstated. In our home the game of "musical chairs' is constantly in progress.

Should the sittee arise for one brief moment to dash to the kitchen for a snack, the speediest sprinter will find on returning to the chair, that it is already occupied by an alert opponent.

Thus, once a member of our family trio has established squatters' rights, he will endure the pangs of hunger or the boredom of an unwanted television program, rather than risk getting up and losing the seat of honor.

This is not the only cat-andmouse game played by the three of us still occupying the old homestead. Aside from "Chair, Chair, who gets the chair?" another contest is regularly carried out on Sundays.

This one is known as "Who is going to get dressed first, thereby having to go out to buy the Sunday papers?"

In the earlier days of our parenthood, my husband and I had few problems along that line. As soon as the kids could cross the street alone, they were presented with a coin to clutch in a small hand, pointed in the direction of the corner stationery store and told to "fetch."

Later, when they got older, wiser and more mercenary, this maneuver required two coins—one for the papers and the other for the errand boy or girl.

The three of us have been known to stay in our pajamas and robes far into the afternoon, each hoping somebody else will break first. The two nonsports fans have the advantage over the male in our household during the football season—his anxiety to read about the games sometimes leads him to cash in his chips first.

So, although it is nice to look forward to sharing the special chair with only one rival soon, it is also somewhat disturbing to be facing the prospect of having only one alternate in the get-thepaper stakes.

JUDGE THE IMPACT

The medical profession in the United States is exerting every effort to expand its ranks in order to meet the needs of an increasing population and maintain the personal, doctor-patient relationship which is an integral part of the high quality health care available to the American people today. Five new medical schools are opening this fall, and others are increasing their enrollments of beginning medical students. There are now 94 medical schools in operation, eleven more are continuing development programs. By the mid 1970's, they should be graduating over 10,000 students each year. But, these increases will probably not be sufficient to resolve the medical manpower problem. It takes from six to en years from the time it is decided to build a new medical school until the graduation of the first class.

Two things will be critical in maintaining the high standards of American medicine in the years immediately ahead. In the first place, the incentives which encourage dedicated and gifted individuals to enter and complete medical training will have to be maintained and if possible, increased. Secondly, it will be vital that the massive entrance of government into the nation's health care picture, in programs such as medicare and medicaid, not be allowed to ensnare both doctors and patients in an endless, time consuming, efficiency and qulaity-destroying morass of red tape. Unless this can be controlled, as is now being undertaken through amendments to medicare and medicaid legislation, such welfare and health aid programs could go a long way toward bankrupting the country and, at the smae time, destroying the qulaity of medical services availble to the American people.

Legislation alone cannot solve the doctor shortage or provide quality medical care. Government involvement must proceed with restraint and full attention to its real impact on doctors, patients and the future of medicine itself.

The king had arranged a truly regal marriage for his daughter. She had married the crown prince of their rich and powerful neighboring country and this union held great promise to unite these two nations.

Although the king was delighted with the ceremony, he was bothered by the cold, correct formality with which the young couple treated each other. Troubled that the union may not be a success, he posted a spy outside of the bridal chamber to report on the wedding nights events.

The next morning the king's spy reported as follows: "I couldn't really tell how well they got along because of their odd behavior. As they entered the chamber the Princess said, "I offer you my honor" and the prince replied, "Madame, I honor your offer." And that is the way it went all night long—honor, offer, honor, offer."

ABOUT CLOTHES'

Belt-wearers should smooth waistline of shirt toward back after tightening the belt. This eliminates wrinkles and bulging of the bosom....There's no grooming flaw that will spoil the looks of a suit more than sleeves that are too long. See that at least ¼ inches to ½ inches of shirt cuff shows...Wear your belt buckle to the side, instead of directly in the front. The elimination of this little bulk will make you look better - and your jacket will fit better.

AMERICA'S RAILROADS have "jumped into the Cybernetic Age with both feet--and they've landed on the run," said Thomas M. Goodfellow, president of the Association of American Railroads.

"They've been making themselves lean, hard and efficient for the important work that lies ahead," he explained.

They builds up their ego to the sky, till it gets top heavy, then topples. When a nation gets so cocky they count God out thats the last straw.

H.L. Hunt Says

REDUCTION IN SPENDING OR SERVICES?

The American public is beginning to see the result of the Administration's so-called cut in spending; the reciprocal action taken by it in order to obtain the 10% Surcharge on Income Tax Returns.

Instead of reducing spending in foreign markets and exorbitant domestic - social programs the federal bureaucrats have established an overall reduction in governmental agency spending.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson disclosed in Washington that not only would the Saturday home delivery of mail be halted as is slated, but that domestic delivery would also be cut to four days at a later date. Also, Saturday window service at postal stations is to be eliminated to a great extent and pick - up service on Saturday is to be reduced to the present frequency on Sunday.

Apparently, the Administration is going to lower the weight of the entire battle against the federal deficit on the taxpayer. Not only will the citizen be required to pay - in more money in income tax, but he will also be penalized by a reduction in service that he is already paying twice to receive.

The problem of the expense in running a postal service by the government is one in itself that could be corrected by taking it completely out of the government's hands and placing it in the personal enterprise system as a public service.

But to remedy this problem is not the point at hand. The federal government is still spending money where the major part of the deficit is originating. Its efforts at sidestepping the real issues and proceedings as it pleases is continuing and can only be stopped by the public demanding that it do so. HLH.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Congressional ethics continue lax despite fine-sounding code; Newsman's expose reveals lobbies still dictate to "Hill"; Vital social programs cut but 3,000 miles of new highway voted.

WASHINGTON--The American public can thank Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register for another illustration of unethical conduct by Congress in publishing a detailed report on the manner in which the trucking lobby subsidized certain key Congressmen. In return, highly favorable trucking legislation has just been passed or recommended by Congress.

Earlier this year, Jack Anderson--now in Miami getting ready for the GOP convention--and I wrote a book "The Case Against Congress," which probed into some of the unethical conduct of Congressmen. When the book's galley proofs were circulated in advance to members of the senate ethics committee the effect was stimulating.

Suddenly, after weeks of procrastination, the ethics committee threw off its lethargy and recommended a code of ethical standards. This was promptly passed. The house of representatives also acted.

Despite this, ethics in both houses of Congress continue about the same, as illustrated by the scandalous manner in which Congress has recently bowed to the trucking lobby, the highway lobby, the meat lobby and the gas pipeline lobby.

Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register have exposed the trucking lobby in regard to a bill limiting the amount of commercial freight hauled by farm cooperatives, now signed into law; also in regard to a bill doubling the size of triple trailer trucks on interstate highways from 73,280 pounds to 138,000 pounds. They have revealed that a total of $40,000 was contributed to the campaign kitties of key Congressmen to oil the legislative wheels for these two bills.

THE HIGHWAY LOBBY

Equally important, possibly more so, is the federal highway bill which has been in a two-week Hassle between the House and Senate committees, with Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., refusing to sign the report because it was stacked in favor of the trucking, cement and freeway lobbies.

As written in the House, the bill limited Lady Bird's beautification program, undermined the protection of parks, historical sties, game refuges, etc., and cracked down completely on the right of the courts and local planning commissions to hold up freeways which they didn't want.

The House bill also voted 3,000 extra miles of interstate highways at a cost of several billion (with the federal government paying 92 per cent) at a time when the House has demanded a cutback of $6 billion, chiefly from education, antipoverty, housing and other economic and social welfare programs.

Significantly, the House of Representatives bowed to the highway lobby much more than did the senate. And it was in the house that the truckers dumped most of their money.

Rep. George Fallon of Baltimore, Democratic Chairman of the Pulbic Works committee which handled the highway bill, got $1,000 from the truck operators nonpartisan committee. Rep. Sam Friedel, another Baltimore Democrat and a key member of the interstate commerce committee, got $1,000 in 1966, $750 in April 1968 and $250 in May 1968. Rep. John Kluczynski, Chicago Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee which voted out the highway bill, got $3,000 from the same truckers' committee.

The following members of the important Public Works committee got $1,000 each from the truckers committee: John Blatnik, D-Minn., and William Ha..ha, R-Ohio. The following got $500 each: Robert E. Jones, Ala.; James Wright, Texas; Kenneth gray, Ill.; Frank Clark, Pa.; Harold Johnson, Calif.; W.J.B. Dorn, S.C.; Arnold Olsen, Mont.; Ray Roberts, Texas; James Kee, W.Va.; all Democrats; with Republicans James Grover, N.Y.; Roger Zion, Ind.; Charlotte Reid, Ill.

These are the contributions to members of the House Public Works committee only and do not include money given to key members of other committees or to senators. Significantly, Rep. Richard McCarthy, the Buffalo Democrat who put up the chief battle inside the Public Works committee against the trucking lobby, was given a wide berth by the truckers. They considered him hopeless.

OTHER LOBBYING GIMMICKS

There were other interesting cimmicks which influenced the highway bills besides money, however, which Nick Kotz did not mention.

Rep. William Harsha, the Ohio Republican, not only got $1,000 from the truckers, as revealed by Kotz, but his law firm represents Greyhound Bus, as revealed in the book "The Case Against Congress." Greyhound, of course, is one of the biggest highway users in the USA.

Last month, when this column reported on his favors for the highway lobby, Rep. Kluczynski issued a pious statement that he had never heard of Harold Wirth of Firestone Rubber, the leading lobbyist for highways; that he did not associate with lobbists and never accepted contributions from them.

Now it develops that Kluczynski accepted $3,000 from the truckers; also addressed the American road builders convention Feb. 23, 1965, in Washington, and March 12, 1967, in Miami, for which he was paid expenses and a fee. Finally Harold Wirth, whom "he never heard of," was a witness before Kluczynski's committee on April 4, 1068.

Kluczynski has been one of the most consistent opponents of Lady Bird's beautification program, a champion of billboards, and an indefatigable exponent of concrete thruways regardless of where local planning commissions want them located.

Actually, the freeway bill just passed is an unnecessary piece of legislation. It was rushed through now because the lobbyists wanted to cash in on their lobbying investments and weren't sure whether they will have the same docile committee after November. The bill weakens both the present highway law and the department of transportation. President Johnson is being urged to take a stand against the lobbyists and for congressional ethics by vetoing the bill.

Inside Labor

BOLDEST EXPERIMENT

'Buddy System' Pilot Project Set To Take Each Of Half Million Hardcore Workers By the Hand.

Cleveland: -- The blood's off the sidewalks. The dead have been buried. And lots of folk feel the ricocheting fusillades are here to stay like traffic noise. But it could be that the two societies are not really whirling madly away from each other.

There are those who try to bind them closer. This jittery lakeside city has been turned on by bullets, but deep behind the gory headlines, news appears to be in the making which may yet make up for the cries of the wounded and the mourning of the widow.

In this city, long before the shoot-out, labor, management and community leaders have been conferencing on something called "the buddy system."

For weeks now in Cleveland, as in Houston, Milwaukee, Atlanta, and Portland, Ore., they have been developing a pilot project which, if successful, will put an experienced worker -- a buddy -- alongside each of ten of thousands of alienated, disadvantaged, often sulking, newly - hired hardcore unemployed.

This "buddy system" -- or one - for - one -- was devised by the national AFL-CIO's Community Services Director Leo Perlis, of Washington, D. C., who for years has tried to cut straight paths out of the big city jungles.

Perlis, like all those who are not all bone from ear to ear, recognized that the National Alliance of Businessmen could provide half a million jobs for the hardest hardcore, the runners of street gangs, the quasi-literate, the denizens of a thousand lost worlds.

But then what? How do you keep them in the world of work?

Perlis, with the full support of AFL-CIO President George Meany (whose slogan is: Don't demonstrate, just knock at the right doors), reckoned that the inner men and women of the ghastly central cities need individual attention on the job.

And only the massive labor federation could supply the manpower on a one-to-one basis. So five cities were chosen for a series of pilot projects to take the hardcore citizenry by the hand, individually get them to the factory, run interference on the plant floor, make the contact with the shop steward, foreman and supervisor, and protect the newly - hired black and Spanish - speaking workers before they retreat again.

So in these five communities, orientation conferences were scheduled for July. Executives, of union and non - union industry, community services and welfare officials and labor leaders were invited to long parleys.

The buddy system was explained -- and approved. It is to be a tripartite operation -- the AFL-CIO, the Labor Dept., and the National Alliance of Businessmen.

Now, all through August there will be buddy training sessions. These men have been selected. They are volunteers. They will not receive a penny for expenses.

If they have to spring for a cup of coffee and a sandwich, or taxi fare, or for a bus transfer, it will come out of their pockets.

Their assignment will be to train themselves to help the hardcore worker sustain himself psychologically, emotionally and educationally as a worker and citizen.

The buddy will make certain that his hardcore partner will get to whatever community health, welfare, recreation and educational facilities he needs.

For the buddies, this will require intense training. It won't come easy. The hardcore aren't accustomed to being taken by the hand personally. Most of the time it has either been a and out or a grab-out.

For the buddy, the long training hours will be jammed with lectures, visual aid presentations, philosophical lectures by the academic people -- and psychodramas. The buddy will be placed alongside another buddy impersonating the hard core-ite. They will improvise under the eyes of slum sociologists.

In September, the buddies will join their hardcore partners on the job. For a month the one - for - one system will be tried deep in central citys, in union halls, in plant cafeterias and on the production line.

To make certain that the alienated hardcore denizen isn't in retreat because of some physical problem, he'll be given medical examinations, eyeglasses, hearing aides, and any other help long neglected.

In October, Leo Perlis and his partners in government and management will evaluate the buddies operation. If it works, the AFL-CIO will recruit tens of thousands of its members to "pal up" with as many new hardcore employes.

If the project has failed, if the alienated dump their buddies, or vice versa, then a lot of good fellows will have sweated it out for naught.

But then, at least, let no one say that one world did not try to take a less fortunate world by the hand.

Exibition Football Season Underway Tonight

By The Associated Press

Pro football has passed another cutdown date with several minor trades, many rookies sent packing and a few star holdouts, star injuries and star retirements. And now it's away we go with the start of the exhibition season tonight.

The Washington Redskins play Houston under the Astrodome and the New Orleans Saints meet the Los Angeles Rams in Anaheim, kicking off the preseason schedule, followed by the College All-Star struggle against Green Bay Friday night.

Four more games are set for Saturday: the Chicago Bears and Dallas at Canton, Ohio, in the afternoon, and Baltimore at Oakland, San Francisco at San Diego and Kansas City at Cincinnati at night.

The Redskins will be without Sonny Jurgensen, the National Football League's 1967 passing champion who is recuperating from arm surgery. Veteran Jim Ninowski and rookie Harry Theofiledes will replace him while last year's Heisman Trophy winner, Gary Beban, plays for the College All-Stars.

The Oilers, last season's Eastern Division champs in the American League, are supposed to be stronger with quarterback Pete Beathard starting the season with them.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the first football game in the Astrodome, and they'll see no extra points kicked. The teams will test a new system in which all extra points must be made by passing or running.

The Rams rule the favorite over the Saints, despite the absence of key personnel. Defensive end Deacon Jones and offensive end Jack Snow are involved in contract disputes and defensive end Lamar Lundy and linebacker Maxie Baughan are recuperating from off-season surgery.

Coach George Allen also said he won't play runnings backs Dick Bass and Tommie Mason in order not to risk injury.

Brock Takes Two on Bunt, Scores Winner

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
By The Associated Press

It's not often a runner scores from second base on a bunt, but Lou Brock did it for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Phillies Wednesday night.

It happened in the seventh inning and turned out to be the winning run as the National League leaders beat the Phils 3-2 to close out July with a 24-6 record.

Brock singled in the seventh and stole second. Julian Javier bunted along the third base line and Philadelphia pitcher Woody Fryman picked up the ball and got Javier at first. Meanwhile, Brock never broke stride around third and easily beat the throw home.

Only one week from tonight and the 1968 Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo opens at the arena, north of the airport.

A number of top cowboys are expected to be vieing for some $5,000 in cash prizes and entry fees.

This year's rodeo star is "Festus" Hagan, co-star of the Gunsmoke TV series.

One of the largest baseball tournaments to be conducted in Sikeston opens Monday at Puckett field as the 13th annual 11 & 12 year old tournament gets underway with 14 vieing for top honors.

Included in the list are three teams from Sikeston, the American and National All-Stars and the National Aces along with teams from Richland, Morley, Bell City, Oran, Charleston, New Madrid, Dexter, Portageville, Chaffee and Cairo, Ill.

Three games are set for first round play Monday and Tuesday.

A poll conducted among the nation's sportswriters and sportscasters before the 1968 baseball season started shows the current leaders, Detroit in the American and St. Louis in the National in first place.

Compare the standings with those in today's paper.

STARS

PITCHING - Danny McLain, Tigers, blanked the Senators on four hits and struck out nine for his 21st victory against only three losses.

In the American League, Detroit blanked Washington 4-1, the New York Yankees topped Boston 7-3, Baltimore beat Cleveland 4-2, the Chicago White Sox outlasted Minnesota 12-8 and Oakland took California 4-1 and 4-3 in a twi-night twin bill.

Mike Shannon doubled in the first St. Louis run and Brock singled home the other. Clay Dalrymple's sacrifice fly and Richie Allen's single produced the runs for the Phillies, who have lost four straight and 15 of the last 18.

It was all Hank Aaron in Atlanta's victory over New York. The Braves slugger doubled home his club's first two runs and then snapped a 2-2 tie with an RBI single.

Cincinnati scored four runs in the first inning on singles by Pete Rose, Vada Pinson and Tony Perez, Johnny Bench's double and an error en route to its first-game victory.

Pittsburgh came back to take the nightcap with a 16-hit attack and the second triple play in the major leagues in two days.

After Lee May and Perez walked in the fourth inning, Tommy Helms lined to shortstop Gene Alley. Alley threw to second baseman Bill Mazeroski, doubling up May, and Mazeroski threw to first to get Perez. Ron Hansen of Washington made an unassisted triple play Tuesday night against Cleveland.

Roberto Clemente hit a tworun homer and first baseman Donn Clendenon a solo shot and a triple to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

The Cubs, who slammed five home runs Tuesday, continued their heavy hitting by clouting four more against Houston. Ernie Banks hit two and now has 460 in his career. Billy Williams and Jim Hickman smacked the others.

Trailing 3-1 in the eighth, the Dodgers rallied for five runs on two hits and a series of Giant misplays. Two runs scored when Joe Gibbon uncorked a bases-loaded wild pitch and catcher Dick Dietz made a wild throw back to the plate, and Frank Linzy forced home the go-ahead run with a bases-loaded walk to Bob Bailey.

Bull Riding...A Challenge

A bucking bull in the rodeo area is a ton of death-dealing earthquake. He's highly capable of crippling or killing his rider.

The rewards for staying aboard this monster of fury can be small -- when only the prize money is considered.

Yet there are hundreds of bull riders today -- members of the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association -- who almost daily flirt with death for the right to try one out.

Ron Rossen, 30, a well-groomed Broadus, Mont., rancher-cowboy, has twice been the nation's bull riding champion. Once he was runner-up, always he's a title threat.

From Rossen--a 5-foot, 10-inch powerhouse who ripples most of his 165 pounds into a heavily-muscled upper torso-comes the philosophy of a bull rider.

"It's the challenge," said the soft-sopken champion. "Money isn't the big part of riding bulls. Just thinking about a certain bull a few days beforehand, it's a hell of a feeling; knowing you've got to get on him, knowing you can get hurt . . . you can get butterflies, or sweat in the palms of your hands."

For Rossen it's the competition. It's an inner drive that compels him to prove that he is capable of tangling with a tornado -- and conquering it.

"I've always had it in my mind that bull riding is the most dangerous event, and I've always treated it that way," Rossen said. "I know you can damned sure get killed; that makes you more careful. I don't fear them, but they can hurt you if you make a mistake."

Rossen feels a bull rider survives through determination and self-confidence.

"A bull is born to bread and to eat, and not to ride. He doesn't want somebody on his back, and will try his best to get the rider off."

He compared the frightening strength of a bull: "I've never had hold of a 30-foot lariat that's tied to a freight train going 100 miles per hour, and then having it hit the end of that slack, but I'd guess that's what bull riding compares with."

Rossen, who had ridden perhaps 2,000 bulls in his 15 years of competition, has seen cowboys killed in the arena, yet he has somehow escaped prolonged injury himself.

Rossen said he "cracked a jaw" when his hand "hung up" in the bull rope at the 1959 National Finals Rodeo; in the 1961 NFR, "a bull ran over me and ruptured my liver." He's also had plastic surgery near one eye, the result of a 1965 NFR encounter.

Why three NFR injuries? It's been said that when the husky Rossen grips a bull rope, nothing short of dynamite shakes him loose. In the NFR--the World Series of rodeo--Rossen's highly competitive spirit seems to settle in his fist.

"I'm trying to stay up there when I should release, and don't," he grinned. "I'm just trying to win. I'm not saying it's the smartest thing to do, but I know what I can do and what I'm capable of. If I get in a real bad storm, I'll turn loose-sometimes."

When the chute gate opens, Rossen waits for the bull to make the first move. He doesn't charge the animal.

"I keep my eyes toward the horns; whichever way his head goes, usually his body will follow. You've got to have the split second instinct of knowing what he's going to do, and that comes from experience."

Rossen, married is the father of three children. He'll try to prove himself against the best bucking bulls in the nation. Why? Maybe it's similar to what causes a man to climb a mountain.

For all the excitement of a rodeo, attend the 1968 edition of the Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo starting next Thursday and running with night performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a Sunday matinee.

Computer Expedites the News At Miami-Chicago Conventions

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Quicker than a delegate can say, "Mr. Chairman," The Associated Press will speed news from the national political conventions this summer into a computer in New York City and on to newspapers across the country.

Robert Fiveash R. V. Jenkins

Before the delegate can finish expounding the virtues of his "great and glorious state," the first of the story will be coming out of newspaper typesetting machines.

In many instances, stories will originate from a sending station right on the convention platform. Other stories and pictures will move from the AP pressrooms in the convention halls and from special workrooms set up in hotels.

The AP will transmit an estimated 40-50,000 words per day from the Republican convention which begins Aug. 5 at Convention Hall in Miami Beach and from the Democratic convention which starts Aug. 26 at the International Amphitheatre in Chicago.

This speed and efficiency will result from months of planning and preparation and from the use of the latest communications equipment.

Thousands of miles of additional AP news and photo circuits have been set up for the convention. An elaborate system of telephones is being installed to connect AP newsmen at the convention with all candidates and leaders.

John J. Byrne, AP communications manager, headed the communications planning team, which began with a review of AP performance at the 1964 conventions. Communications operations will be directed by Robert Fiveash, Miami traffic bureau chief, at the Republican convention, and by R.V. Jenkins, Chicago traffic bureau chief, at the Democratic convention. Planning is down to the finest detail, such as installing phones with a flashing light signal instead of a bell in the convention halls to eliminate the possibility of disturbing a speaker.

This year, for the first time at a national political convention, the AP will send stories over a special wire to New York and into a computer which electronically hyphenates words and sets lines to newspaper column width. Many important speech texts and stories will be handled in this manner.

AP headquarters outside the convention halls will be the Fontainebleau in Miami Beach and the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

AP's main "A" Wire will be brought right onto the platform at the convention floor and other AP work areas. Stories can be transmitted on this nationwide circuit as they happen. This wire carries important news from all over the world, and AP editors and reporters will be able to keep abreast of outside developments that could affect the convention.

The news service also will provide news printers for use by the staffs of about 40 of its members at the conventions.

To facilitate coverage of delegates from each section of the country, AP communications specialists have arranged for four regional circuits which will carry special stories to the East-South, Midwest, Southwest and Far West. Special AP reporters are assigned to the delegations.

More than a dozen transmitters will be set up to send newsphotos into AP's nationwide Wirephoto network, to regional areas and for special transmissions to AP members. There will be times during the heat of the conventions when all transmitters will be in operation at once.

In all, the AP will have more than 150 reporters, editors, photographers and others at each convention. Behind them will be the technicians who will make certain that convention news reaches AP members within minutes after it happens.

Kennedy Book Nearly Ready

The last pages of our new close-to-the-news book, "Triumph and Tragedy, the Story of the Kennedy," are coming off the press at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Shipment of some of the 250,000 copies already ordered by this and other Associated Press newspapers and by their readers will be made next week; the rest will be shipped just as fast as possible, within a week or two.

Production of this out-size, handsome volume has proved more time consuming than first expected because of the vast amount of research involved, because the book has been increased in size successively from 190 to 224 pages, and then to 254 pages, and because the number of black and white and color illustrations has been increased to about 150.

It's going to be well worth waiting for. Its brilliantly written text of about 95,000 words provides a sweeping panorama of the spectacular rise of this Irish immigrant family to the peaks of power, wealth and fame-and tragedy.

For you to be sure to get your copy, you should order at once if you have not already done so. There is no increase in the special price of $3 originally announced. Write Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo., Box 66, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. 126.

Gasoline Blast Injures 32

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A gasoline storage tank exploded Wednesday night, rocketing a huge fireball into the air and burning 32 persons.

Four of the injured were reported in critical condition today. Hospitals kept two dozen under treatment overnight.

The ground level tank, filled with 5,000 gallons of gasoline, blew up a service station, the Red Ball Gas House, on U.S. 287 in suburban Kennedale, five miles southeast of Fort Worth.

Witnesses estimated the ball of fire reached 200 feet in diameter as it shot 125 feet aloft.

Firemen and employes at the service station said a small blaze started an hour earlier from a leak as a tank truck pumped fuel into the station's underground tanks.

They said this presumably spread to the surface tank and the eruption followed. There were nearly 20 smaller blasts as cans of oil and other fuel also exploded.

WELLS, England (AP) — An ultrasonic dental drill was used by Richard Scott, a ceramics conservator on the staff of London's Victoria and Albert Museum, to remove corrosion and deposits of lime and lichen from a 13th century stained glass window in Wells Cathedral. The drill was never allowed to touch the window. Instead a tiny jet of water carried ultrasonic vibrations, 25,000 a second, to the working surface.

Campaign to Recall Reagan Termed Failure

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Two California officials have termed "a colossal failure" the campaign to force a recall election to remove Gov. Ronald Reagan from office and blunt his presidential prospects.

Unofficial reports from 20 counties, including the most populous, showed 491,096 signatures on petitions to put the recall question on the Nov. 5 ballot—short of the 780,414 required by the deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The tally was far below the 950,000 signatures that organizers of the recall move claimed to have gathered in a six-month campaign conducted while Reagan's supporters were pushing him for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I've had faith in the common sense of the people of California and that faith is vindicated," Reagan told newsmen in Sacramento after flying in from Miami Beach, Fla., where he spoke to the GOP National Convention Platform Committee.

Backers of the recall had accused Reagan of incompetence.

Attack on Allied Ships Blamed on Radar Errors

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command confirmed today that erroneous radar readings and poor coordination among the services caused the air-sea snafu in June when allied ships were mistaken for enemy helicopters and nine American and Australian sailors were lost.

It was believed at the time that North Vietnamese helicopters for the first time had been used at the east end of the demilitarized zone, but the report by the U.S. Command said that no evidence has been produced of enemy helicopter action near the DMZ.

The report said so far there appeared to be no grounds for disciplinary action against anyone.

The allied planes on separate occasions actually hit the U.S. cruiser Boston and the Australian destroyer Hobart and sank a U.S. Navy patrol boat. Three other patrol craft were fired on but were not damaged. Two Australian sailors were killed and seven wounded; the bodies of two of the crewmen of the U.S. patrol boat were recovered, while five other crewmen are missing.

Ground Broken for Portageville Church

PORTAGEVILLE - Sunday members of the First Church of God broke ground for a sanctuary which will seat close to 400. The estimate cost of the building will be close to $100,000.

The architect firm of Buchmiller, Whitworth, Faust and Associates of Sikeston have drawn the plans and Paul Phillips Construction Co., will supervise Construction.

In the actual ground breaking service vice chairman of the Building Committee, Bill Hayes, reviewed the Building Program since the church's inception in 1898 and then Mayor Richardson gave words of commendation to the church for this another cornerstone in its history.

Then the Building Committee led the entire congregation to the place of construction where the ground was officially broken by the following members: Barry Richardson, chairman; Bill Hayes, vice chairman; Oliver Dale, treasurer; Don Underwood, secretary; Raymond Davidson, Herman Eiceman, Ward Hanna, Jesse Hatchel, Paul Phillips, and Pete Townsend.

It is the hope of the church to have a dedication service sometime in the Spring or early Summer. The First State Bank of Cruthersville has already committeed themselves toward a loan for this project which has been the dream of many members for close to twenty years.

It is believed they are in the Dexter area, the patrol stated but had not been located Monday.

Four Sentenced to Death in Gang Slaying

BOSTON (AP) — Four men were sentenced Wednesday to death for murder—the first time in Massachusetts history that many were convicted and sentenced at one time.

The four, along with two others who got life when the jury recommended the death penalty not be imposed, were convicted after a 46-day trial in Suffolk Superior Court in connection with the gangland slaying of Edward "Teddy" Deegan in 1965.

Given the death penalty were Louis Grieco, 51, of Peabody, convicted of murder in the first degree; Henry Tameleo, 67, of Cranston, R.I.; Peter Limone, 38, of Medford, and Ronald Casseso, 36, of Somerville, convicted of being accessories before the fact of murder.

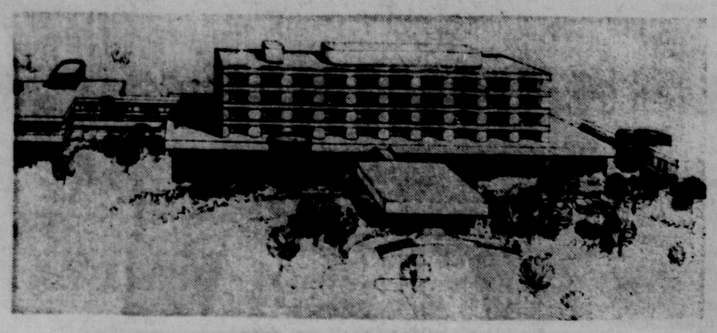

The death sentences were stayed pending appeals.

ARTIST'S CONCEPT of new Lourdes Hospital in Paduach.

New 254-Bed Hospital To Be Built in Paducah

PADUCAH - Construction of a new Lourdes hospital is enxpected to begin in August, the Drake Partnership, a St. Louis architectural firm, announced Wednesday.

The hospital, to be intially a 254-bed expansion to 400 beds, will take about two years to complete.

Architect Cecil Drake, partner in charge of the project, reported that a community mental health center also will be built and will be connected to the new hospital by a passageway.

Construction cost of the hospital and mental health center is $8.1 million. General contractor for the project is the Manhattan Construction Co. of Memphis.

Eventually, a medical office complex will be developed on the same site of 39 acres in residential Paducah.

Drake described the project as a "completely integrated medical facility," the only one of its kind in the entire region. The facility will provide additional hospital services for the Bootheel region of Missouri and Southern Illinois.

The new hospital will be completely air conditioned, including the kitchen, laundry and maintenance shop.

All patient rooms will be contained in a tower designed for vertical expansion. Each of these patient bathrooms with showers.

All of the ancillary facilities, such as X-ray, surgery, laboratory and out-patient emergency departments will be on the lower level which can be expanded horizontally.

The project has been planned so that day patients at the mental health center may have their meals in the hospital and hospital patients may use the facilities of the mental health center, such as the recreation and rehabilitation facilities. The mental health center will be financed by separate funds from the state, federal government and an eight-county Mental Health District.

PAUL FLOWER'S GREENHOUSE

As a wise man said, the human being is a perverse animal. The man who said that also was an astute student of psychology.

Only recently, I encountered an assoicate who has bought a mountainside in the Ozarks, with the intent of building a hideaway only slightly less pretentious than the President's spread on the Pedernales. This parcel of real estate rears at sharp angle form the horizontal, and it is thickly strewn with rocks which date back to some remote geological age when the Oriskany formation was young and soft.

There is hardly a square inch of it where he could penetrate with a mattock or pickax; the rocks are fitted together almost as securely as the tile floor in your bathroom.

It was obvious that when time came to excavate for a foundation, and level off the plot for a yard, it would require dynamite, double-strength bulldozers, and considerable determination to shift this geological debris, and my friend shuddered at the prospect of cost.

After several sleepless nights, psychology came to his rescue, and he suspected, rightly it developed, that man's basic nature is more powerful than du Pont's blasting powder or Dick Trippeer's roaring Diesel monsters.

The next day, the owner sought out a sign painter and provided the copy for a sign to be posted in a conspicuous spot in full view of the road from both directions. It read:

"Please do not molest or remove rocks from this lapidarium. They assay out at $379 a ton of the rare Euphoria-X mineral, a chemical vital to manufacture of nose cones of space vehicles, for re-entry into the Earth's atmosphere on return from Venus. Thank you."

As soon as the paint was dry, he erected the sign on a large oak tree, and eased himself into a guilly to watch for results.

He had guessed right. The first party of passersby paused, read the request, parked, and committed trespass in the first degree. They just had to have some of that rock so rich in Euphoria-X.

Before the sun had set visitors had carried away three tons of rocks, and a free enterpriser with vision had gone to the courthouse and taken an option on mineral rights to 7,000 acres adjoining. Next he consulted his attorney and set in motion preliminary steps toward forming a corporation, the Ozarks Euphoria-X Company, Inc., and he reserved for himself 90 per cent of the stock, common and preferred.

The owner of the plot on which the sign hung refused to sell even mineral rights, and daily there appeared tourists, free enterprisers, and prophets of progress, to load their cars with these "precious" stones.

By the end of the week the hillside was as bare of rocks as a section of Desha County alluvium, and the owner's place was cleared perfectly for his lodge, so he took his savings and went to Hot Springs for a month.

All of which recalls Mark Twain's observation that if the serpent had been forbidden to Mother Eve in the Garden of Eden, all her heirs and assigns would have been snake eaters.

Pipeline Project Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $25,462,000 pipeline project by the Mississippi River Transmission Corp., St. Louis, was approved Wednesday by the Federal Power Commission.

Nearly 200 miles of line in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana were authorized under a permanent certifcate.

The commission said the project is designed to correct a situation which could lead to a serious natural gas shortage in the St. Louis area this winter. Two 5.5-mile lines in the St. Louis area, costing $1.5 million, were given permanent authority.

The commission said that under a temporary certificate costs may not be included in the company's rate base without further authority, a protection for consumers.

The project is opposed by coal industry representatives.

The FPC announcement said the project will increase Mississippi's natural gas transmission capacity by 100 million cubic feet a day to meet customer requirements in Akansas, Illinois and Missouri.

The commission limited the amounts of additional gas that Mississippi may deliver to Laclede Gas Co., which distributes in the St. Louis area.

Power Line Needed for Noranda, Davis Asserts

Location of a Sho-Me Power Corp. line across the scenic Current River in Shannon County became an issue in Missouri's hotly contested campaign for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator yesterday.

True Davis of St. Joseph took issue with Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton's action opposing the State Public Service Commission's decision to let the Show-Me power line cross the river.

Davis said the line should be built to aid southeastern Missouri's industrial boom.

He said that the power was needed for the Noranda Aluminum Inc. complex at New Madrid and for other industrial development in Southeast Missouri.

In a speech given to the Lions club Davis said:

"Scenic preservation and electrical power are seemingly at times on a collision course in our rapidly developing world. There are times when each must concede to immediate needs without giving up ultimate goals, in order to expedite priority considerations. In my opinion, sound judgment indicates this is one of those times and unlike the lieutenant governor, I feel the concession here should be in favor of southeastern Missouri's industrial development."

As a result of objections to locating the line across the Current, at the point previously approved by the PSC, the case has been re-opened but no new decision has been reached.

TRUE DAVIS, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, arrived in a chartered plane at the Sikeston airport Wednesday, for a two-day campaign swing through the Bootheel in behalf of his candidacy. He spoke at the Lions club Wednesday and went to other counties by automobile.

This will prevent Laclede's industrial customers from receiving more gas than they are getting now. The FPC said this was to protect coal interveners pending final determination of the case.

Power Hearings Have Bearing on Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- Hearings conducted Wednesday concerning a power transmission line running from the Arkansas - Missouri state line to Reynolds county, can have a direct bearing on the economic future of Southeast Missouri.

C. E. Boulson, general manager of Sho - Me Power Corp., said power from the line will be used by the Noranda Aluminum plant to be erected in New Madrid county until the city of New Madrid can construct its power generating plant.

Boulson said that the new line will also furnish back - up power for Noranda in case of trouble with the city's proposed $70,000,000 generating plant.

He said time is of essence so power can be supplied both to Noranda and the Lead Belt area of south central Missouri.

The manager said Noranda will buy power from Associated Electric Co., until the generating plant is erected. He said Associated will then buy power from the generating plant to build up the supply of power for south central Missouri.

The transmission line, which is part of a complex of lines running from Norfolk Dam in Arkansas in Reynolds County, is being opposed by various agencies because the line is routed to cross the Current River in the Ozark National Scenic Riverways.

Sho - Me contends the line will augment the system of electrical power distribution in Missouri and will help avoid power failures in the south and central and southeast portion of Missouri.

The power corporation has already received premission from the State Public Service Commission, which is conducting the hearings which started last week and are expected to continue for about three weeks, and the U. S. department of the Interior to run the line through the protected scenic area in south central Missouri.

Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall approved the project only on the condition that the crossing point be moved .7 mile north of Round Spring, a recreation area for canoeists and boatsmen. The original crossing point was a mile south of Round Spring.

The federal agency also made the permit on the grounds that Sho - Me place the line underground or abandon it within 25 years. The company is currently hand - trimming the trees so the line will not disturb the wilderness of the scenic area.

Among the agencies fighting the crossing, are the Missouri State Inter - Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation, the Conservation Federation of Missouri, Ozark Wilderness Waterways, Club, Missouri Association, and the National Audubon Society.

Their main contention is that Sho - Me could route the line around the scenic area and preserve the beauty of the area.

After Udall granted the permit, Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton rekindled the issue by asking him to withdraw his approval of the crossing and Udall refused.

REMEMBER THE 1960-1964 SMEAR CAMPAIGN AGAINST GOVERNOR WARREN E. HEARNES?

OUR FRIEND
W. S. "BILL" MORRIS
Democratic Candidate for Lt. Governor

Edward L. Dowd has abandoned the issue and resorted to mud-slinging smear tactics in an attempt to tie W. S. "Bill" Morris, his chief opponent, to the underworld. The same smear tactics were used against Governor Hearnes in the bitterly contested gubernatorial race of 1964.

Will you, the voter, reward a candidate that assassinates the character of his opponent by voting for him?

For the record:

Bill Morris - entered the Army as a private, discharged as a major; awarded Silver Star, Bronze Star, Air Medal.

Bill Morris - appointed Board of Election Commissioner by Governor Blair, appointed Public Administrator of Jackson County by Governor Dalton, appointed to Senate Redistricting Commission by Governor Hearnes.

Bill Morris - an experienced lawyer, served as vice president of Kansas City Bank, is president of Kansas City Blues, is vice-president and manager of Phillips Hotel.

Don't let smear tactics elect our Lt. Governor.
Beware the candidate that slings mud.
In the 1968 election let Southeast Missourians again prove that "He who slings mud, loses ground."

The Outlook for Business

For the last six months of 1968

Robert S. Ingersoll
Appliance Industry

So far, 1968 is proving to be an even better year for appliance sales than we forecast last December, and indications are that the second half will continue this trend.

We estimate that factory shipments of major home appliances through the first six months will total 12.9 million units compared with just under 11.7 million in the first half of 1967. That is a gain of 10 per cent, and we were expecting a rise of only about 7 per cent. There are many factors which have led to this strong performance to date.

(1) Personal income in 1967 was a record $626.4 billion and in the first half of this year is expected to have averaged an annual rate of about $662 billion. Mors importantly, disposable income was also a record $544.7 billion last year and in the first half of 1968 averaged an annual rate of about $570 billion.

(2) Expanding employment and a longer workweek are principal factors in rising personal income. Employment has been running at a monthly average of around 76 million, and unemployment is at an almost practical bottom of 3.5 per cent.

(3) Wage gains averaged nearly 6 per cent last year, and there is no indication that the rate of gain will decline in 1968. A 13 per cent increase in social security benefits in March raises personal income $3.2 billion for 1968, and government pay increases in December and the February increase in the minimum wage level also add to consumer buying power.

Even though consumers are continuing to save at just below the high rate of 1967, when they saved 7.1 per cent of thie rincome, the build-up of liquid assets which occurred in 1967 should result in a greater willingness to spend. Retail sales are running about 10 per cent ahead of a year ago which, when inflation is taken into consideration, still amounts to a strong 6 per cent increase in real terms. And with consumer buying at this brisk pace, the danger of inventory accumulation, which occurred to some extent late in 1967, is relieved. With incomes continuing to rise and a record backlog of financial assets, consumers could spend more than $80 billion for durables this year, including automobiles.

Although money for home mortgages is likely to remain tight through 1968, the situation is not nearly as severe as it was in 1966. And demand for housing is strong. The rate of private nonfarm housing starts this year is running at an annual rate of 1.4 to 1.5 million units and may even exceed 1.5 million for the year. This is a good rise from last year's low level of 1.3 million and is, of course, an encouraging sign for the appliance industry. At the same time, the replacement market remains strong.

Almost all signs point to continuing increases in sales of home appliances in the second half although gains may not be as dramatic as in the first half. We look for factory shipments of major appliances, including room air conditioners, to total 12,250,000 units in the second half—up 800,000 units, or 7.6 per cent, from the second half of 1967. We expect the greatest growth in terms of percentage to come from dishwashers, with a 15 per cent, and refrigerators up 5 per cent. This could make the full year one of the best on record for the appliance industry, with factory shipments rising more than 9 per cent over last year to better than 25 million units.

Incidentally, we feel that at least part of the reason for the growth in appliances is the improved engineering, performance, and reliability which consumers are seeking. In certain product areas, notably larger refrigerators and washers, colored units now represent more than 50 per cent of sales. Automatic clothes dryers with special settings for permanent press materials that eliminate the need for ironing have come on the market recently, and now dryers with greatly increased capacity are appearing. With permanent press clothing becoming more popular, demand for dryers with special settings to handle the material is growing. And, of great importance to the consumer, warranties on appliances are being extended because of improved engineering, and the need for service is being reduced.

Sales of electronic home entertainment equipment have been rather spotty in the first half although demand for color television has been quite strong with gains exceeding 12 per cent. The second half is the big period for this industry, and with the economy strong and sales of consumer durables increasing, the outlook continues bright.

While we are generally optimistic about the outlook for appliance sales and the economy, there are danger signs. Although the federal government is taking steps to decrease the record budget deficit and to reduce inflation with a tax increase and a budget cut, it is still pursuing an inflationary fiscal policy. Inflation at this time is a very real danger, and it is being heightened by labor settlements in which wages and fringe benefits are increasing well in excess of gains in productivity.

LAVATORY IS KEY IN TODAY'S BATHROOM

Few rooms in your home have undergone as big a change in the past decade as the bathroom. It used to be a compact room with the three basic fixtures of tub, lavatory and water closet, and people spent a minimum amount of time in it in the performance of their ablutions and personal hygiene.

Today the bathroom is as important as any room in the house. It's bigger, is furnished according to a specific decorator theme and has become a status symbol. It's a place for relaxation as well as utility.

All this is reflected in the products available, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. Take the lavatory, for example, around which the bathroom's decor is usually built. Here's what's available:

1. There's a strong trend to vanity lavatories instead of "free standing" ones. The bowl is sunk into a countertop that's convenient for setting out grooming aids. The space underneath, formerly "wasted," is now a storage cabinet. The cabinet and countertop themselves come in an infinite variety of styles or colors, enabling you to really customize your room. Many bathrooms now have twinbowl vanities.

2. The bowls can be almost any color, a subdued pastel or a strikingly brilliant one. You can get bowls decorated with a large variety of flower, classic, modern, etc. designs. They're fired into the enamel and do not wear off.

Honorable Mayor and City Council
City of Sikeston
Sikeston, Missouri

Gentlemen:

We have examined the statement of assets and liabilities of the general fund of the City of Sikeston as of April 30, 1968, and the related statement of revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. In connection therewith, we have reviewed the system of internal control and the accounting procedures of the city and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, have examined or tested accounting records of the city and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of the City of Sikeston at April 30, 1968, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES H. BUCHER
Certified Public Accountant

Ann Landers

Good Children Credit to Both Parents

Dear Ann Landers: I have two friends -- both widows. I like these women very much--until they get on the subject of their families. I am sick to death listening to them brag about their sons -- how smart and successful they are, what great fathers they are to their children. Then they start in on their daughters - in - law. They are dumbbells -- no family background, lazy, incompetent, can't do anything right. From there they go on to rave about their grandchildren. They are the most thoughtful, considerate, most popular kids in town. Everyone remarks on their beautiful manners.

Yesterday I stood it as long as I could. Finally I said, "Please tell me how come the children turned out so well when they had such lazy, dumb mothers?" They lit into me and insisted that the children had been trained by their fathers.

I have six wonderful grandchildren, Ann, and although my son is a fine person, I know his wife deserves 85 per cent of the credit. Please print my letter and comment. --FAIR IS FAIR

Dear Fair: When you see thoughtful, considerate, well - mannered children, it's a pretty safe assumption that both parents worked together to bring up those kids properly. The influence of the mother is usually the greatest, since she is the one who spends most of her time directing and disciplining the children in their formative years. I say your thinking is more nearly correct than your friends.

Dear Ann Landers: May I respond to "Old Starchy" -- the R. N. who complained about the way patients treat people who staff hospitals? She said, "Illness does not give a patient the right to be abusive or downright nasty to those whose job it is to take care of them."

Fortunately, Old Starchy's viewpoint "genuinely nice people remain nice in spite of pain and misery" is not shared by the majority of hospital people. Hospital administrative and medical staffs have long recognized that illness can alter one's personality remarkably. May I offer a paragraph from our Personnel Handbook?

"In working with the sick and injured, remember that you are dealing with persons in exceptional circumstances. Such a person is often upset by actions and events which he would not notice under normal circumstances. You will discover that many patients have fears and resentments which may manifest themselves in irritability, uncooperativeness and apprehensiveness. Remember what is routine for you may be a grave emergency in the minds of a patient or his family. Courtesy, kindness and, above all, patient understanding are the best weapons you have for overcoming these problems."

Old Starchy seems to have forgotten the creed of the health team. We are neither paragons of detached professionalism nor impersonal tools of technology. We are simply people caring for people. -- MRS. N. L., HADLEY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL; HAYS, KANSAS

Dear Mrs. N. L.: We need more people like you. Thanks for writing.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self - addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Cold Heifers No Fault Of Low Down Bull

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Farmer Brown raised cattle but with a low brow status. In fact, he owned one Angus that wasn't only low brow, but was low down as well. Casually strolling into Farmer Brown's pasture, the Angus had a dalliance with several of Farmer Brown's untouched heifers, and Farmer Brown claimed the experience so disturbed them that they refused to have anything to do with bulls thereafter.

Outraged, Farmer Brown sued Bumstead for damages.

"Since a cow can't breed by osmosis," he complained in court, "the value of my heifers for breeding purposes has been destroyed, and Bumstead is as much to blame as his bum of an Angus. He shouldn't have permitted his phlandering bull to go cavorting amongst my young and naive heifers."

"Bulls will be bulls," was Bumstead's answer. "It's not my fault that my Angus suddenly became amorous. Besides, there's no proof that Brown's heifers were any of the worse from the experience or that the intrusion of my Angus his heifers might never have appreciated the attention of a bull. They might have been latent bull - haters."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Bumstead pay for the phlandering of his Angus?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that there was insufficient evidence to establish the reason for the apparent loss of the capacity of Farmer Brown's heifers to breed; that the cause was speculative and damages cannot be awarded on speculation. The verdict might be otherwise, noted the judge, if Farmer Brown had proven that his heifers shunned other bulls because of the phlandering of Bumstead's Angus.

Lambeth to Direct M.U. Graduate Scribes

COLUMBIA -- Dean Earl F. English of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri - Columbia, has announced the appointment of Edmund B. Lambeth as associate professor of journalism to direct the school's new Washington, D. C., graduate reporting program.

Lambeth, 36, has been Washington correspondent for the Gannett Newspaper group for the last six years. He has a total of 15 years' experience in reporting public affairs.

Dean English said the program - which begins in September and offers 11 hours credit - will enable candidates for master's degrees to develop their competence further in understanding and reporting public issues in depth.

The student reporters will file stories with the Columbia Missourian, published at the School of Journalism, and each will serve as a special Washington correspondent for a newspaper or a radio or television station in his home area. Each student will have a turn at covering the Missouri congressional delegation as well as news events on capitol hill and in the executive departments.

The major portion of the students' time will be spent gathering material and reporting in depth on such issues as housing and urban development, civil rights, science and public policy, education, and environmental pollution.

The curriculum will bring students in contact, through individual and group interviews, with senators, congressmen, federal administrators, scholars, state and local officials, and lobbyists. The class also will meet informally with members of the Washington press corps.

On August 6, the people of Missouri can choose a U.S. Senator destined for greatness.

WIN WITH Tom Eagleton

We need Tom Eagleton's vigor, his intelligence, his keen sense of justice. Most of all, we need his fresh solutions to today's problems

A seat in the United States Senate can't be bought. It has to be earned.

As our Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General and as Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, Tom Eagleton has earned the respect and confidence of the people of Missouri—and national recognition as one of America's outstanding young leaders.

With your help, Tom Eagleton offers a brilliant future of service—not just to the special-interest few, but to all Missourians.

As our United States Senator, Tom Eagleton will continue to make Missouri proud.

"...we favor his nomination..."

"Mr. Eagleton at 38 is in his prime. He was an exceptionally able Circuit Attorney, an exceptionally able Attorney General, an exceptionally able Lieutenant Governor. Having thus gone through a rigorous period of political training, he is ripe for higher office, and Missouri would be the loser if his talents were not made use of."

Today In U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Aug. 1, the 214th day of 1968. There are 152 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1914, Germany declared war on Russia at the outbreak of World War I.

On this date:

In 1502, Christopher Columbus landed in what is now Honduras.

In 1659, a Puritan who was a member of the British Parliament, William Prynne, began a crusade against women's bobbed hair, saying it went past "shame, past modesty, grace and nature."

In 1876, Colorado was admitted to the Union as the 38th state.

In 1907, the U.S. Army established an aeronautical division which developed into the Army Air Force.

In 1944, American troops in France drove from Normandy into Brittany.

In 1946, the Atomic Energy Commission was established.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower rejected a Soviet proposal for a five-power summit meeting to deal with a Middle East crisis.

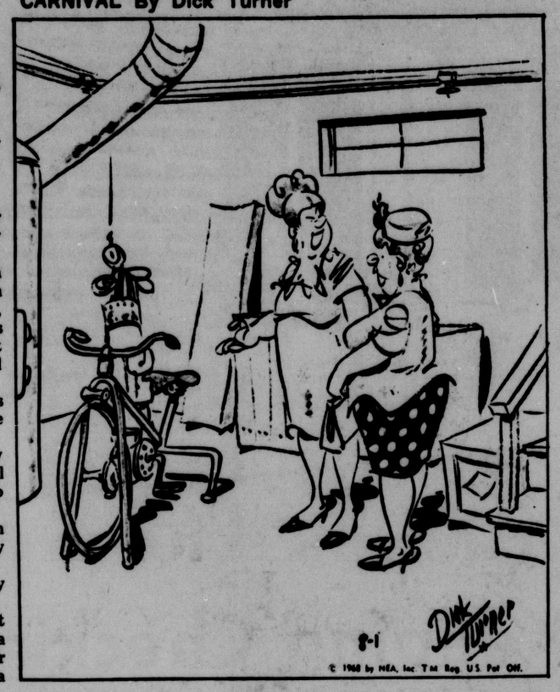

Five years ago: President John F. Kennedy said a continuation of Communist China's policies could create a situation more dangerous than any facing the world since World War II.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE steel elevated water storage tank near the E. P. Coleman Steam Plant is complete. Only painting and sterilizing are required. Water mains will have to be constructed to the site before it is operational. The water tank is one of several projects the city is engaging to improve its water and sewer service to residents and the industrial site north of Compress Road near the water tower above.

City, Industry to Benefit From Water, Sewer Projects

Several water and sewer construction projects to benefit Sikeston residents and industry, both new and existing, are underway now, or will be soon. A portion of the work has been completed.

The Board of Municipal Utilities in its meeting Wednesday night voted to recommend the city council accept the apparent low bid for additional construction of water and sewer projects of $831,663.35 submitted July 18, by Refractory Construction Inc. of Tulsa, Okla.

The recommendation will contain a stiuplation that acceptance of the low bid will depend on approval of the contracts by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, E. R. Inman, director of the Sikeston Light & Water Co. said.

The bids have been reviewed by William G. Riddle & Associates of Kansas City, consulting engineer for the city.

The water and sewer projects will be in all parts of town. The work is authorized by the passage of water and sewer bonds totaling $1,200,000 in 1965. A federal matching grant of $982,000 also has been received to help the city improve and expand its water and sewer service.

To date, the city has let contracts for improvements totaling $571,000. If the apparent low bid is contracted, the total work under contract will amount to $1,402,663.35. The only contracts yet to be bid are for the expansion of the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram and the water plant on Center street.

The 500,000-gallon steel elevated water storage tank on Northwest St. costing $121,500 is constructed. Painting and sterilization of the inside of the tank remains to be done. While the tank will be ready in the next 30 to 60 days, it will not be operational until 12" water mains are laid to it from Salcedo Road and from Malone Avenue. The water main work is bid in the Refractory contract presently under consideration.

The sewer construction contract that has been let to Clinton Construction Co. is about 30 per cent completed, Inman said. The contract calls for the contruction of $168,500 in four sewer construction projects: Sewer work from Taylor street to the north city limits along Highway 61 North is completed except for a few road crossings, Inman said.

The sewer project from Clayton Avenue to Malone & Hyde has not bee started yet. Work has just begun on a sewer line to be laid from Malone Avenue to Canvas Products. The fourth sewer project in the Clinton contract calls a line to be laid from Malone avenue north to Compress Road and from Compress Road to the industrial site north of the E. P. Coleman steam plant.

A water main contract let to C B Contractors of Eldon calls for construction of $192,300 in water mains. More than 30 per cent of the work has been completed. The water main from Linn St. along Taylor to Highway 61 North and from Highway 61 North along the highway to the north city limits has been completed.

The C B workers are now putting in a water main on North Kingshighway from Tanner to Wakefield. The line will then extend from Kingshighway along College avenue to Sikes Avenue.

Another project in the same C B contract has not been started. It calls for the construction of water mains from Malone Avenue southward along Maple St. to Virginia St., along highway 61 South, to the South Y, then northward from the South Y to Murray Lane and west on Murray Lane to School St.

Ralph Boyer Construction Co. has just begun construction on a $32,800 contract let to build a sewage lift station at Frisco and Maud streets. It is expected to be completed by the end of October.

Of the work already contracted, three projects to increase the volume and pressure of water to residents of the east section of Sikeston were completed before March 15.

The completed projects are Construction of a one million-gallon ground storage tank opposite the Rail Haven Motel at a cost of $57,600. Construction of a water pumping station at the same site at a cost of $48,500, and construction of 16" water lines from the water treatment plant on Center street to the ground level storage tank on East Malone at a cost of $49,800.

Plans for one of the two expansion projects to be bid yet have been prepared. All plans for the expansion of the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram have been readied. They are in the office of the Water Pollution Board in Jefferson City for review and approval. An application for a construction grant accompanies the plans.

The project calls for doubling the present capacity of the treatment plant. It will cost approximately $250,000. The grant should cover about half the cost, Inman said.

"We expect to hear from the office in Jefferson City in the next week to 10 days," Inman said.

Plans for expansion of the water treatment plan on Center street are expected to be completed in the next 30 days, Inman said.

Pace Quickens In Lieutenant Governor Race

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis and William S. Morris of Kansas City, candidates for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, were to hold a joint news conference today.

Dowd challenged Morris about a week ago to appear with him before Kansas City newsmen to answer questions about Dowd's charges that Morris is supported by underworld elements in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Dowd scheduled a news conference for that purpose in Kansas City Tuesday, but Morris refused to attend, saying as the challenged party he had the option to set the time and place. He chose Thursday in St. Louis.

Dowd, formerly president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, walked unannounced into a Morris news conference in Kansas City Tuesday night, but the face-to-face meeting did not fully develop.

Another candidate for the lieutenant governor nomination, Jim Shaffer of Kansas City, invited Dowd and Morris to appear with him on television for a debate. He arranged to purchase Sunday air time on St. Louis and Kansas City TV stations to "talk about the real issues." It was not immediately known whether Dowd or Morris would accept the invitation.

Others in the eight-man field for the Democratic nomination stepped into the Dowd-Morris hassle.

State Sen. John E. Downs of St. Joseph said neither Dowd nor Morris has a knowledge of state issues.

Their ignorance of state government is matched only by their greed for public office," Downs said.

Bill Beeny, speaking in Centralia Wednesday, called on the two men to "stop acting like two gossiping old women."

Girl to Be Tried as Adult for Slaying

BENTON -- Margaret Ann Robertson, 14, Sikeston, a juvenile who had been charged in juvenile court of Scott county in connection with the killing of Irvin Williams, 15, Sikeston, will be tried as an adult in the case, Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig said Wednesday.

A hearing to determine if the suspect should be tried as a juvenile, or as an adult was held Wednesday in the circuit court room.

The juvenile court charges against Miss Robertson will be dropped and the prosecuting attorney in office will file charges against her in magistrate court, Scott County Juvenile Officer Fred Glover said. She is in the custody of the Scott county sheriff's department in Benton.

Williams died of a knife wound in the chest on July 21, at 203 Felker.

Automobile Accident Injuries Cost Life of Dexter Boy, 15

DEXTER--Kenneth Vaughn Dix, 15, 806 Bain St., died Wednesday night in Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff from injuries suffered in an automobile accident Sunday on one-mile road three miles southwest of Dexter.

The accident occurred at 9 p.m. when a speeding 1963 Falcon, driven by Lindell Miller, 15, Dexter, came to a hill on the gravel road, the state patrol reported.

The driver lost-control, went off the road and his car overturned. Dix, a passenger, received internal injuries and his sister, Diane Dix, 13, suffered a fractured wrist, cuts and bruises.

Kenneth Dix was born Feb. 12, 1953, in Pontiac, Mich.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Dix, Dexter; two brothers, Ronald Dix and Larry Dix, Pontiac; two sisters, Diane and Lisa Dix, his maternal grandparents, Mrs. Pearl Moore, Dexter, and J. R. Fowler, Essex; and his paternal grandfather, Barney Dix, Perks, Ill.

Rainey Funeral Home of Dexter is in charge.

Seven in a 1960 Dodge were injured seriously when their car struck a parked 1964 Ford diesel tractor - trailer, Wednesday at 5:05 a.m., on highway 61, four miles south of Portageville.

The tractor - trailer, driven by Alec Hughes, 48, Lakeland, Fla., had a broken axle, and was halfway on the highway, according to the state patrol with flares placed in front and back.

The Dodge driven south by Mary Carney, 49, East St. Louis, Ill., rammed into the rear portion of the truck.

The driver of the Dodge suffered broken legs, a broken right knee and body cuts. Willie Carney, 51, received a broken left ankle, a head injury and cuts on the face and body; Anthony Carney, 8, received a head injury and cuts on his body. Both are from East St. Louis.

Sandra White, 11, had a brain concussion; Rose White, 51, legs and an arm broken and cuts; Charles White, 55, broken leg, cuts on face, head and body; and Diane Holmes, 3, a broken arm and cuts on her body. All are from Chicago.

The seven from Chicago were taken to the Pemiscot Memorial hospital in Hayti.

At 1:30 a.m. today at the junction of highways 60 and 62, two miles east of Charleston, a two-car collision resulted in injury to one of the drivers.

John Wiget, 53, Huntington, W. Va., driver of a 1964 Dodge, apparently went to sleep. He failed to stop at a stop sign and pulled in front of a 1968 Mac semitrailer, driven by Billie Stegall, 34, Hazelhurst, Miss., the state patrol reported. The two vehicles collided.

Wiget received cuts on his scalp and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Today at 6:40 a.m. at the junction of highway 60 and route T in Butler county one man was seriously hurt and three others injured in a two car collision.

A 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Ralph Daniels, 41, Broseley, made a left turn in front of a 1960 Pontiac, driven by Roger Hopson, 30, Poplar Bluff, the state patrol charged. The two cars collided.

Daniels received a skull fracture, and is in serious condition. A passenger, Elsie Daniels, 38, received cuts on her body.

Hopson received a bump on his head, and a passenger in his car, Bessie Suiter, 19, had cuts and scratches.

Another Steel Firm Joins Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The Pittsburgh Steel Co. announced a general price increase today as smaller producers appeared to be ready to join the price hike parade started Wednesday by the nation's three biggest steel firms.

Pittsburgh Steel, ranked 14th in production, said it was increasing prices from $3 to $10 a ton Aug. 8 on all its products except two types of pipe.

Other producers hinted strongly that they ould follow the lead of the big three-U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic, which raises prices Wednesday only a day after United Steelworkers union won its ricnest contract ever.

Despite sharp criticism from President Johnson, the steel firms indicated the price hikes will stand.

Post Office Cuts Deleted

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The House sent to President Johnson Thursday a bill exempting most postal employes from the congressional order for a cutback in the number of government workers.

Without the exemption, the Post Office Department said it would have to end Saturday mail deliveries and curtail other service starting this weekend.

The only postal functions now exempt would be the headquarters office in Washington with 1,930 employes and regional offices which now have about 3,200 workers. The department has about 730,000 employes altogether.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson told Congress his department could not handle a personnel cutback because of the increase in its workload.

He said if his agency was not excluded from the mandate, he would have to cut back mail service and close some post offices. He said eventually it would mean a cutback to four-day mail delivery.

Despite cries of blackmail, Congress exempted the Post Office Department.

House Votes $20,000 Limit on Farm Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The House, going along with arguments the federal farm program is a bonanza for corporate farmers, has approved a $20,000 ceiling on payments to any one person.

But backers of the farm program said the ceiling would only drive big operators away from the voluntary program, make it unworkable and cripple chances for its extension beyond 1969.

The House approved the $20,000 payments lid on a 230-160 vote Wednesday. Backers of the restriction said 25 large farm operators received payments ranging from $442,327 to $4,091,818 in 1966.

The House then approved a one-year extension of the federal farm production control program beyond its present 1969 expiration.

But Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, who tried unsuccessfully to get the same four-year extension approved by the Senate, said said the Senate would not accept the payments ceiling and there may be no extension at all.

The limitation would apply to all payments to individual farm operators under programs involving wheat, feed grains, cotton and wool, becoming effective in 1970.

The present basic program, which has made possible annual payments of more than $3 billion for land retirement, does not expire until the end of 1968.

The limitation was supported by 137 Republicans and 93 Democrats. It was opposed by 130 Democrats and 30 Republicans. The one - year bill then was passed on a 213-176 vote.

Nixon Calls for Non-Military Peace Step-up

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) -- Richard M. Nixon called today for a dramatic step-up in non-military efforts to end the Vietnam war "rather than further escalation on the military front."

In a special Vietnam statement submitted in his behalf to Republican platform writers, the frontrunner for the GOP presidential nomination also urged his party to give "our full support" to the administration's efforts for peace through U.S.North Vietnamese talks at Paris.

And he joined Michigan's Gov. George Romney, who has dropped out of the White House race, in telling the party plankdrafters that they must face up to the Vietnam issue.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of the platform committee which opened hearings Monday, announced the group would buckle down in closed session this afternoon to what he termed the serious business of drafting the party's 1968 policy document. The group hopes to finish the job Saturday well in advance of next week's nominating convention.

Johnson Launches Housing Program

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Johnson signed today the most far-reaching housing act in the nation's history. The measure is the start of the President's goal to wipe out substandard U.S. housing in 10 years.

At the signing ceremonies in front of the curving new headquarters of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Johnson said the new law "can be a Magna Carta to liberate our cities."

The President said the threeyear, $5.4 billion program marks the start of the final stage of a federal commitment to housing that began in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

While Congress has authorized the first stages for the President's program, future Congresses must vote the actual money to make it a reality.

The government apparently will have enough money to finance the early stages of the three-year, $5.4-billion program. But even the current Congress has repeatedly slashed President Johnson's budget requests and its own authorizations. If Congress should still be faced with war and inflation six months from now, appropriations to carry the measure through its second and third years may well be cut back to disable Johnson's 10-year goal of 6 million new and rehabilitated homes.

The key new feature of the bill would help poor families buy homes and its $300 million outlay over the next three years would be the most generous government subsidy ever enacted for such a purpose.

The program's cost, however, is expected to increase greatly from the initial $75 million authorization.

The measure also includes new money authorizations for many existing programs seeking to deal with problems of city slums and the impoverished.

Among these are rent subsidies, low-rent public housing urban renewal, and model cities and a package of aid to help set up whole new towns.

The legislation also wraps in far-reaching new provisions setting up a government insurance corporation to help make policies available to homeowners and businessmen in riot-potential areas and to establish a national flood insurance program.

The Housing and Urban Development Department estimates new subsidy plans should help 500,000 families buy homes in the three years covered by the bill and enable 300,000 to rent suitable apartments.

Under the home ownership plan, the government would subsidize the monthly mortgage payments by paving all of the interest charges above 1 per cent in the case f those with the lowest incomes.

Many home buyers now must pay 7 per cent or more.

Families with incomes of $3,000 to $8,000 are expected to qualify for the subsidies. Down payments could be as low as $200.

The new rental program also would be based on a subsidy covering all interest charges above 1 per cent on apartmenthouse mortgages.

Czech-Soviet Talks to Be Expanded

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have agreed to discuss the Czechoslovak situation with other communist countries beginning Saturday in the Slovakian city of Bratislava, a communique said today.

The four-day talks of party leaders from Moscow and Prague ended today with a call for the broader meeting including the hard-core Soviet allies who have backed the Kremlin's demand that Czechoslovakia change its liberal course.

Joining the talks in Bratislava will be Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Romania and Yugoslavia were not included in the list.

The meeting that ended today at the Czechoslovak railyards town of Cierna on the Soviet border, the communique said, "was aimed at the search for ways of further developing and strengthening the traditional friendly relations" between the Soviet and Czechoslovak Communist parties and peoples.

The communique did not indicate what if anything, was decided about ways of improving relations. Relations had deteriorated into open Soviet hostility, backed by military maneuvering on the Czechoslovak borders, over the liberal course of Prague's Communist leader, Alexander Dubcek.

The five parties that will meet with Czechoslovak leaders Saturday are the ones that met in Warsaw in mid-July to condemn Czechoslovak liberalization. Dubcek refused to attend that meeting.

The Warsaw meeting sent a letter to Prague saying the cause of defending communism in Czechoslovakia demanded a number of steps that would halt and even reverse liberalization. They included muzzling of Prague's free press.

Dubcek's party rejected the demands. The Russians stepped up their threatening statements and military activities around Czechoslovakia and then met with the Prague leadership last Monday.

The unclear results of the unexpectedly drawn-out talks in Cierna suggested to some Moscow observers an appeal to the broader Communist grouping to consider any settlement of the crisis.

The Czechoslovak press, firmly supporting Dubcek's regime, maintained an air of optimism.

15 Enrolled in Civil Air Patrol Class

Fifteen high school age boys and girls are enrolled in the Civil air patrol. They are under the command of Capt. Hugh McCollum, and receive weekly class instruction.

Assisting in instruction and flight training is Chaplain James L. Estep, a licensed commercial pilot, ground and flight instructor.

After the students reach their proficiency grade in 11 weeks of ground and instrument training, the top students are given 30-minute flight training.

After additional training they become eligible for a solo flight.

City, Industry to Benefit From Water, Sewer Projects

Several water and sewer construction projects to benefit Sikeston residents and industry, both new and existing, are underway now, or will be soon. A portion of the work has been completed.

The Board of Municipal Utilities in its meeting Wednesday night voted to recommend the city council accept the apparent low bid for additional construction of water and sewer projects of $831,663.35 submitted July 18, by Refractory Construction Inc. of Tulsa, Okla.

The recommendation will contain a stiuplation that acceptance of the low bid will depend on approval of the contracts by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, B. R. Inman, director of the Sikeston Light & Water Co. said.

The bids have been reviewed by William G. Riddle & Associates of Kansas City, consulting engineer for the city.

The water and sewer projects will be in all parts of town. The work is authorized by the passage of water and sewer bonds totaling $1,200,000 in 1965. A federal matching grant of $982,000 also has been received to help the city improve and expand its water and sewer service.

To date, the city has let contracts for improvements totaling $571,000. If the apparent low bid is contracted, the total work under contract will amount to $1,402,663.35. The only contracts yet to be bid are for the expansion of the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram and the water plant on Center street.

The 500,000-gallon steel elevated water storage tank on Northwest St. costing $121,500 is constructed. Painting and sterilization of the inside of the tank remains to be done. While the tank will be ready in the next 30 to 60 days, it will not be operational until 12" water mains are laid to it from Salcedo Road and from Malone Avenue. The water main work is bid in the Refractory contract presently under consideration.

The sewer construction contract that has been let to Clinton Construction Co. is about 30 per cent completed, Inman said. The contract calls for the contruction of $168,500 in four sewer construction projects: Sewer work from Taylor street to the north city limits along Highway 61 North is completed except for a few road crossings, Inman said.

The sewer project from Clayton Avenue to Malone & Hyde has not bee started yet. Work has just begun on a sewer line to be laid from Malone Avenue to Canvas Products. The fourth sewer project in the Clinton contract calls a line to be laid from Malone avenue north to Compress Road and from Compress Road to the industrial site north of the E. P. Coleman steam plant.

A water main contract let to C B Contractors of Eldon calls for construction of $192,300 in water mains. More than 30 per cent of the work has been completed. The water main from Linn St. along Taylor to Highway 61 North and from Highway 61 North along the highway to the north city limits has been completed.

The C B workers are now putting in a water main on North Kingshighway from Tanner to Wakefield. The line will then extend from Kingshighway along College avenue to Sikes Avenue.

Another project in the same C B contract has not been started. It calls for the construction of water mains from Malone Avenue southward along Maple St. to Virginia St., along highway 61 South, to the South Y, then northward from the South Y to Murray Lane and west on Murray Lane to School St.

Ralph Boyer Construction Co. has just begun construction on a $32,800 contract let to build a sewage lift station at Frisco and Maud streets. It is expected to be completed by the end of October.

Of the work already contracted, three projects to increase the volume and pressure of water to residents of the east section of Sikeston were completed before March 15.

The completed projects are Construction of a one million-gallon ground storage tank opposite the Rail Haven Motel at a cost of $57,600. Construction of a water pumping station at the same site at a cost of $48,500, and construction of 16" water lines from the water treatment plant on Center street to the ground level storage tank on East Malone at a cost of $49,800.

Plans for one of the two expansion projects to be bid yet have been prepared. All plans for the expansion of the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram have been readied. They are in the office of the Water Pollution Board in Jefferson City for review and approval. An application for a construction grant accompanies the plans.

The project calls for doubling the present capacity of the treatment plant. It will cost approximately $250,000. The grant should cover about half the cost, Inman said.

"We expect to hear from the office in Jefferson City in the next week to 10 days," Inman said.

Plans for expansion of the water treatment plan on Center street are expected to be completed in the next 30 days, Inman said.

Hearing in Fatal Shooting Case Delayed

BENTON -- A preliminary hearing set for yesterday in magistrate court into the first degree murder charge against J. C. Woods, Haywood, City, was postponed until next Wednesday.

Woods is charged in connection with the death of Jessie McClinton of Oran.

The hearing was postponed because not all doctors called to testify appeared, Scott County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore said.

The shooting took place on the afternoon of June 30, at the McClinton home in Oran after an incident at Turner's Tavern in Haywood City. Following the shooting, Woods reportedly put McClinton in his car and drove back to the tavern.

Woods died July 1 of a gunshot wound in the chest in the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

Pace Quickens In Lieutenant Governor Race

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis and William S. Morris of Kansas City, candidates for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, were to hold a joint news conference today.

Dowd challenged Morris about a week ago to appear with him before Kansas City newsmen to answer questions about Dowd's charges that Morris is supported by underworld elements in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Dowd scheduled a news conference for that purpose in Kansas City Tuesday, but Morris refused to attend, saying as the challenged party he had the option to set the time and place. He chose Thursday in St. Louis.

Dowd, formerly president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, walked unannounced into a Morris news conference in Kansas City Tuesday night, but the face-to-face meeting did not fully develop.

Another candidate for the lieutenant governor nomination, Jim Shaffer of Kansas City, invited Dowd and Morris to appear with him on television for a debate. He arranged to purchase Sunday air time on St. Louis and Kansas City TV stations to "talk about the real issues." It was not immediately known whether Dowd or Morris would accept the invitation.

Others in the eight-man field for the Democratic nomination stepped into the Dowd-Morris hassle.

State Sen. John E. Downs of St. Joseph said neither Dowd nor Morris has a knowledge of state issues.

Their ignorance of state government is matched only by their greed for public office," Downs said.

Bill Beeny, speaking in Centralia Wednesday, called on the two men to "stop acting like two gossiping old women."

Automobile Accident Injuries Cost Life of Dexter Boy, 15

DEXTER--Kenneth Vaughn Dix, 15, 806 Bain St., died Wednesday night in Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff from injuries suffered in an automobile accident Sunday on one-mile road three miles southwest of Dexter.

The accident occurred at 9 p.m. when a speeding 1963 Falcon, driven by Lindell Miller, 15, Dexter, came to a hill on the gravel road, the state patrol reported.

The driver lost-control, went off the road and his car overturned. Dix, a passenger, received internal injuries and his sister, Diane Dix, 13, suffered a fractured wrist, cuts and bruises.

Kenneth Dix was born Feb. 12, 1953, in Pontiac, Mich.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Dix, Dexter; two brothers, Ronald Dix and Larry Dix, Pontiac; two sisters, Diane and Lisa Dix, his maternal grandparents, Mrs. Pearl Moore, Dexter, and J. R. Fowler, Essex; and his paternal grandfather, Barney Dix, Perks, Ill.

Rainey Funeral Home of Dexter is in charge.

Seven in a 1960 Dodge were injured seriously when their car struck a parked 1964 Ford diesel tractor - trailer, Wednesday at 5:05 a.m., on highway 61, four miles south of Portageville.

The tractor - trailer, driven by Alec Hughes, 48, Lakeland, Fla., had a broken axle, and was halfway on the highway, according to the state patrol with flares placed in front and back.

The Dodge driven south by Mary Carney, 49, East St. Louis, Ill., rammed into the rear portion of the truck.

The driver of the Dodge suffered broken legs, a broken right knee and body cuts. Willie Carney, 51, received a broken left ankle, a head injury and cuts on the face and body; Anthony Carney, 8, received a head injury and cuts on his body. Both are from East St. Louis.

Sandra White, 11, had a brain concussion; Rose White, 51, legs and an arm broken and cuts; Charles White, 55, broken leg, cuts on face, head and body; and Diane Holmes, 3, a broken arm and cuts on her body. All are from Chicago.

The seven from Chicago were taken to the Pemiscot Memorial hospital in Hayti.

At 1:30 a.m. today at the junction of highways 60 and 62, two miles east of Charleston, a two-car collision resulted in injury to one of the drivers.

John Wiget, 53, Huntington, W. Va., driver of a 1964 Dodge, apparently went to sleep. He failed to stop at a stop sign and pulled in front of a 1968 Mac semitrailer, driven by Billie Stegall, 34, Hazelhurst, Miss., the state patrol reported. The two vehicles collided.

Wiget received cuts on his scalp and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Today at 6:40 a.m. at the junction of highway 60 and route T in Butler county one man was seriously hurt and three others injured in a two car collision.

A 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Ralph Daniels, 41, Broseley, made a left turn in front of a 1960 Pontiac, driven by Roger Hopson, 30, Poplar Bluff, the state patrol charged. The two cars collided.

Daniels received a skull fracture, and is in serious condition. A passenger, Elsie Daniels, 38, received cuts on her body.

Hopson received a bump on his head, and a passenger in his car, Bessie Suiter, 19, had cuts and scratches.

Another Steel Firm Joins Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The Pittsburgh Steel Co. announced a general price increase today as smaller producers appeared to be ready to join the price hike parade started Wednesday by the nation's three biggest steel firms.

Pittsburgh Steel, ranked 14th in production, said it was increasing prices from $3 to $10 a ton Aug. 8 on all its products except two types of pipe.

Other producers hinted strongly that they ould follow the lead of the big three-U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic, which raises prices Wednesday only a day after United Steelworkers union won its ricnest contract ever.

Despite sharp criticism from President Johnson, the steel firms indicated the price hikes will stand.

Post Office Cuts Deleted

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The House sent to President Johnson Thursday a bill exempting most postal employes from the congressional order for a cutback in the number of government workers.

Without the exemption, the Post Office Department said it would have to end Saturday mail deliveries and curtail other service starting this weekend.

The only postal functions now exempt would be the headquarters office in Washington with 1,930 employes and regional offices which now have about 3,200 workers. The department has about 730,000 employes altogether.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson told Congress his department could not handle a personnel cutback because of the increase in its workload.

He said if his agency was not excluded from the mandate, he would have to cut back mail service and close some post offices. He said eventually it would mean a cutback to four-day mail delivery.

Despite cries of blackmail, Congress exempted the Post Office Department.

Nixon Calls for Non-Military Peace Step-up

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon called today for a dramatic step-up in non-military efforts to end the Vietnam war "rather than further escalation on the military front."

In a special Vietnam statement submitted in his behalf to Republican platform writers, the frontrunner for the GOP presidential nomination also urged his party to give "our full support" to the administration's efforts for peace through U.S.North Vietnamese talks at Paris.

And he joined Michigan's Gov. George Romney, who has dropped out of the White House race, in telling the party plankdrafters that they must face up to the Vietnam issue.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of the platform committee which opened hearings Monday, announced the group would buckle down in closed session this afternoon to what he termed the serious business of drafting the party's 1968 policy document. The group hopes to finish the job Saturday well in advance of next week's nominating convention.

House Votes $20,000 Limit on Farm Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, going along with arguments the federal farm program is a bonanza for corporate farmers, has approved a $20,000 ceiling on payments to any one person.

But backers of the farm program said the ceiling would only drive big operators away from the voluntary program, make it unworkable and cripple chances for its extension beyond 1969.

The House approved the $20,000 payments lid on a 230-160 vote Wednesday. Backers of the restriction said 25 large farm operators received payments ranging from $442,327 to $4,091,818 in 1965.

The House then approved a one-year extension of the federal farm production control program beyond its present 1969 expiration.

But Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, who tried unsuccessfully to get the same four-year extension approved by the Senate, said said the Senate would not accept the payments ceiling and there may be no extension at all.

The limitation would apply to all payments to individual farm operators under programs involving wheat, feed grains, cotton and wool, becoming effective in 1970.

The present basic program, which has made possible annual payments of more than $3 billion for land retirement, does not expire until the end of 1968.

The limitation was supported by 137 Republicans and 93 Democrats. It was opposed by 130 Democrats and 30 Republicans. The one - year bill then was passed on a 213-176 vote.

Girl to Be Tried as Adult for Slaying

BENTON -- Margaret Ann Robertson, 14, Sikeston, a juvenile who had been charged in juvenile court of Scott county in connection with the killing of Irvin Williams, 15, Sikeston, will be tried as an adult in the case, Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig said Wednesday.

A hearing to determine if the suspect should be tried as a juvenile, or as an adult was held Wednesday in the circuit court room.

The juvenile court charges against Miss Robertson will be dropped and the prosecuting attorney in office will file charges against her in magistrate court, Scott County Juvenile Officer Fred Glover said. She is in the custody of the Scott county sheriff's department in Benton.

Williams died of a knife wound in the chest on July 21, at 203 Felker.

Johnson Launches Housing Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today the most far-reaching housing act in the nation's history. The measure is the start of the President's goal to wipe out substandard U.S. housing in 10 years.

At the signing ceremonies in front of the curving new headquarters of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Johnson said the new law "can be a Magna Carta to liberate our cities."

The President said the threeyear, $5.4 billion program marks the start of the final stage of a federal commitment to housing that began in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

While Congress has authorized the first stages for the President's program, future Congresses must vote the actual money to make it a reality.

The government apparently will have enough money to finance the early stages of the three-year, $5.4-billion program. But even the current Congress has repeatedly slashed President Johnson's budget requests and its own authorizations. If Congress should still be faced with war and inflation six months from now, appropriations to carry the measure through its second and third years may well be cut back to disable Johnson's 10-year goal of 6 million new and rehabilitated homes.

The key new feature of the bill would help poor families buy homes and its $300 million outlay over the next three years would be the most generous government subsidy ever enacted for such a purpose.

The program's cost, however, is expected to increase greatly from the initial $75 million authorization.

The measure also includes new money authorizations for many existing programs seeking to deal with problems of city slums and the impoverished.

Among these are rent subsidies, low-rent public housing urban renewal, and model cities and a package of aid to help set up whole new towns.

The legislation also wraps in far-reaching new provisions setting up a government insurance corporation to help make policies available to homeowners and businessmen in riot-potential areas and to establish a national flood insurance program.

The Housing and Urban Development Department estimates new subsidy plans should help 500,000 families buy homes in the three years covered by the bill and enable 300,000 to rent suitable apartments.

Under the home ownership plan, the government would subsidize the monthly mortgage payments by paving all of the interest charges above 1 per cent in the case f those with the lowest incomes.

Many home buyers now must pay 7 per cent or more.

Families with incomes of $3,000 to $8,000 are expected to qualify for the subsidies. Down payments could be as low as $200.

The new rental program also would be based on a subsidy covering all interest charges above 1 per cent on apartmenthouse mortgages.

Czech-Soviet Talks to Be Expanded

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have agreed to discuss the Czechoslovak situation with other communist countries beginning Saturday in the Slovakian city of Bratislava, a communique said today.

The four-day talks of party leaders from Moscow and Prague ended today with a call for the broader meeting including the hard-core Soviet allies who have backed the Kremlin's demand that Czechoslovakia change its liberal course.

Joining the talks in Bratislava will be Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Romania and Yugoslavia were not included in the list.

The meeting that ended today at the Czechoslovak railyards town of Cierna on the Soviet border, the communique said, "was aimed at the search for ways of further developing and strengthening the traditional friendly relations" between the Soviet and Czechoslovak Communist parties and peoples.

The communique did not indicate what if anything, was decided about ways of improving relations. Relations had deteriorated into open Soviet hostility, backed by military maneuvering on the Czechoslovak borders, over the liberal course of Prague's Communist leader, Alexander Dubcek.

The five parties that will meet with Czechoslovak leaders Saturday are the ones that met in Warsaw in mid-July to condemn Czechoslovak liberalization. Dubcek refused to attend that meeting.

The Warsaw meeting sent a letter to Prague saying the cause of defending communism in Czechoslovakia demanded a number of steps that would halt and even reverse liberalization. They included muzzling of Prague's free press.

Dubcek's party rejected the demands. The Russians stepped up their threatening statements and military activities around Czechoslovakia and then met with the Prague leadership last Monday.

The unclear results of the unexpectedly drawn-out talks in Cierna suggested to some Moscow observers an appeal to the broader Communist grouping to consider any settlement of the crisis.

The Czechoslovak press, firmly supporting Dubcek's regime, maintained an air of optimism.

15 Enrolled in Civil Air Patrol Class

Fifteen high school age boys and girls are enrolled in the Civil air patrol. They are under the command of Capt. Hugh McCollum, and receive weekly class instruction.

Assisting in instruction and flight training is Chaplain James L. Estep, a licensed commercial pilot, ground and flight instructor.

After the students reach their proficiency grade in 11 weeks of ground and instrument training, the top students are given 30-minute flight training.

After additional training they become eligible for a solo flight.

The class is composed of 15 students, five of whom are girls. The boys are Jeff Fansler, Willard Gruen, Douglas Hammock, Ricky Hartzell, Greg Larance, Steve Nickell, John Shoptaw, Randy Vaught, Bruce Wolferding and Glenn Nash. The girls are Gaye Bell, Linda Merrell, Karen Tinsley, Patricia Vinson and Debbie Robinson.

DR. A. H. MARSHALL

It grieves us sorely that our good friend and columnist Dr. A. H. Marshall of many years passed to his reward Monday morning.

We admired the good Doctor for many reasons.

He ran for Congress two times and told the people what they needed to hear and heed.

He ran for President once and gave the people a platform which some future President will be elected on.

The Dr. was many years ahead of his times in thinking and saying.

An outstanding physician and consultant he was kept quite busy before his retirement.

This is the year the Doctor should of been in the running for President, he would of had hundreds of thousand followers and supporters.

One of the favorite sayings of Dr. Marshall was that "many people think I am crazy but none think I am a damn fool."

May the Good Lord rest his soul. We extend our condolances to his children and brothers and sisters.

AN APOLOGY

This editorial is a humble apology to those whose feet we must have stepped on when we criticized Sen. Ed Long in our editorial two weeks ago. Another editor in Shelby County seemed to feel that we were wrong in stating a few of the "short comings" of their favorite candidate "Ethical Ed." This newspaper and this editor feels a responsibility to the readers and the community we serve to give full information and facts concerning a politician who, in our opinion, has not fulfilled his obligations to the citizens of Shelby County and the state of Missouri.

For many weeks we have read of the "enviable record" of Senator Long. We, too, believe it is an "enviable record." Wouldn't it be nice to be a Senator who seldom works at his job of representing Missouri and draws a government salary of $35,000 a year and at the same time receives $30,000 or more per year from a St. Louis union attorney who is associated with James Hoffa, now serving a federal prison term for attempted bribery of a jury. Senator Long is now associated with ex - convict Lawrence Callanan, another St. Louis union leader.

Now for the record: "Quoting from the Congressional quarterly record in 1963 Senator Long was recorded as voting on only 54% of the roll calls between January 9 and November 21. The average for all Democratic Senators was 82%. Senator Symington's score was 85%."

From the National Reform Committee May 1968: "U.S. Senator Edward V. Long of Missouri is classed as a "Needless Spender" of taxpayers' money in a study of 28 Senators eligible for re-election in 1968, made by the National Tax Reform Committee, Washington, D. C. Senator Long has a "useless spending" rating of 94% and a "saving" index of only 6% in the figures released May 13, 1968.

"The Committee's ratings are based on 37 specific measures presented to the Senate the past two and a half years to trim a total of $7.0 billion from the Federal spending requests, as amendments to cut funds or to recommit.

"The analysis shows Senator Long voted to spend $6,577.7 million of tax dollars unnecessarily and to save only $401.0 millions, as he voted on 33 issues. The Senators present and voting were evaluated only an Aye and Nay votes recorded."

From April 1 through May 10 of this year Senator Long was present only 29% of the time at his "job in Washongton." This places him among the lowest in one - the - job representation of the fifty states of the Union. At the other extreme, Senator Stuart Symington had a perfect attendance recorded.

The above are facts and this newspaper and this editor believe that the voters should know how badly they have been represented by our present Senator Ed Long.

The State's number three candidate, True Davis, with all his spending ability has not convinced anyone that he is really "True." He proposes to be the farmer's friend, but wasn't he selling his cattle when the rest of the NFO members were withholding their stock from the market?

The number one selection as far as our State - wide polls are concerned is Lt. Governor Tom Eagleton, the Democrats choice for the nomination for United States Senator. Eagleton is youth, energetic, aggressive and not for sale. To us he is the "White Knight in Shining Armour, the hopes and dreams of an uncorrupt government. A man who will speak the truth and work for the interest of not only Missourians but also the nation as well as the entire world. He is a man who will not ask "what the country will do for him, but what he can do for his country and the world." Tom Eagleton is truly the newest Statesman of this great nation and should be elected to serve his State as U. S. Senator from Missouri.

TWO STATE ENDORSEMENTS

Two primary election contests in Missouri have provided some relief from the hectic, harrowing races for other offices: the Secretary of State contest and the State Treasurer's campaign.

Neither has attracted much attention in Democratic circles primarily because the outcome is a foregone conclusion in one and nearly as obvious in the other.

The incumbent Secretary of State is James Kirkpatrick, former Windsor, Mo., newspaper editor and publisher. Kirkpatrick has a good record in office and, besides that, has no primary opposition. That's the way politicians like to run for office, and Kirkpatrick is in an enviable position for the August 6 election.

The other state office in which there is little interest is that of State Treasurer. Originally there were six men in the race, and then one withdrew, but from the beginning, there actually appeared to be only one serious contender: William E. Robinson, who originally came from Bonne Terre and moved to a state office in Jefferson City several years ago.

Robinson filed early for the four - year office, and secured the tacit support of both Governor Hearnes and some of the original anti - Hearnes groups in state banking circles, headed by Howard Cook, Jefferson City banker. What Robinson told these two groups in order to get their support is still amystery; he has promised this newspaper that he will treat all banks fairly in the matter of state deposits and we are inclined to believe him.

Robinson's chief opponent is L. E. Morris, a Jefferson City pharmacist, who must have gotten into state politics because of the similarity of his name to that of M. E. Morris, the incumbent State Treasurer. Morris is a spunky kind of a guy who appears to enjoy waging political campaigns. We wish him well, but he really has no major support and cannot hope to overcome Robinson's lead.

We must admit that we know little of Robinson, except for the fact that he is a Southeast Missourian, has held several responsible state positions and apparently performed them satisfactorily. He has the tacit blessings of Governor Hearnes and Howard Cook at the same time, so depending upon your point of view, he can't be all bad.

We expect Robinson will perform the rather routine duties of the State Treasurer in a satisfactory manner. If he will be fair - and this he has promised us he intends to be - then he will be an improvement over the present musical chairs arrangement in Jefferson City. Besides, he can only serve one term, and under the rules of the Missouri Constitution cannot succeed himself in office.

We endorse both Kirkpatrick and Robinson and recommend their nomination on August 6.

What has become of the old fashioned school teacher who "boarded around" with the families of her pupils.

* * *

It is quite fashionable in reports of drownings to say that the victim was a good swimmer; some even go so far as to use the word "expert."

I have to dissent on use of the words 'good' or 'expert' in most cases, since, by my definition, a good swimmer does not take needless risks, and it is obvious that many drownings are the result of reckless chance - taking.

People dive into water whose depth they do not know, and break their necks on the bottom or submerged objects; they defy swift currents; plunge into water too cold; they neglect to follow the basic rule that there should always be two competent swimmers along - one should never go in alone.

They overload boats, relying on floating cushions to support them if the craft should capsize; they scorn to wear life preservers, and blithely boast that they have jackets in the boat, but a jacket on a thwart is no more value to a man overboard than a parachute hanging in the fuselage of an airplane is to a falling man.

By my definition, a good swimmer is one who observes all safety rules, and avoids trouble so he won't have to prove he's an expert.

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — When our youngest goes off in pursuit of a higher education this fall, we won't be losing a daughter— we'll be gaining one-third of a chair.

Because our living room is crammed with such objects as wall-to-wall bookcases, electric organs and other assorted furniture not made for sitting purposes, there is space for only one easy chair in the entire room.

The coach, it is true, provides seating for three persons, but it is cold, hard and forbidding compared to the deep luxury of that overstuffed chair with broad armrests, which is the real seat of family inactivity.

Since this refuge of comfort also boasts the best reading light in the house, its popularity cannot be overstated. In our home the game of "musical chairs' is constantly in progress.

Should the sittee arise for one brief moment to dash to the kitchen for a snack, the speediest sprinter will find on returning to the chair, that it is already occupied by an alert opponent.

Thus, once a member of our family trio has established squatters' rights, he will endure the pangs of hunger or the boredom of an unwanted television program, rather than risk getting up and losing the seat of honor.

This is not the only cat-andmouse game played by the three of us still occupying the old homestead. Aside from "Chair, Chair, who gets the chair?" another contest is regularly carried out on Sundays.

This one is known as "Who is going to get dressed first, thereby having to go out to buy the Sunday papers?"

In the earlier days of our parenthood, my husband and I had few problems along that line. As soon as the kids could cross the street alone, they were presented with a coin to clutch in a small hand, pointed in the direction of the corner stationery store and told to "fetch."

Later, when they got older, wiser and more mercenary, this maneuver required two coins— one for the papers and the other for the errand boy or girl.

The three of us have been known to stay in our pajamas and robes far into the afternoon, each hoping somebody else will break first. The two nonsports fans have the advantage over the male in our household during the football season—his anxiety to read about the games sometimes leads him to cash in his chips first.

So, although it is nice to look forward to sharing the special chair with only one rival soon, it is also somewhat disturbing to be facing the prospect of having only one alternate in the get-thepaper stakes.

JUDGE THE IMPACT

The medical profession in the United States is exerting every effort to expand its ranks in order to meet the needs of an increasing population and maintain the personal, doctor-patient relationship which is an integral part of the high quality health care available to the American people today. Five new medical schools are opening this fall, and others are increasing their enrollments of beginning medical students. There are now 94 medical schools in operation, eleven more are continuing development programs. By the mid 1970's, they should be graduating over 10,000 students each year. But, these increases will probably not be sufficient to resolve the medical manpower problem. It takes from six to en years from the time it is decided to build a new medical school until the graduation of the first class.

Two things will be critical in maintaining the high standards of American medicine in the years immediately ahead. In the first place, the incentives which encourage dedicated and gifted individuals to enter and complete medical training will have to be maintained and if possible, increased. Secondly, it will be vital that the massive entrance of government into the nation's health care picture, in programs such as medicare and medicaid, not be allowed to ensnare both doctors and patients in an endless, time consuming, efficiency and qulaity-destroying morass of red tape. Unless this can be controlled, as is now being undertaken through amendments to medicare and medicaid legislation, such welfare and health aid programs could go a long way toward bankrupting the country and, at the smae time, destroying the qulaity of medical services availble to the American people.

Legislation alone cannot solve the doctor shortage or provide quality medical care. Government involvement must proceed with restraint and full attention to its real impact on doctors, patients and the future of medicine itself.

The king had arranged a truly regal marriage for his daughter. She had married the crown prince of their rich and powerful neighboring country and this union held great promise to unite these two nations.

Although the king was delighted with the ceremony, he was bothered by the cold, correct formality with which the young couple treated each other. Troubled that the union may not be a success, he posted a spy outside of the bridal chamber to report on the wedding nights events.

The next morning the king's spy reported as follows: "I couldn't really tell how well they got along because of their odd behavior. As they entered the chamber the Princess said, "I offer you my honor" and the prince replied, "Madame, I honor your offer." And that is the way it went all night long—honor, offer, honor, offer."

REDUCTION IN SPENDING OR SERVICES?

The American public is beginning to see the result of the Administration's so-called cut in spending; the reciprocal action taken by it in order to obtain the 10% Surcharge on Income Tax Returns.

Instead of reducing spending in foreign markets and exorbitant domestic - social programs the federal bureaucrats have established an overall reduction in governmental agency spending.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson disclosed in Washington that not only would the Saturday home delivery of mail be halted as is slated, but that domestic delivery would also be cut to four days at a later date. Also, Saturday window service at postal stations is to be eliminated to a great extent and pick - up service on Saturday is to be reduced to the present frequency on Sunday.

Apparently, the Administration is going to lower the weight of the entire battle against the federal deficit on the taxpayer. Not only will the citizen be required to pay - in more money in income tax, but he will also be penalized by a reduction in service that he is already paying twice to receive.

The problem of the expense in running a postal service by the government is one in itself that could be corrected by taking it completely out of the government's hands and placing it in the personal enterprise system as a public service.

But to remedy this problem is not the point at hand. The federal government is still spending money where the major part of the deficit is originating. Its efforts at sidestepping the real issues and proceedings as it pleases is continuing and can only be stopped by the public demanding that it do so. HLH.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Congressional ethics continue lax despite fine-sounding code; Newsman's expose reveals lobbies still dictate to "Hill"; Vital social programs cut but 3,000 miles of new highway voted.

WASHINGTON--The American public can thank Nick Kotz and the Des MoinesRegister for another illustration of unethical conduct by Congress in publishing a detailed report on the manner in which the trucking lobby subsidized certain key Congressmen. In return, highly favorable trucking legislation has just been passed or recommended by Congress.

Earlier this year, Jack Anderson--now in Miami getting ready for the GOP convention--and I wrote a book "The Case Against Congress," which probed into some of the unethical conduct of Congressmen. When the book's galley proofs were circulated in advance to members of the senate ethics committee the effect was stimulating.

Suddenly, after weeks of procrastination, the ethics committee threw off its lethargy and recommended a code of ethical standards. This was promptly passed. The house of representatives also acted.

Despite this, ethics in both houses of Congress continue about the same, as illustrated by the scandalous manner in which Congress has recently bowed to the trucking lobby, the highway lobby, the meat lobby and the gas pipeline lobby.

Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register have exposed the trucking lobby in regard to a bill limiting the amount of commercial freight hauled by farm cooperatives, now signed into law; also in regard to a bill doubling the size of triple trailer trucks on interstate highways from 73,280 pounds to 138,000 pounds. They have revealed that a total of $40,000 was contributed to the campaign kitties of key Congressmen to oil the legislative wheels for these two bills.

THE HIGHWAY LOBBY

Equally important, possibly more so, is the federal highway bill which has been in a two-week Hassle between the House and Senate committees, with Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., refusing to sign the report because it was stacked in favor of the trucking, cement and freeway lobbies.

As written in the House, the bill limited Lady Bird's beautification program, undermined the protection of parks, historical sties, game refuges, etc., and cracked down completely on the right of the courts and local planning commissions to hold up freeways which they didn't want.

The House bill also voted 3,000 extra miles of interstate highways at a cost of several billion (with the federal government paying 92 per cent) at a time when the House has demanded a cutback of $6 billion, chiefly from education, antipoverty, housing and other economic and social welfare programs.

Significantly, the House of Representatives bowed to the highway lobby much more than did the senate. And it was in the house that the truckers dumped most of their money.

Rep. George Fallon of Baltimore, Democratic Chairman of the Pulbic Works committee which handled the highway bill, got $1,000 from the truck operators nonpartisan committee. Rep. Sam Friedel, another Baltimore Democrat and a key member of the interstate commerce committee, got $1,000 in 1966, $750 in April 1968 and $250 in May 1968. Rep. John Kluczynski, Chicago Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee which voted out the highway bill, got $3,000 from the same truckers' committee.

The following members of the important Public Works committee got $1,000 each from the truckers committee: John Blatnik, D-Minn., and William Ha..sha, R-Ohio. The following got $500 each: Robert E. Jones, Ala.; James Wright, Texas; Kenneth gray, Ill.; Frank Clark, Pa.; Harold Johnson, Calif.; W.J.B. Dorn, S.C.; Arnold Olsen, Mont.; Ray Roberts, Texas; James Kee, W.Va.; all Democrats; with Republicans James Grover, N.Y.; Roger Zion, Ind.; Charlotte Reid, Ill.

These are the contributions to members of the House Public Works committee only and do not include money given to key members of other committees or to senators. Significantly, Rep. Richard McCarthy, the Buffalo Democrat who put up the chief battle inside the Public Works committee against the trucking lobby, was given a wide berth by the truckers. They considered him hopeless.

OTHER LOBBYING GIMMICKS

There were other interesting cimmicks which influenced the highway bills besides money, however, which Nick Kotz did not mention.

Rep. William Harsha, the Ohio Republican, not only got $1,000 from the truckers, as revealed by Kotz, but his law firm represents Greyhound Bus, as revealed in the book "The Case Against Congress." Greyhound, of course, is one of the biggest highway users in the USA.

Last month, when this column reported on his favors for the highway lobby, Rep. Kluczynski issued a pious statement that he had never heard of Harold Wirth of Firestone Rubber, the leading lobbyist for highways; that he did not associate with lobbists and never accepted contributions from them.

Now it develops that Kluczynski accepted $3,000 from the truckers; also addressed the American road builders convention Feb. 23, 1965, in Washington, and March 12, 1967, in Miami, for which he was paid expenses and a fee. Finally Harold Wirth, whom "he never heard of," was a witness before Kluczysnki's committee on April 4, 1068.

Kluczynski has been one of the most consistent opponents of Lady Bird's beautification program, a champion of billboards, and an indefatigable exponent of concrete thruways regardless of where local planning commissions want them located.

Actually, the freeway bill just passed is an unnecessary piece of legislation. It was rushed through now because the lobbyists wanted to cash in on their lobbying investments and weren't sure whether they will have the same docile committee after November. The bill weakens both the present highway law and the department of transportation. President Johnson is being urged to take a stand against the lobbyists and for congressional ethics by vetoing the bill.

Inside Labor

BOLDEST EXPERIMENT

'Buddy System' Pilot Project Set To Take Each Of Half Million Hardcore Workers By the Hand.

Cleveland: -- The blood's off the sidewalks. The dead have been buried. And lots of folk feel the ricocheting fusillades are here to stay like traffic noise. But it could be that the two societies are not really whirling madly away from each other.

There are those who try to bind them closer. This jittery lakeside city has been turned on by bullets, but deep behind the gory headlines, news appears to be in the making which may yet make up for the cries of the wounded and the mourning of the widow.

In this city, long before the shoot-out, labor, management and community leaders have been conferencing on something called "the buddy system."

For weeks now in Cleveland, as in Houston, Milwaukee, Atlanta, and Portland, Ore., they have been developing a pilot project which, if successful, will put an experienced worker -- a buddy -- alongside each of ten of thousands of alienated, disadvantaged, often sulking, newly - hired hardcore unemployed.

This "buddy system" -- or one - for - one -- was devised by the national AFL-CIO's Community Services Director Leo Perlis, of Washington, D. C., who for years has tried to cut straight paths out of the big city jungles.

Perlis, like all those who are not all bone from ear to ear, recognized that the National Alliance of Businessmen could provide half a million jobs for the hardest hardcore, the runners of street gangs, the quasi-literate, the denizens of a thousand lost worlds.

But then what? How do you keep them in the world of work?

Perlis, with the full support of AFL-CIO President George Meany (whose slogan is: Don't demonstrate, just knock at the right doors), reckoned that the inner men and women of the ghastly central cities need individual attention on the job.

And only the massive labor federation could supply the manpower on a one-to-one basis. So five cities were chosen for a series of pilot projects to take the hardcore citizenry by the hand, individually get them to the factory, run interference on the plant floor, make the contact with the shop steward, foreman and supervisor, and protect the newly - hired black and Spanish - speaking workers before they retreat again.

So in these five communities, orientation conferences were scheduled for July. Executives, of union and non - union industry, community services and welfare officials and labor leaders were invited to long parleys.

The buddy system was explained -- and approved. It is to be a tripartite operation -- the AFL-CIO, the Labor Dept., and the National Alliance of Businessmen.

Now, all through August there will be buddy training sessions. These men have been selected. They are volunteers. They will not receive a penny for expenses.

If they have to spring for a cup of coffee and a sandwich, or taxi fare, or for a bus transfer, it will come out of their pockets.

Their assignment will be to train themselves to help the hardcore worker sustain himself psychologically, emotionally and educationally as a worker and citizen.

The buddy will make certain that his hardcore partner will get to whatever community health, welfare, recreation and educational facilities he needs.

For the buddies, this will require intense training. It won't come easy. The hardcore aren't accustomed to being taken by the hand personally. Most of the time it has either been a and out or a grab-out.

For the buddy, the long training hours will be jammed with lectures, visual aid presentations, philosophical lectures by the academic people -- and psychodramas. The buddy will be placed alongside another buddy impersonating the hard core-ite. They will improvise under the eyes of slum sociologists.

In September, the buddies will join their hardcore partners on the job. For a month the one - for - one system will be tried deep in central citys, in union halls, in plant cafeterias and on the production line.

To make certain that the alienated hardcore denizen isn't in retreat because of some physical problem, he'll be given medical examinations, eyeglasses, hearing aides, and any other help long neglected.

In October, Leo Perlis and his partners in government and management will evaluate the buddies operation. If it works, the AFL-CIO will recruit tens of thousands of its members to "pal up" with as many new hardcore employes.

If the project has failed, if the alienated dump their buddies, or vice versa, then a lot of good fellows will have sweated it out for naught.

But then, at least, let no one say that one world did not try to take a less fortunate world by the hand.

DR. A. H. MARSHALL

It grieves us sorely that our good friend and columnist Dr. A. H. Marshall of many years passed to his reward Monday morning.

We admired the good Doctor for many reasons.

He ran for Congress two times and told the people what they needed to hear and heed.

He ran for President once and gave the people a platform which some future President will be elected on.

The Dr. was many years ahead of his times in thinking and saying.

An outstanding physician and consultant he was kept quite busy before his retirement.

This is the year the Doctor should of been in the running for President, he would of had hundreds of thousand followers and supporters.

One of the favorite sayings of Dr. Marshall was that "many people think I am crazy but none think I am a damn fool."

AN APOLOGY

This editorial is a humble apology to those whose feet we must have stepped on when we criticized Sen. Ed Long in our editorial two weeks ago. Another editor in Shelby County seemed to feel that we were wrong in stating a few of the "short comings" of their favorite candidate "Ethical Ed." This newspaper and this editor feels a responsibility to the readers and the community we serve to give full information and facts concerning a politician who, in our opinion, has not fulfilled his obligations to the citizens of Shelby County and the state of Missouri.

For many weeks we have read of the "enviable record" of Senator Long. We, too, believe it is an "enviable record." Wouldn't it be nice to be a Senator who seldom works at his job of representing Missouri and draws a government salary of $35,000 a year and at the same time receives $30,000 or more per year from a St. Louis union attorney who is associated with James Hoffa, now serving a federal prison term for attempted bribery of a jury. Senator Long is now associated with ex - convict Lawrence Callanan, another St. Louis union leader.

Now for the record: "Quoting from the Congressional quarterly record in 1963 Senator Long was recorded as voting on only 54% of the roll calls between January 9 and November 21. The average for all Democratic Senators was 82%. Senator Symington's score was 85%."

From the National Reform Committee May 1968: "U.S. Senator Edward V. Long of Missouri is classed as a "Needless Spender" of taxpayers' money in a study of 28 Senators eligible for re-election in 1968, made by the National Tax Reform Committee, Washington, D. C. Senator Long has a "useless spending" rating of 94% and a "saving" index of only 6% in the figures released May 13, 1968.

"The Committee's ratings are based on 37 specific measures presented to the Senate the past two and a half years to trim a total of $7.0 billion from the Federal spending requests, as amendments to cut funds or to recommit.

"The analysis shows Senator Long voted to spend $6,577.7 million of tax dollars unnecessarily and to save only $401.0 millions, as he voted on 33 issues. The Senators present and voting were evaluated only an Aye and Nay votes recorded."

From April 1 through May 10 of this year Senator Long was present only 29% of the time at his "job in Washongton." This places him among the lowest in one - the - job representation of the fifty states of the Union. At the other extreme, Senator Stuart Symington had a perfect attendance recorded.

The above are facts and this newspaper and this editor believe that the voters should know how badly they have been represented by our present Senator Ed Long.

The State's number three candidate, True Davis, with all his spending ability has not convinced anyone that he is really "True." He proposes to be the farmer's friend, but wasn't he selling his cattle when the rest of the NFO members were withholding their stock from the market?

The number one selection as far as our State - wide polls are concerned is Lt. Governor Tom Eagleton, the Democrats choice for the nomination for United States Senator. Eagleton is youth, energetic, aggressive and not for sale. To us he is the "White Knight in Shining Armour, the hopes and dreams of an uncorrupt government. A man who will speak the truth and work for the interest of not only Missourians but also the nation as well as the entire world. He is a man who will not ask "what the country will do for him, but what he can do for his country and the world." Tom Eagleton is truly the newest Statesman of this great nation and should be elected to serve his State as U. S. Senator from Missouri.

TWO STATE ENDORSEMENTS

Two primary election contests in Missouri have provided some relief from the hectic, harrowing races for other offices: the Secretary of State contest and the State Treasurer's campaign.

Neither has attracted much attention in Democratic circles primarily because the outcome is a foregone conclusion in one and nearly as obvious in the other.

The incumbent Secretary of State is James Kirkpatrick, former Windsor, Mo., newspaper editor and publisher. Kirkpatrick has a good record in office and, besides that, has no primary opposition. That's the way politicians like to run for office, and Kirkpatrick is in an enviable position for the August 6 election.

The other state office in which there is little interest is that of State Treasurer. Originally there were six men in the race, and then one withdrew, but from the beginning, there actually appeared to be only one serious contender: William E. Robinson, who originally came from Bonne Terre and moved to a state office in Jefferson City several years ago.

Robinson filed early for the four - year office, and secured the tacit support of both Governor Hearnes and some of the original anti - Hearnes groups in state banking circles, headed by Howard Cook, Jefferson City banker. What Robinson told these two groups in order to get their support is still amystery; he has promised this newspaper that he will treat all banks fairly in the matter of state deposits and we are inclined to believe him.

Robinson's chief opponent is L. E. Morris, a Jefferson City pharmacist, who must have gotten into state politics because of the similarity of his name to that of M. E. Morris, the incumbent State Treasurer. Morris is a spunky kind of a guy who appears to enjoy waging political campaigns. We wish him well, but he really has no major support and cannot hope to overcome Robinson's lead.

We must admit that we know little of Robinson, except for the fact that he is a Southeast Missourian, has held several responsible state positions and apparently performed them satisfactorily. He has the tacit blessings of Governor Hearnes and Howard Cook at the same time, so depending upon your point of view, he can't be all bad.

We expect Robinson will perform the rather routine duties of the State Treasurer in a satisfactory manner. If he will be fair - and this he has promised us he intends to be - then he will be an improvement over the present musical chairs arrangement in Jefferson City. Besides, he can only serve one term, and under the rules of the Missouri Constitution cannot succeed himself in office.

We endorse both Kirkpatrick and Robinson and recommend their nomination on August 6.

What has become of the old fashioned school teacher who "boarded around" with the families of her pupils.

It is quite fashionable in reports of drownings to say that the victim was a good swimmer; some even go so far as to use the word "expert."

I have to dissent on use of the words 'good' or 'expert' in most cases, since, by my definition, a good swimmer does not take needless risks, and it is obvious that many drownings are the result of reckless chance - taking.

People dive into water whose depth they do not know, and break their necks on the bottom or submerged objects; they defy swift currents; plunge into water too cold; they neglect to follow the basic rule that there should always be two competent swimmers along - one should never go in alone.

They overload boats, relying on floating cushions to support them if the craft should capsize; they scorn to wear life preservers, and blithely boast that they have jackets in the boat, but a jacket on a thwart is no more value to a man overboard than a parachute hanging in the fuselage of an airplane is to a falling man.

By my definition, a good swimmer is one who observes all safety rules, and avoids trouble so he won't have to prove he's an expert.

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — When our youngest goes off in pursuit of a higher education this fall, we won't be losing a daughter— we'll be gaining one-third of a chair.

Because our living room is crammed with such objects as wall-to-wall bookcases, electric organs and other assorted furniture not made for sitting purposes, there is space for only one easy chair in the entire room.

The coach, it is true, provides seating for three persons, but it is cold, hard and forbidding compared to the deep luxury of that overstuffed chair with broad armrests, which is the real seat of family inactivity.

Since this refuge of comfort also boasts the best reading light in the house, its popularity cannot be overstated. In our home the game of "musical chairs' is constantly in progress.

Should the sittee arise for one brief moment to dash to the kitchen for a snack, the speediest sprinter will find on returning to the chair, that it is already occupied by an alert opponent.

Thus, once a member of our family trio has established squatters' rights, he will endure the pangs of hunger or the boredom of an unwanted television program, rather than risk getting up and losing the seat of honor.

This is not the only cat-andmouse game played by the three of us still occupying the old homestead. Aside from "Chair, Chair, who gets the chair?" another contest is regularly carried out on Sundays.

This one is known as "Who is going to get dressed first, thereby having to go out to buy the Sunday papers?"

In the earlier days of our parenthood, my husband and I had few problems along that line. As soon as the kids could cross the street alone, they were presented with a coin to clutch in a small hand, pointed in the direction of the corner stationery store and told to "fetch."

Later, when they got older, wiser and more mercenary, this maneuver required two coins— one for the papers and the other for the errand boy or girl.

The three of us have been known to stay in our pajamas and robes far into the afternoon, each hoping somebody else will break first. The two nonsports fans have the advantage over the male in our household during the football season—his anxiety to read about the games sometimes leads him to cash in his chips first.

So, although it is nice to look forward to sharing the special chair with only one rival soon, it is also somewhat disturbing to be facing the prospect of having only one alternate in the get-thepaper stakes.

AMERICA'S RAILROADS have "jumped into the Cybernetic Age with both feet--and they've landed on the run," said Thomas M. Goodfellow, president of the Association of American Railroads.

"They've been making themselves lean, hard and efficient for the important work that lies ahead," he explained.

REDUCTION IN SPENDING OR SERVICES?

The American public is beginning to see the result of the Administration's so-called cut in spending; the reciprocal action taken by it in order to obtain the 10% Surcharge on Income Tax Returns.

Instead of reducing spending in foreign markets and exorbitant domestic - social programs the federal bureaucrats have established an overall reduction in governmental agency spending.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson disclosed in Washington that not only would the Saturday home delivery of mail be halted as is slated, but that domestic delivery would also be cut to four days at a later date. Also, Saturday window service at postal stations is to be eliminated to a great extent and pick - up service on Saturday is to be reduced to the present frequency on Sunday.

Apparently, the Administration is going to lower the weight of the entire battle against the federal deficit on the taxpayer. Not only will the citizen be required to pay - in more money in income tax, but he will also be penalized by a reduction in service that he is already paying twice to receive.

The problem of the expense in running a postal service by the government is one in itself that could be corrected by taking it completely out of the government's hands and placing it in the personal enterprise system as a public service.

But to remedy this problem is not the point at hand. The federal government is still spending money where the major part of the deficit is originating. Its efforts at sidestepping the real issues and proceedings as it pleases is continuing and can only be stopped by the public demanding that it do so. HLH.

Doc. Duncan Says

Gramp everbody is spressin their opinion bout what ails our country, your ida?

It's jes goin through a phase. They all do it, whenthey gets to the point they thinks they are the richest most powerful in the world and crows about it from the house - tops then they are ready for the meat ax. They builds up their ego to the sky, till it gets top heavy, then topples. When a nation gets so cocky they count God out thats the last straw.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Congressional ethics continue lax despite fine-sounding code; Newsman's expose reveals lobbies still dictate to "Hill"; Vital social programs cut but 3,000 miles of new highway voted.

WASHINGTON--The American public can thank Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register for another illustration of unethical conduct by Congress in publishing a detailed report on the manner in which the trucking lobby subsidized certain key Congressmen. In return, highly favorable trucking legislation has just been passed or recommended by Congress.

Earlier this year, Jack Anderson--now in Miami getting ready for the GOP convention--and I wrote a book, "The Case Against Congress," which probed into some of the unethical conduct of Congressmen. When the book's galley proofs were circulated in advance to members of the senate ethics committee the effect was stimulating.

Suddenly, after weeks of procrastination, the ethics committee threw off its lethargy and recommended a code of ethical standards. This was promptly passed. The house of representatives also acted.

Despite this, ethics in both houses of Congress continue about the same, as illustrated by the scandalous manner in which Congress has recently bowed to the trucking lobby, the highway lobby, the meat lobby and the gas pipeline lobby.

Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register have exposed the trucking lobby in regard to a bill limiting the amount of commercial freight hauled by farm cooperatives, now signed into law; also in regard to a bill doubling the size of triple trailer trucks on interstate highways from 73,280 pounds to 138,000 pounds. They have revealed that a total of $40,000 was contributed to the campaign kitties of key Congressmen to oil the legislative wheels for these two bills.

THE HIGHWAY LOBBY

Equally important, possibly more so, is the federal highway bill which has been in a two-week Hassle between the House and Senate committees, with Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., refusing to sign the report because it was stacked in favor of the trucking, cement and freeway lobbies.

As written in the House, the bill limited Lady Bird's beautification program, undermined the protection of parks, historical sties, game refuges, etc., and cracked down completely on the right of the courts and local planning commissions to hold up freeways which they didn't want.

The House bill also voted 3,000 extra miles of interstate highways at a cost of several billion (with the federal government paying 92 per cent) at a time when the House has demanded a cutback of $6 billion, chiefly from education, antipoverty, housing and other economic and social welfare programs.

Significantly, the House of Representatives bowed to the highway lobby much more than did the senate. And it was in the house that the truckers dumped most of their money.

Rep. George Fallon of Baltimore, Democratic Chairman of the Pulbic Works committee which handled the highway bill, got $1,000 from the truck operators nonpartisan committee. Rep. Sam Friedel, another Baltimore Democrat and a key member of the interstate commerce committee, got $1,000 in 1966, $750 in April 1968 and $250 in May 1968. Rep. John Kluczynski, Chicago Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee which voted out the highway bill, got $3,000 from the same truckers' committee.

The following members of the important Public Works committee got $1,000 each from the truckers committee: John Blatnik, D-Minn., and William Ha sha, R-Ohio. The following got $500 each: Robert E. Jones, Ala.; James Wright, Texas; Kenneth gray, Ill.; Frank Clark, Pa.; Harold Johnson, Calif.; W.J.B. Dorn, S.C.; Arnold Olsen, Mont.; Ray Roberts, Texas; James Kee, W. Va.; all Democrats; with Republicans James Grover, N.Y.; Roger Zion, Ind.; Charlotte Reid, Ill.

These are the contributions to members of the House Public Works committee only and do not include money given to key members of other committees or to senators. Significantly, Rep. Richard McCarthy, the Buffalo Democrat who put up the chief battle inside the Public Works committee against the trucking lobby, was given a wide berth by the truckers. They considered him hopeless.

OTHER LOBBYING GIMMICKS

There were other interesting cimmicks which influenced the highway bills besides money, however, which Nick Kotz did not mention.

Rep. William Harsha, the Ohio Republican, not only got $1,000 from the truckers, as revealed by Kotz, but his law firm represents Greyhound Bus, as revealed in the book "The Case Against Congress." Greyhound, of course, is one of the biggest highway users in the USA.

Last month, when this column reported on his favors for the highway lobby, Rep. Kluczynski issued a pious statement that he had never heard of Harold Wirth of Firestone Rubber, the leading lobbyist for highways; that he did not associate with lobbists and never accepted contributions from them.

Now it develops that Kluczynski accepted $3,000 from the truckers; also addressed the American road builders convention Feb. 23, 1965, in Washington, and March 12, 1967, in Miami, for which he was paid expenses and a fee. Finally Harold Wirth, whom "he never heard of," was a witness before Kluczynski's committee on April 4, 1068.

Kluczynski has been one of the most consistent opponents of Lady Bird's beautification program, a champion of billboards, and an indefatigable exponent of concrete thruways regardless of where local planning commissions want them located.

Actually, the freeway bill just passed is an unnecessary piece of legislation. It was rushed through now because the lobbyists wanted to cash in on their lobbying investments and weren't sure whether they will have the same docile committee after November. The bill weakens both the present highway law and the department of transportation. President Johnson is being urged to take a stand against the lobbyists and for congressional ethics by vetoing the bill.

BOLDEST EXPERIMENT

'Buddy System' Pilot Project Set To Take Each Of Half Million Hardcore Workers By the Hand.

Cleveland: -- The blood's off the sidewalks. The dead have been buried. And lots of folk feel the ricocheting fusillades are here to stay like traffic noise. But it could be that the two societies are not really whirling madly away from each other.

There are those who try to bind them closer. This jittery lakeside city has been turned on by bullets, but deep behind the gory headlines, news appears to be in the making which may yet make up for the cries of the wounded and the mourning of the widow.

In this city, long before the shoot-out, labor, management and community leaders have been conferencing on something called "the buddy system."

For weeks now in Cleveland, as in Houston, Milwaukee, Atlanta, and Portland, Ore., they have been developing a pilot project which, if successful, will put an experienced worker -- a buddy -- alongside each of ten of thousands of alienated, disadvantaged, often sulking, newly - hired hardcore unemployed.

This "buddy system" -- or one - for - one -- was devised by the national AFL-CIO's Community Services Director Leo Perlis, of Washington, D. C., who for years has tried to cut straight paths out of the big city jungles.

Perlis, like all those who are not all bone from ear to ear, recognized that the National Alliance of Businessmen could provide half a million jobs for the hardest hardcore, the runners of street gangs, the quasi-literate, the denizens of a thousand lost worlds.

But then what? How do you keep them in the world of work?

Perlis, with the full support of AFL-CIO President George Meany (whose slogan is: Don't demonstrate, just knock at the right doors), reckoned that the inner men and women of the ghastly central cities need individual attention on the job.

And only the massive labor federation could supply the manpower on a one-to-one basis. So five cities were chosen for a series of pilot projects to take the hardcore citizenry by the hand, individually get them to the factory, run interference on the plant floor, make the contact with the shop steward, foreman and supervisor, and protect the newly - hired black and Spanish - speaking workers before they retreat again.

So in these five communities, orientation conferences were scheduled for July. Executives, of union and non - union industry, community services and welfare officials and labor leaders were invited to long parleys.

The buddy system was explained -- and approved. It is to be a tripartite operation -- the AFL-CIO, the Labor Dept., and the National Alliance of Businessmen.

Now, all through August there will be buddy training sessions. These men have been selected. They are volunteers. They will not receive a penny for expenses.

If they have to spring for a cup of coffee and a sandwich, or taxi fare, or for a bus transfer, it will come out of their pockets.

Their assignment will be to train themselves to help the hardcore worker sustain himself psychologically, emotionally and educationally as a worker and citizen.

The buddy will make certain that his hardcore partner will get to whatever community health, welfare, recreation and educational facilities he needs.

For the buddies, this will require intense training. It won't come easy. The hardcore aren't accustomed to being taken by the hand personally. Most of the time it has either been a and out or a grab-out.

For the buddy, the long training hours will be jammed with lectures, visual aid presentations, philosophical lectures by the academic people -- and psychodramas. The buddy will be placed alongside another buddy impersonating the hard core-ite. They will improvise under the eyes of slum sociologists.

In September, the buddies will join their hardcore partners on the job. For a month the one - for - one system will be tried deep in central citys, in union halls, in plant cafeterias and on the production line.

To make certain that the alienated hardcore denizen isn't in retreat because of some physical problem, he'll be given medical examinations, eyeglasses, hearing aides, and any other help long neglected.

In October, Leo Perlis and his partners in government and management will evaluate the buddies operation. If it works, the AFL-CIO will recruit tens of thousands of its members to "pal up" with as many new hardcore employes.

If the project has failed, if the alienated dump their buddies, or vice versa, then a lot of good fellows will have sweated it out for naught.

But then, at least, let no one say that one world did not try to take a less fortunate world by the hand.

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes

It's not often a runner scores from second base on a bunt, but Lou Brock did it for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Phillies Wednesday night.

It happened in the seventh inning and turned out to be the winning run as the National League leaders beat the Phils 3-2 to close out July with a 24-6 record.

Brock singled in the seventh and stole second. Julian Javier bunted along the third base line and Philadelphia pitcher Woody Fryman picked up the ball and got Javier at first. Meanwhile, Brock never broke stride around third and easily beat the throw home.

Only one week from tonight and the 1968 Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo opens at the arena, north of the airport.

A number of top cowboys are expected to be vieing for some $5,000 in cash prizes and entry fees.

This year's rodeo star is "Festus" Hagan, co-star of the Gunsmoke TV series.

One of the largest baseball tournaments to be conducted in Sikeston opens Monday at Puckett field as the 13th annual 11 & 12 year old tournament gets underway with 14 vieing for top honors.

Included in the list are three teams from Sikeston, the American and National All-Stars and the National Aces along with teams from Richland, Morley, Bell City, Oran, Charleston, New Madrid, Dexter, Portageville, Chaffee and Cairo, Ill.

Three games are set for first round play Monday and Tuesday.

A poll conducted among the nation's sportswriters and sportscasters before the 1968 baseball season started shows the current leaders, Detroit in the American and St. Louis in the National in first place.

July 1776—the month the United States declared its independence. July 1968—the month the St. Louis Cardinals freed themselves from the rest of the National League.

They ended it Wednesday night with a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia and an almost insurmountable 14½-game bulge over runner-up Cincinnati.

Take Wednesday night's game against Philadelphia.

Lou Brock singled and stole second in the seventh inning. Julian Javier bunted and pitcher Woody Fryman threw him out, with Brock going to third. But Brock didn't stop there, he kept right on running and beat first baseman Bill White's throw home for what proved to be the winning run.

Atlanta edged the New York Mets 3-2, Cincinnati trounced Pittsburgh 8-2 and then was walloped 10-1 by the Pirates, Chicago topped Houston 6-1 and Los Angeles tripped San Francisco 6-3 in other National League games.

In the American League, Detroit blanked Washington 4-1, the New York Yankees topped Boston 7-3, Baltimore beat Cleveland 4-2, the Chicago White Sox outlasted Minnesota 12-8 and Oakland took California 4-1 and 4-3 in a twi-night twin bill.

Mike Shannon doubled in the first St. Louis run and Brock singled home the other. Clay Dalrymple's sacrifice fly and Richie Allen's single produced the runs for the Phillies, who have lost four straight and 15 of the last 18.

It was all Hank Aaron in Atlanta's victory over New York. The Braves slugger doubled home his club's first two runs and then snapped a 2-2 tie with an RBI single.

Cincinnati scored four runs in the first inning on singles by Pete Rose, Vada Pinson and Tony Perez, Johnny Bench's double and an error en route to its first-game victory.

Pittsburgh came back to take the nightcap with a 16-hit attack and the second triple play in the major leagues in two days.

After Lee May and Perez walked in the fourth inning, Tommy Helms lined to shortstop Gene Alley. Alley threw to second baseman Bill Mazeroski, doubling up May, and Mazeroski threw to first to get Perez. Ron Hansen of Washington made an unassisted triple play Tuesday night against Cleveland.

Roberto Clemente hit a tworun homer and first baseman Donn Clendenon a solo shot and a triple to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

The Cubs, who slammed five home runs Tuesday, continued their heavy hitting by clouting four more against Houston. Ernie Banks hit two and now has 460 in his career. Billy Williams and Jim Hickman smacked the others.

Trailing 3-1 in the eighth, the Dodgers rallied for five runs on two hits and a series of Giant misplays. Two runs scored when Joe Gibbon uncorked a bases-loaded wild pitch and catcher Dick Dietz made a wild throw back to the plate, and Frank Linzy forced home the go-ahead run with a bases-loaded walk to Bob Bailey.

Bull Riding...A Challenge

A bucking bull in the rodeo area is a ton of death-dealing earthquake. He's highly capable of crippling or killing his rider.

The rewards for staying aboard this monster of fury can be small -- when only the prize money is considered.

Yet there are hundreds of bull riders today -- members of the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association -- who almost daily flirt with death for the right to try one out.

Ron Rossen, 30, a well-groomed Broadus, Mont., rancher-cowboy, has twice been the nation's bull riding champion. Once he was runner-up, always he's a title threat.

From Rossen--a 5-foot, 10-inch powerhouse who ripples most of his 165 pounds into a heavily-muscled upper torso-comes the philosophy of a bull rider.

"It's the challenge," said the soft-sopken champion. "Money isn't the big part of riding bulls. Just thinking about a certain bull a few days beforehand, it's a hell of a feeling; knowing you've got to get on him, knowing you can get hurt . . . you can get butterflies, or sweat in the palms of your hands."

For Rossen it's the competition. It's an inner drive that compels him to prove that he is capable of tangling with a tornado -- and conquering it.

"I've always had it in my mind that bull riding is the most dangerous event, and I've always treated it that way," Rossen said. "I know you can damned sure get killed; that makes you more careful. I don't fear them, but they can hurt you if you make a mistake."

Rossen feels a bull rider survives through determination and self-confidence.

"A bull is born to bread and to eat, and not to ride. He doesn't want somebody on his back, and will try his best to get the rider off."

He compared the frightening strength of a bull: "I've never had hold of a 30-foot lariat that's tied to a freight train going 100 miles per hour, and then having it hit the end of that slack, but I'd guess that's what bull riding compares with."

Rossen, who had ridden perhaps 2,000 bulls in his 15 years of competition, has seen cowboys killed in the arena, yet he has somehow escaped prolonged injury himself.

Rossen said he "cracked a jaw" when his hand "hung up" in the bull rope at the 1959 National Finals Rodeo; in the 1961 NFR, "a bull ran over me and ruptured my liver." He's also had plastic surgery near one eye, the result of a 1965 NFR encounter.

Why three NFR injuries? It's been said that when the husky Rossen grips a bull rope, nothing short of dynamite shakes him loose. In the NFR--the World Series of rodeo--Rossen's highly competitive spirit seems to settle in his fist.

"I'm trying to stay up there when I should release, and don't," he grinned. "I'm just trying to win. I'm not saying it's the smartest thing to do, but I know what I can do and what I'm capable of. If I get in a real bad storm, I'll turn loose-sometimes."

When the chute gate opens, Rossen waits for the bull to make the first move. He doesn't charge the animal.

"I keep my eyes toward the horns; whichever way his head goes, usually his body will follow. You've got to have the split second instinct of knowing what he's going to do, and that comes from experience."

Rossen, married is the father of three children. He'll try to prove himself against the best bucking bulls in the nation. Why? Maybe it's similar to what causes a man to climb a mountain.

For all the excitement of a rodeo, attend the 1968 edition of the Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo starting next Thursday and running with night performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a Sunday matinee.

Exibition Football Season Underway Tonight

By The Associated Press

Pro football has passed another cutdown date with several minor trades, many rookies sent packing and a few star holdouts, star injuries and star retirements. And now it's away we go with the start of the exhibition season tonight.

The Washington Redskins play Houston under the Astrodome and the New Orleans Saints meet the Los Angeles Rams in Anaheim, kicking off the preseason schedule, followed by the College All-Star struggle against Green Bay Friday night.

Four more games are set for Saturday: the Chicago Bears and Dallas at Canton, Ohio, in the afternoon, and Baltimore at Oakland, San Francisco at San Diego and Kansas City at Cincinnati at night.

The Redskins will be without Sonny Jurgensen, the National Football League's 1967 passing champion who is recuperating from arm surgery. Veteran Jim Ninowski and rookie Harry Theofiledes will replace him while last year's Heisman Trophy winner, Gary Beban, plays for the College All-Stars.

The Oilers, last season's Eastern Division champs in the American League, are supposed to be stronger with quarterback Pete Beathard starting the season with them.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the first football game in the Astrodome, and they'll see no extra points kicked. The teams will test a new system in which all extra points must be made by passing or running.

The Rams rule the favorite over the Saints, despite the absence of key personnel. Defensive end Deacon Jones and offensive end Jack Snow are involved in contract disputes and defensive end Lamar Lundy and linebacker Maxie Baughan are recuperating from off-season surgery.

Coach George Allen also said he won't play runnings backs Dick Bass and Tommie Mason in order not to risk injury.

The Saints, despite a faulty offensive line, have increased fire power in a rejuvenated Jim Taylor at fullback and quarterback Bill Kilmer throwing to newly-acquired Dave Parks and Monty Stickles.

PITCHING - Danny McLain, Tigers, blanked the Senators on four hits and struck out nine for his 21st victory against only three losses.

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
By The Associated Press

July 1776—the month the United States declared its independence. July 1968—the month the St. Louis Cardinals freed themselves from the rest of the National League.

The Cardinals began the month with a 5-1 victory over Los Angeles and a 6½-game lead over second-place Atlanta.

They ended it Wednesday night with a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia and an almost insurmountable 14½-game bulge over runner-up Cincinnati.

In making the Fourth of July firecracker look like a real fizzle, the Cardinals ripped off 24 victories in 30 games and they didn't care how they did it.

Take Wednesday night's game against Philadelphia.

Lou Brock singled and stole second in the seventh inning. Julian Javier bunted and pitcher Woody Fryman threw him out, with Brock going to third. But Brock didn't stop there, he kept right on running and beat first baseman Bill White's throw home for what proved to be the winning run.

Atlanta edged the New York Mets 3-2, Cincinnati trounced Pittsburgh 8-2 and then was walloped 10-1 by the Pirates, Chicago topped Houston 6-1 and Los Angeles tripped San Francisco 6-3 in other National League games.

In the American League, Detroit blanked Washington 4-1, the New York Yankees topped Boston 7-3, Baltimore beat Cleveland 4-2, the Chicago White Sox outlasted Minnesota 12-8 and Oakland took California 4-1 and 4-3 in a twi-night twin bill.

Mike Shannon doubled in the first St. Louis run and Brock singled home the other. Clay Dalrymple's sacrifice fly and Richie Allen's single produced the runs for the Phillies, who have lost four straight and 15 of the last 18.

It was all Hank Aaron in Atlanta's victory over New York. The Braves slugger doubled home his club's first two runs and then snapped a 2-2 tie with an RBI single.

Cincinnati scored four runs in the first inning on singles by Pete Rose, Vada Pinson and Tony Perez, Johnny Bench's double and an error en route to its first-game victory.

Pittsburgh came back to take the nightcap with a 16-hit attack and the second triple play in the major leagues in two days.

After Lee May and Perez walked in the fourth inning, Tommy Helms lined to shortstop Gene Alley. Alley threw to second baseman Bill Mazeroski, doubling up May, and Mazeroski threw to first to get Perez. Ron Hansen of Washington made an unassisted triple play Tuesday night against Cleveland.

Roberto Clemente hit a two-run homer and first baseman Donn Clendenon a solo shot and a triple to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

The Cubs, who slammed five home runs Tuesday, continued their heavy hitting by clouting four more against Houston. Ernie Banks hit two and now has 460 in his career. Billy Williams and Jim Hickman smacked the others.

Trailing 3-1 in the eighth, the Dodgers rallied for five runs on two hits and a series of Giant misplays. Two runs scored when Joe Gibbon uncorked a bases-loaded wild pitch and catcher Dick Dietz made a wild throw back to the plate, and Frank Linzy forced home the go-ahead run with a bases-loaded walk to Bob Bailey.

Bull Riding...A Challenge

A bucking bull in the rodeo area is a ton of death-dealing earthquake. He's highly capable of crippling or killing his rider.

The rewards for staying aboard this monster of fury can be small -- when only the prize money is considered.

Yet there are hundreds of bull riders today -- members of the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association -- who almost daily flirt with death for the right to try one out.

Ron Rossen, 30, a well-groomed Broadus, Mont., rancher-cowboy, has twice been the nation's bull riding champion. Once he was runner-up, always he's a title threat.

From Rossen--a 5-foot, 10-inch powerhouse who ripples most of his 165 pounds into a heavily-muscled upper torso-comes the philosophy of a bull rider.

"It's the challenge," said the soft-sopken champion. "Money isn't the big part of riding bulls. Just thinking about a certain bull a few days beforehand, it's a hell of a feeling; knowing you've got to get on him, knowing you can get hurt . . . you can get butterflies, or sweat in the palms of your hands."

For Rossen it's the competition. It's an inner drive that compels him to prove that he is capable of tangling with a tornado -- and conquering it.

"I've always had it in my mind that bull riding is the most dangerous event, and I've always treated it that way," Rossen said. "I know you can damned sure get killed; that makes you more careful. I don't fear them, but they can hurt you if you make a mistake."

Rossen feels a bull rider survives through determination and self-confidence.

"A bull is born to bread and to eat, and not to ride. He doesn't want somebody on his back, and will try his best to get the rider off."

He compared the frightening strength of a bull: "I've never had hold of a 30-foot lariat that's tied to a freight train going 100 miles per hour, and then having it hit the end of that slack, but I'd guess that's what bull riding compares with."

Rossen, who had ridden perhaps 2,000 bulls in his 15 years of competition, has seen cowboys killed in the arena, yet he has somehow escaped prolonged injury himself.

Rossen said he "cracked a jaw" when his hand "hung up" in the bull rope at the 1959 National Finals Rodeo; in the 1961 NFR, "a bull ran over me and ruptured my liver." He's also had plastic surgery near one eye, the result of a 1965 NFR encounter.

Why three NFR injuries? It's been said that when the husky Rossen grips a bull rope, nothing short of dynamite shakes him loose. In the NFR--the World Series of rodeo--Rossen's highly competitive spirit seems to settle in his fist.

"I'm trying to stay up there when I should release, and don't," he grinned. "I'm just trying to win. I'm not saying it's the smartest thing to do, but I know what I can do and what I'm capable of. If I get in a real bad storm, I'll turn loose-sometimes."

When the chute gate opens, Rossen waits for the bull to make the first move. He doesn't charge the animal.

"I keep my eyes toward the horns; whichever way his head goes, usually his body will follow. You've got to have the split second instinct of knowing what he's going to do, and that comes from experience."

Rossen, married is the father of three children. He'll try to prove himself against the best bucking bulls in the nation. Why? Maybe it's similar to what causes a man to climb a mountain.

For all the excitement of a rodeo, attend the 1968 edition of the Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo starting next Thursday and running with night performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a Sunday matinee.

Exibition Football Season Underway Tonight

By The Associated Press

Pro football has passed another cutdown date with several minor trades, many rookies sent packing and a few star holdouts, star injuries and star retirements. And now it's away we go with the start of the exhibition season tonight.

The Washington Redskins play Houston under the Astrodome and the New Orleans Saints meet the Los Angeles Rams in Anaheim, kicking off the preseason schedule, followed by the College All-Star struggle against Green Bay Friday night.

Four more games are set for Saturday: the Chicago Bears and Dallas at Canton, Ohio, in the afternoon, and Baltimore at Oakland, San Francisco at San Diego and Kansas City at Cincinnati at night.

The Redskins will be without Sonny Jurgensen, the National Football League's 1967 passing champion who is recuperating from arm surgery. Veteran Jim Ninowski and rookie Harry Theofiledes will replace him while last year's Heisman Trophy winner, Gary Beban, plays for the College All-Stars.

The Oilers, last season's Eastern Division champs in the American League, are supposed to be stronger with quarterback Pete Beathard starting the season with them.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the first football game in the Astrodome, and they'll see no extra points kicked. The teams will test a new system in which all extra points must be made by passing or running.

The Rams rule the favorite over the Saints, despite the absence of key personnel. Defensive end Deacon Jones and offensive end Jack Snow are involved in contract disputes and defensive end Lamar Lundy and linebacker Maxie Baughan are recuperating from off-season surgery.

Coach George Allen also said he won't play runnings backs Dick Bass and Tommie Mason in order not to risk injury.

Computer Expedites the News At Miami-Chicago Conventions

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Quicker than a delegate can say, "Mr. Chairman," The Associated Press will speed news from the national political conventions this summer into a computer in New York City and on to newspapers across the country.

Robert Fiveash R. V. Jenkins

Before the delegate can finish expounding the virtues of his "great and glorious state," the first of the story will be coming out of newspaper typesetting machines.

In many instances, stories will originate from a sending station right on the convention platform. Other stories and pictures will move from the AP pressrooms in the convention halls and from special workrooms set up in hotels.

The AP will transmit an estimated 40-50,000 words per day from the Republican convention which begins Aug. 5 at Convention Hall in Miami Beach and from the Democratic convention which starts Aug. 26 at the International Amphitheatre in Chicago.

This speed and efficiency will result from months of planning and preparation and from the use of the latest communications equipment.

Thousands of miles of additional AP news and photo circuits have been set up for the convention. An elaborate system of telephones is being installed to connect AP newsmen at the convention with all candidates and leaders.

John J. Byrne, AP communications manager, headed the communications planning team, which began with a review of AP performance at the 1964 conventions. Communications operations will be directed by Robert Fiveash, Miami traffic bureau chief, at the Republican convention, and by R.V. Jenkins, Chicago traffic bureau chief, at the Democratic convention. Planning is down to the finest detail, such as installing phones with a flashing light signal instead of a bell in the convention halls to eliminate the possibility of disturbing a speaker.

This year, for the first time at a national political convention, the AP will send stories over a special wire to New York and into a computer which electronically hyphenates words and sets lines to newspaper column width. Many important speech texts and stories will be handled in this manner.

AP headquarters outside the convention halls will be the Fontainebleau in Miami Beach and the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

AP's main "A" Wire will be brought right onto the platform at the convention floor and other AP work areas. Stories can be transmitted on this nationwide circuit as they happen. This wire carries important news from all over the world, and AP editors and reporters will be able to keep abreast of outside developments that could affect the convention.

The news service also will provide news printers for use by the staffs of about 40 of its members at the conventions.

To facilitate coverage of delegates from each section of the country, AP communications specialists have arranged for four regional circuits which will carry special stories to the East-South, Midwest, Southwest and Far West. Special AP reporters are assigned to the delegations.

More than a dozen transmitters will be set up to send newsphotos into AP's nationwide Wirephoto network, to regional areas and for special transmissions to AP members. There will be times during the heat of the conventions when all transmitters will be in operation at once.

In all, the AP will have more than 150 reporters, editors, photographers and others at each convention. Behind them will be the technicians who will make certain that convention news reaches AP members within minutes after it happens.

Computer Expedites the News At Miami-Chicago Conventions

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Quicker than a delegate can say, "Mr. Chairman," The Associated Press will speed news from the national political conventions this summer into a computer in New York City and on to newspapers across the country.

Robert Fiveash R. V. Jenkins

Before the delegate can finish expounding the virtues of his "great and glorious state," the first of the story will be coming out of newspaper typesetting machines.

In many instances, stories will originate from a sending station right on the convention platform. Other stories and pictures will move from the AP pressrooms in the convention halls and from special workrooms set up in hotels.

The AP will transmit an estimated 40-50,000 words per day from the Republican convention which begins Aug. 5 at Convention Hall in Miami Beach and from the Democratic convention which starts Aug. 26 at the International Amphitheatre in Chicago.

This speed and efficiency will result from months of planning and preparation and from the use of the latest communications equipment.

Thousands of miles of additional AP news and photo circuits have been set up for the convention. An elaborate system of telephones is being installed to connect AP newsmen at the convention with all candidates and leaders.

John J. Byrne, AP communications manager, headed the communications planning team, which began with a review of AP performance at the 1964 conventions. Communications operations will be directed by Robert Fiveash, Miami traffic bureau chief, at the Republican convention, and by R.V. Jenkins, Chicago traffic bureau chief, at the Democratic convention. Planning is down to the finest detail, such as installing phones with a flashing light signal instead of a bell in the convention halls to eliminate the possibility of disturbing a speaker.

This year, for the first time at a national political convention, the AP will send stories over a special wire to New York and into a computer which electronically hyphenates words and sets lines to newspaper column width. Many important speech texts and stories will be handled in this manner.

AP headquarters outside the convention halls will be the Fontainebleau in Miami Beach and the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

AP's main "A" Wire will be brought right onto the platform at the convention floor and other AP work areas. Stories can be transmitted on this nationwide circuit as they happen. This wire carries important news from all over the world, and AP editors and reporters will be able to keep abreast of outside developments that could affect the convention.

The news service also will provide news printers for use by the staffs of about 40 of its members at the conventions.

To facilitate coverage of delegates from each section of the country, AP communications specialists have arranged for four regional circuits which will carry special stories to the East-South, Midwest, Southwest and Far West. Special AP reporters are assigned to the delegations.

More than a dozen transmitters will be set up to send newsphotos into AP's nationwide Wirephoto network, to regional areas and for special transmissions to AP members. There will be times during the heat of the conventions when all transmitters will be in operation at once.

In all, the AP will have more than 150 reporters, editors, photographers and others at each convention. Behind them will be the technicians who will make certain that convention news reaches AP members within minutes after it happens.

Kennedy Book Nearly Ready

The last pages of our new close-to-the-news book, "Triumph and Tragedy, the Story of the Kennedy," are coming off the press at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Shipment of some of the 250,000 copies already ordered by this and other Associated Press newspapers and by their readers will be made next week; the rest will be shipped just as fast as possible, within a week or two.

Production of this out-size, handsome volume has proved more time consuming than first expected because of the vast amount of research involved, because the book has been increased in size successively from 190 to 224 pages, and then to 254 pages, and because the number of black and white and color illustrations has been increased to about 150.

It's going to be well worth waiting for. Its brilliantly written text of about 95,000 words provides a sweeping panorama of the spectacular rise of this Irish immigrant family to the peaks of power, wealth and fame-and tragedy.

For you to be sure to get your copy, you should order at once if you have not already done so. There is no increase in the special price of $3 originally announced. Write Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo., Box 66, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. 126.

Gasoline Blast Injures 32

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A gasoline storage tank exploded Wednesday night, rocketing a huge fireball into the air and burning 32 persons.

Four of the injured were reported in critical condition today. Hospitals kept two dozen under treatment overnight.

The ground level tank, filled with 5,000 gallons of gasoline, blew up a service station, the Red Ball Gas House, on U.S. 287 in suburban Kennedale, five miles southeast of Fort Worth.

Witnesses estimated the ball of fire reached 200 feet in diameter as it shot 125 feet aloft.

Firemen and employes at the service station said a small blaze started an hour earlier from a leak as a tank truck pumped fuel into the station's underground tanks.

They said this presumably spread to the surface tank and the eruption followed. There were nearly 20 smaller blasts as cans of oil and other fuel also exploded.

WELLS, England (AP) — An ultrasonic dental drill was used by Richard Scott, a ceramics conservator on the staff of London's Victoria and Albert Museum, to remove corrosion and deposits of lime and lichen from a 13th century stained glass window in Wells Cathedral. The drill was never allowed to touch the window. Instead a tiny jet of water carried ultrasonic vibrations, 25,000 a second, to the working surface.

Campaign to Recall Reagan Termed Failure

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Two California officials have termed "a colossal failure" the campaign to force a recall election to remove Gov. Ronald Reagan from office and blunt his presidential prospects.

Unofficial reports from 20 counties, including the most populous, showed 491,096 signatures on petitions to put the recall question on the Nov. 5 ballot—short of the 780,414 required by the deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The tally was far below the 850,000 signatures that organizers of the recall move claimed to have gathered in a six-month campaign conducted while Reagan's supporters were pushing him for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I've had faith in the common sense of the people of California and that faith is vindicated," Reagan told newsmen in Sacramento after flying in from Miami Beach, Fla., where he spoke to the GOP National Convention Platform Committee.

Backers of the recall had accused Reagan of incompetence.

Attack on Allied Ships Blamed on Radar Errors

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command confirmed today that erroneous radar readings and poor coordination among the services caused the air-sea snafu in June when allied ships were mistaken for enemy helicopters and nine American and Australian sailors were lost.

It was believed at the time that North Vietnamese helicopters for the first time had been used at the east end of the demilitarized zone, but the report by the U.S. Command said that no evidence has been produced of enemy helicopter action near the DMZ.

The report said so far there appeared to be no grounds for disciplinary action against anyone.

The allied planes on separate occasions actually hit the U.S. cruiser Boston and the Australian destroyer Hobart and sank a U.S. Navy patrol boat. Three other patrol craft were fired on but were not damaged. Two Australian sailors were killed and seven wounded; the bodies of two of the crewmen of the U.S. patrol boat were recovered, while five other crewmen are missing.

Ground Broken for Portageville Church

PORTAGEVILLE - Sunday members of the First Church of God broke ground for a sanctuary which will seat close to 400. The estimate cost of the building will be close to $100,000.

The architect firm of Buchmiller, Whitworth, Faust and Associates of Sikeston have drawn the plans and Paul Phillips Construction Co., will supervise Construction.

In the actual ground breaking service vice chairman of the Building Committee, Bill Hayes, reviewed the Building Program since the church's inception in 1898 and then Mayor Richardson gave words of commendation to the church for this another cornerstone in its history.

Then the Building Committtee led the entire congregation to the place of construction where the ground was officially broken by the following members: Barry Richardson, chairman; Bill Hayes, vice chairman; Oliver Dale, treasurer; Don Underwood, secretary; Raymond Davidson, Herman Eiceman, Ward Hanna, Jesse Hatchel, Paul Phillips, and Pete Townsend.

It is the hope of the church to have a dedication service sometime in the Spring or early Summer. The First State Bank of Cruthersville has already committeed themselves toward a loan for this project which has been the dream of many members for close to twenty years.

Four Sentenced to Death in Gang Slaying

BOSTON (AP) — Four men were sentenced Wednesday to death for murder—the first time in Massachusetts history that many were convicted and sentenced at one time.

The four, along with two others who got life when the jury recommended the death penalty not be imposed, were convicted after a 46-day trial in Suffolk Superior Court in connection with the gangland slaying of Edward "Teddy" Deegan in 1965.

Given the death penalty were Louis Grieco, 51, of Peabody, convicted of murder in the first degree; Henry Tameleo, 67, of Cranston, R.I.; Peter Limone, 33, of Medford, and Ronald Cassesso, 36, of Somerville, convicted of being accessories before the fact of murder.

The death sentences were stayed pending appeals.

Kennedy Book Nearly Ready

The last pages of our new close-to-the-news book, "Triumph and Tragedy, the Story of the Kennedy," are coming off the press at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Shipment of some of the 250,000 copies already ordered by this and other Associated Press newspapers and by their readers will be made next week; the rest will be shipped just as fast as possible, within a week or two.

Production of this out-size, handsome volume has proved more time consuming than first expected because of the vast amount of research involved, because the book has been increased in size successively from 190 to 224 pages, and then to 254 pages, and because the number of black and white and color illustrations has been increased to about 150.

It's going to be well worth waiting for. Its brilliantly written text of about 95,000 words provides a sweeping panorama of the spectacular rise of this Irish immigrant family to the peaks of power, wealth and fame-and tragedy.

For you to be sure to get your copy, you should order at once if you have not already done so. There is no increase in the special price of $3 originally announced. Write Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo., Box 66, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. 126.

Gasoline Blast Injures 32

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A gasoline storage tank exploded Wednesday night, rocketing a huge fireball into the air and burning 32 persons.

Four of the injured were reported in critical condition today. Hospitals kept two dozen under treatment overnight.

The ground level tank, filled with 5,000 gallons of gasoline, blew up a service station, the Red Ball Gas House, on U.S. 287 in suburban Kennedale, five miles southeast of Fort Worth.

Witnesses estimated the ball of fire reached 200 feet in diameter as it shot 125 feet aloft.

Firemen and employes at the service station said a small blaze started an hour earlier from a leak as a tank truck pumped fuel into the station's underground tanks.

They said this presumably spread to the surface tank and the eruption followed. There were nearly 20 smaller blasts as cans of oil and other fuel also exploded.

WELLS, England (AP) — An ultrasonic dental drill was used by Richard Scott, a ceramics conservator on the staff of London's Victoria and Albert Museum, to remove corrosion and deposits of lime and lichen from a 13th century stained glass window in Wells Cathedral. The drill was never allowed to touch the window. Instead a tiny jet of water carried ultrasonic vibrations, 25,000 a second, to the working surface.

Campaign to Recall Reagan Termed Failure

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Two California officials have termed "a colossal failure" the campaign to force a recall election to remove Gov. Ronald Reagan from office and blunt his presidential prospects.

Unofficial reports from 20 counties, including the most populous, showed 491,096 signatures on petitions to put the recall question on the Nov. 5 ballot—short of the 780,414 required by the deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The tally was far below the 850,000 signatures that organizers of the recall move claimed to have gathered in a six-month campaign conducted while Reagan's supporters were pushing him for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I've had faith in the common sense of the people of California and that faith is vindicated," Reagan told newsmen in Sacramento after flying in from Miami Beach, Fla., where he spoke to the GOP National Convention Platform Committee.

Backers of the recall had accused Reagan of incompetence.

Attack on Allied Ships Blamedon Radar Errors

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command confirmed today that erroneous radar readings and poor coordination among the services caused the air-sea snafu in June when allied ships were mistaken for enemy helicopters and nine American and Australian sailors were lost.

It was believed at the time that North Vietnamese helicopters for the first time had been used at the east end of the demilitarized zone, but the report by the U.S. Command said that no evidence has been produced of enemy helicopter action near the DMZ.

The report said so far there appeared to be no grounds for disciplinary action against anyone.

The allied planes on separate occasions actually hit the U.S. cruiser Boston and the Australian destroyer Hobart and sank a U.S. Navy patrol boat. Three other patrol craft were fired on but were not damaged. Two Australian sailors were killed and seven wounded; the bodies of two of the crewmen of the U.S. patrol boat were recovered, while five other crewmen are missing.

Ground Broken for Portageville Church

PORTAGEVILLE — Sunday members of the First Church of God broke ground for a sanctuary which will seat close to 400. The estimate cost of the building will be close to $100,000.

The architect firm of Buchmiller, Whitworth, Faust and Associates of Sikeston have drawn the plans and Paul Phillips Construction Co., will supervise Construction.

In the actual ground breaking service vice chairman of the Building Committee, Bill Hayes, reviewed the Building Program since the church's inception in 1898 and then Mayor Richardson gave words of commendation to the church for this another cornerstone in its history.

Then the Building Committtee led the entire congregation to the place of construction where the ground was officially broken by the following members: Barry Richardson, chairman; Bill Hayes, vice chairman; Oliver Dale, treasurer; Don Underwood, secretary; Raymond Davidson, Herman Eiceman, Ward Hanna, Jesse Hatchel, Paul Phillips, and Pete Townsend.

It is the hope of the church to have a dedication service sometime in the Spring or early Summer. The First State Bank of Cruthersville has already committeed themselves toward a loan for this project which has been the dream of many members for close to twenty years.

ARTIST'S CONCEPT of new Lourdes Hospital in Paduach.

New 254-Bed Hospital To Be Built in Paducah

PADUCAH - Construction of a new Lourdes hospital is enxpected to begin in August, the Drake Partnership, a St. Louis architectural firm, announced Wednesday.

The hospital, to be intially a 254-bed expansion to 400 beds, will take about two years to complete.

Architect Cecil Drake, partner in charge of the project, reported that a community mental health center also will be built and will be connected to the new hospital by a passageway.

Construction cost of the hospital and mental health center is $8.1 million. General contractor for the project is the Manhattan Construction Co. of Memphis.

Eventually, a medical office complex will be developed on the same site of 39 acres in residential Paducah.

Drake described the project as a "completely integrated medical facility," the only one of its kind in the entire region. The facility will provide additional hospital services for the Bootheel region of Missouri and Southern Illinois.

The new hospital will be completely air conditioned, including the kitchen, laundry and maintenance shop.

All patient rooms will be contained in a tower designed for vertical expansion. Each of these patient bathrooms with showers.

All of the ancillary facilities, such as X-ray, surgery, laboratory and out-patient emergency departments will be on the lower level which can be expanded horizontally.

The project has been planned so that day patients at the mental health center may have their meals in the hospital and hospital patients may use the facilities of the mental health center, such as the recreation and rehabilitation facilities. The mental health center will be financed by separate funds from the state, federal government and an eight-county Mental Health District.

PAUL FLOWER'S GREENHOUSE

As a wise man said, the human being is a perverse animal. The man who said that also was an astute student of psychology.

Only recently, I encountered an assoicate who has bought a mountainside in the Ozarks, with the intent of building a hideaway only slightly less pretentious than the President's spread on the Pedernales. This parcel of real estate rears at sharp angle form the horizontal, and it is thickly strewn with rocks which date back to some remote geological age when the Oriskany formation was young and soft.

There is hardly a square inch of it where he could penetrate with a mattock or pickax; the rocks are fitted together almost as securely as the tile floor in your bathroom.

It was obvious that when time came to excavate for a foundation, and level off the plot for a yard, it would require dynamite, double-strength bulldozers, and considerable determination to shift this geological debris, and my friend shuddered at the prospect of cost.

After several sleepless nights, psychology came to his rescue, and he suspected, rightly it developed, that man's basic nature is more powerful than du Pont's blasting powder or Dick Trippeer's roaring Diesel monsters.

The next day, the owner sought out a sign painter and provided the copy for a sign to be posted in a conspicuous spot in full view of the road from both directions. It read:

"Please do not molest or remove rocks from this lapidarium. They assay out at $379 a ton of the rare Euphoria-X mineral, a chemical vital to manufacture of nose cones of space vehicles, for re-entry into the Earth's atmosphere on return from Venus. Thank you."

As soon as the paint was dry, he erected the sign on a large oak tree, and eased himself into a guilly to watch for results.

He had guessed right. The first party of passersby paused, read the request, parked, and committed trespass in the first degree. They just had to have some of that rock so rich in Euphoria-X.

Before the sun had set visitors had carried away three tons of rocks, and a free enterpriser with vision had gone to the courthouse and taken an option on mineral rights to 7,000 acres adjoining. Next he consulted his attorney and set in motion preliminary steps toward forming a corporation, the Ozarks Euphoria-X Company, Inc., and he reserved for himself 90 per cent of the stock, common and preferred.

The owner of the plot on which the sign hung refused to sell even mineral rights, and daily there appeared tourists, free enterprisers, and prophets of progress, to load their cars with these "precious" stones.

By the end of the week the hillside was as bare of rocks as a section of Desha County alluvium, and the owner's place was cleared perfectly for his lodge, so he took his savings and went to Hot Springs for a month.

All of which recalls Mark Twain's observation that if the serpent had been forbidden to Mother Eve in the Garden of Eden, all her heirs and assigns would have been snake eaters.

Commercial Appeal

Pipeline Project Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $25,462,000 pipeline project by the Mississippi River Transmission Corp., St. Louis, was approved Wednesday by the Federal Power Commission.

Nearly 200 miles of line in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana were authorized under a permanent certifcate.

The commission said the project is designed to correct a situation which could lead to a serious natural gas shortage in the St. Louis area this winter. Two 5.5-mile lines in the St. Louis area, costing $1.5 million, were given permanent authority.

The commission said that under a temporary certificate costs may not be included in the company's rate base without further authority, a protection for consumers.

The project is opposed by coal industry representatives.

The FPC announcement said the project will increase Mississippi's natural gas transmission capacity by 100 million cubic feet a day to meet customer requirements in Akansas, Illinois and Missouri.

The commission limited the amounts of additional gas that Mississippi may deliver to Laclede Gas Co., which distributes in the St. Louis area. This will prevent Laclede's industrial customers from receiving more gas than they are getting now. The FPC said this was to protect coal interveners pending final determination of the case.

Power Line Needed for Noranda, Davis Asserts

Location of a Sho-Me Power Corp. line across the scenic Current River in Shannon County became an issue in Missouri's hotly contested campaign for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator yesterday.

True Davis of St. Joseph took issue with Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton's action opposing the State Public Service Commission's decision to let the Show-Me power line cross the river.

Davis said the line should be built to aid southeastern Missouri's industrial boom.

He said that the power was needed for the Noranda Aluminum Inc. complex at New Madrid and for other industrial development in Southeast Missouri.

In a speech given to the Lions club Davis said:

"Scenic preservation and electrical power are seemingly at times on a collision course in our rapidly developing world. There are times when each must concede to immediate needs without giving up ultimate goals, in order to expedite priority considerations. In my opinion, sound judgment indicates this is one of those times and unlike the lieutenant governor, I feel the concession here should be in favor of southeastern Missouri's industrial development."

As a result of objections to locating the line across the Current, at the point previously approved by the PSC, the case has been re-opened but no new decision has been reached.

TRUE DAVIS, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, arrived in a chartered plane at the Sikeston airport Wednesday, for a two-day campaign swing through the Bootheel in behalf of his candidacy. He spoke at the Lions club Wednesday and went to other counties by automobile.

Power Hearings Have Bearing on Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- Hearings conducted Wednesday concerning a power transmission line running from the Arkansas - Missouri state line to Reynolds county, can have a direct bearing on the economic future of Southeast Missouri.

C. E. Boulson, general manager of Sho - Me Power Corp., said power from the line will be used by the Noranda Aluminum plant to be erected in New Madrid county until the city of New Madrid can construct its power generating plant.

Boulson said that the new line will also furnish back - up power for Noranda in case of trouble with the city's proposed $70,000,000 generating plant.

He said time is of essence so power can be supplied both to Noranda and the Lead Belt area of south central Missouri.

The manager said Noranda will buy power from Associated Electric Co., until the generating plant is erected. He said Associated will then buy power from the generating plant to build up the supply of power for south central Missouri.

The transmission line, which is part of a complex of lines running from Norfolk Dam in Arkansas in Reynolds County, is being opposed by various agencies because the line is routed to cross the Current River in the Ozark National Scenic Riverways.

Sho - Me contends the line will augment the system of electrical power distribution in Missouri and will help avoid power failures in the south central and southeast portion of Missouri.

The power corporation has already received premission from the State Public Service Commission, which is conducting the hearings which started last week and are expected to continue for about three weeks, and the U. S. department of the Interior to run the line through the protected scenic area in south central Missouri.

Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall approved the project only on the condition that the crossing point be moved .7 mile north of Round Spring, a recreation area for canoeists and boatsmen. The original crossing point was a mile south of Round Spring.

The federal agency also made the permit on the grounds that Sho - Me place the line underground or abandon it within 25 years. The company is currently hand - trimming the trees so the line will not disturb the wilderness of the scenic area.

Among the agencies fighting the crossing, are the Missouri State Inter - Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation, the Conservation Federation of Missouri, Ozark Wilderness Waterways, Club, Missouri Association, and the National Audubon Society.

Their main contention is that Sho - Me could route the line around the scenic area and preserve the beauty of the area.

After Udall granted the permit, Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton rekindled the issue by asking him to withdraw his approval of the crossing and Udall refused.

ARTIST'S CONCEPT of new Lourdes Hospital in Paduach.

New 254-Bed Hospital To Be Built in Paducah

PADUCAH - Construction of a new Lourdes hospital is enxpected to begin in August, the Drake Partnership, a St. Louis architectural firm, announced Wednesday.

The hospital, to be intially a 254-bed expansion to 400 beds, will take about two years to complete.

Architect Cecil Drake, partner in charge of the project, reported that a community mental health center also will be built and will be connected to the new hospital by a passageway.

Construction cost of the hospital and mental health center is $8.1 million. General contractor for the project is the Manhattan Construction Co. of Memphis.

Eventually, a medical office complex will be developed on the same site of 39 acres in residential Paducah.

Drake described the project as a "completely integrated medical facility," the only one of its kind in the entire region. The facility will provide additional hospital services for the Bootheel region of Missouri and Southern Illinois.

The new hospital will be completely air conditioned, including the kitchen, laundry and maintenance shop.

All patient rooms will be contained in a tower designed for vertical expansion. Each of these patient bathrooms with showers.

All of the ancillary facilities, such as X-ray, surgery, laboratory and out-patient emergency departments will be on the lower level which can be expanded horizontally.

The project has been planned so that day patients at the mental health center may have their meals in the hospital and hospital patients may use the facilities of the mental health center, such as the recreation and rehabilitation facilities. The mental health center will be financed by separate funds from the state, federal government and an eight-county Mental Health District.

PAUL FLOWER'S GREENHOUSE

As a wise man said, the human being is a perverse animal. The man who said that also was an astute student of psychology.

Only recently, I encountered an assoicate who has bought a mountainside in the Ozarks, with the intent of building a hideaway only slightly less pretentious than the President's spread on the Pedernales. This parcel of real estate rears at sharp angle form the horizontal, and it is thickly strewn with rocks which date back to some remote geological age when the Oriskany formation was young and soft.

There is hardly a square inch of it where he could penetrate with a mattock or pickax; the rocks are fitted together almost as securely as the tile floor in your bathroom.

It was obvious that when time came to excavate for a foundation, and level off the plot for a yard, it would require dynamite, double-strength bulldozers, and considerable determination to shift this geological debris, and my friend shuddered at the prospect of cost.

After several sleepless nights, psychology came to his rescue, and he suspected, rightly it developed, that man's basic nature is more powerful than du Pont's blasting powder or Dick Trippeer's roaring Diesel monsters.

The next day, the owner sought out a sign painter and provided the copy for a sign to be posted in a conspicuous spot in full view of the road from both directions. It read:

"Please do not molest or remove rocks from this lapidarium. They assay out at $379 a ton of the rare Euphoria-X mineral, a chemical vital to manufacture of nose cones of space vehicles, for re-entry into the Earth's atmosphere on return from Venus. Thank you."

As soon as the paint was dry, he erected the sign on a large oak tree, and eased himself into a guilly to watch for results.

He had guessed right. The first party of passersby paused, read the request, parked, and committed trespass in the first degree. They just had to have some of that rock so rich in Euphoria-X.

Before the sun had set visitors had carried away three tons of rocks, and a free enterpriser with vision had gone to the courthouse and taken an option on mineral rights to 7,000 acres adjoining. Next he consulted his attorney and set in motion preliminary steps toward forming a corporation, the Ozarks Euphoria-X Company, Inc., and he reserved for himself 90 per cent of the stock, common and preferred.

The owner of the plot on which the sign hung refused to sell even mineral rights, and daily there appeared tourists, free enterprisers, and prophets of progress, to load their cars with these "precious" stones.

By the end of the week the hillside was as bare of rocks as a section of Desha County alluvium, and the owner's place was cleared perfectly for his lodge, so he took his savings and went to Hot Springs for a month.

All of which recalls Mark Twain's observation that if the serpent had been forbidden to Mother Eve in the Garden of Eden, all her heirs and assigns would have been snake eaters.

Pipeline Project Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $25,462,000 pipeline project by the Mississippi River Transmission Corp., St. Louis, was approved Wednesday by the Federal Power Commission.

Nearly 200 miles of line in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana were authorized under a permanent certifcate.

The commission said the project is designed to correct a situation which could lead to a serious natural gas shortage in the St. Louis area this winter. Two 5.5-mile lines in the St. Louis area, costing $1.5 million, were given permanent authority.

The commission said that under a temporary certificate costs may not be included in the company's rate base without further authority, a protection for consumers.

The project is opposed by coal industry representatives.

The FPC announcement said the project will increase Mississippi's natural gas transmission capacity by 100 million cubic feet a day to meet customer requirements in Akansas, Illinois and Missouri.

The commission limited the amounts of additional gas that Mississippi may deliver to Laclede Gas Co., which distributes in the St. Louis area.

The Outlook for Business

For the last six months of 1968

Robert S. Ingersoll
Appliance Industry

So far, 1968 is proving to be an even better year for appliance sales than we forecast last December, and indications are that the second half will continue this trend.

We estimate that factory shipments of major home appliances through the first six months will total 12.9 million units compared with just under 11.7 million in the first half of 1967. That is a gain of 10 per cent, and we were expecting a rise of only about 7 per cent. There are many factors which have led to this strong performance to date.

(1) Personal income in 1967 was a record $626.4 billion and in the first half of this year is expected to have averaged an annual rate of about $662 billion. Mors importantly, disposable income was also a record $544.7 billion last year and in the first half of 1968 averaged an annual rate of about $570 billion.

(2) Expanding employment and a longer workweek are principal factors in rising personal income. Employment has been running at a monthly average of around 76 million, and unemployment is at an almost practical bottom of 3.5 per cent.

(3) Wage gains averaged nearly 6 per cent last year, and there is no indication that the rate of gain will decline in 1968. A 13 per cent increase in social security benefits in March raises personal income $3.2 billion for 1968, and government pay increases in December and the February increase in the minimum wage level also add to consumer buying power.

Even though consumers are continuing to save at just below the high rate of 1967, when they saved 7.1 per cent of thie rincome, the build-up of liquid assets which occurred in 1967 should result in a greater willingness to spend. Retail sales are running about 10 per cent ahead of a year ago which, when inflation is taken into consideration, still amounts to a strong 6 per cent increase in real terms. And with consumer buying at this brisk pace, the danger of inventory accumulation, which occurred to some extent late in 1967, is relieved. With incomes continuing to rise and a record backlog of financial assets, consumers could spend more than $80 billion for durables this year, including automobiles.

Although money for home mortgages is likely to remain tight through 1968, the situation is not nearly as severe as it was in 1966. And demand for housing is strong. The rate of private nonfarm housing starts this year is running at an annual rate of 1.4 to 1.5 million units and may even exceed 1.5 million for the year. This is a good rise from last year's low level of 1.3 million and is, of course, an encouraging sign for the appliance industry. At the same time, the replacement market remains strong.

Almost all signs point to continuing increases in sales of home appliances in the second half although gains may not be as dramatic as in the first half. We look for factory shipments of major appliances, including room air conditioners, to total 12,250,000 units in the second half—up 800,000 units, or 7.6 per cent, from the second half of 1967. We expect the greatest growth in terms of percentage to come from dishwashers, with a 15 per cent, and refrigerators up 5 per cent. This could make the full year one of the best on record for the appliance industry, with factory shipments rising more than 9 per cent over last year to better than 25 million units.

Incidentally, we feel that at least part of the reason for the growth in appliances is the improved engineering, performance, and reliability which consumers are seeking. In certain product areas, notably larger refrigerators and washers, colored units now represent more than 50 per cent of sales. Automatic clothes dryers with special settings for permanent press materials that eliminate the need for ironing have come on the market recently, and now dryers with greatly increased capacity are appearing. With permanent press clothing becoming more popular, demand for dryers with special settings to handle the material is growing. And, of great importance to the consumer, warranties on appliances are being extended because of improved engineering, and the need for service is being reduced.

Sales of electronic home entertainment equipment have been rather spotty in the first half although demand for color television has been quite strong with gains exceeding 12 per cent. The second half is the big period for this industry, and with the economy strong and sales of consumer durables increasing, the outlook continues bright.

While we are generally optimistic about the outlook for appliance sales and the economy, there are danger signs. Although the federal government is taking steps to decrease the record budget deficit and to reduce inflation with a tax increase and a budget cut, it is still pursuing an inflationary fiscal policy. Inflation at this time is a very real danger, and it is being heightened by labor settlements in which wages and fringe benefits are increasing well in excess of gains in productivity.

LAVATORY IS KEY IN TODAY'S BATHROOM

Few rooms in your home have undergone as big a change in the past decade as the bathroom. It used to be a compact room with the three basic fixtures of tub, lavatory and water closet, and people spent a minimum amount of time in it in the performance of their ablutions and personal hygiene.

Today the bathroom is as important as any room in the house. It's bigger, is furnished according to a specific decorator theme and has become a status symbol. It's a place for relaxation as well as utility.

All this is reflected in the products available, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. Take the lavatory, for example, around which the bathroom's decor is usually built. Here's what's available:

1. There's a strong trend to vanity lavatories instead of "free standing" ones. The bowl is sunk into a countertop that's convenient for setting out grooming aids. The space underneath, formerly "wasted," is now a storage cabinet. The cabinet and countertop themselves come in an infinite variety of styles or colors, enabling you to really customize your room. Many bathrooms now have twinbowl vanities.

2. The bowls can be almost any color, a subdued pastel or a strikingly brilliant one. You can get bowls decorated with a large variety of flower, classic, modern, etc. designs. They're fired into the enamel and do not wear off.

With incomes continuing to rise and a record backlog of financial assets, consumers could spend more than $80 billion for durables this year, including automobiles.

Although money for home mortgages is likely to remain tight through 1968, the situation is not nearly as severe as it was in 1966. And demand for housing is strong. The rate of private nonfarm housing starts this year is running at an annual rate of 1.4 to 1.5 million units and may even exceed 1.5 million for the year. This is a good rise from last year's low level of 1.3 million and is, of course, an encouraging sign for the appliance industry. At the same time, the replacement market remains strong.

Almost all signs point to continuing increases in sales of home appliances in the second half although gains may not be as dramatic as in the first half. We look for factory shipments of major appliances, including room air conditioners, to total 12,250,000 units in the second half—up 800,000 units, or 7.6 per cent, from the second half of 1967. We expect the greatest growth in terms of percentage to come from dishwashers, with a 15 per cent, and refrigerators up 5 per cent. This could make the full year one of the best on record for the appliance industry, with factory shipments rising more than 9 per cent over last year to better than 25 million units.

Incidentally, we feel that at least part of the reason for the growth in appliances is the improved engineering, performance, and reliability which consumers are seeking. In certain product areas, notably larger refrigerators and washers, colored units now represent more than 50 per cent of sales. Automatic clothes dryers with special settings for permanent press materials that eliminate the need for ironing have come on the market recently, and now dryers with greatly increased capacity are appearing. With permanent press clothing becoming more popular, demand for dryers with special settings to handle the material is growing. And, of great importance to the consumer, warranties on appliances are being extended because of improved engineering, and the need for service is being reduced.

Sales of electronic home entertainment equipment have been rather spotty in the first half although demand for color television has been quite strong with gains exceeding 12 per cent. The second half is the big period for this industry, and with the economy strong and sales of consumer durables increasing, the outlook continues bright.

While we are generally optimistic about the outlook for appliance sales and the economy, there are danger signs. Although the federal government is taking steps to decrease the record budget deficit and to reduce inflation with a tax increase and a budget cut, it is still pursuing an inflationary fiscal policy. Inflation at this time is a very real danger, and it is being heightened by labor settlements in which wages and fringe benefits are increasing well in excess of gains in productivity.

LAVATORY IS KEY IN TODAY'S BATHROOM

Few rooms in your home have undergone as big a change in the past decade as the bathroom. It used to be a compact room with the three basic fixtures of tub, lavatory and water closet, and people spent a minimum amount of time in it in the performance of their ablutions and personal hygiene.

Today the bathroom is as important as any room in the house. It's bigger, is furnished according to a specific decorator theme and has become a status symbol. It's a place for relaxation as well as utility.

All this is reflected in the products available, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. Take the lavatory, for example, around which the bathroom's decor is usually built. Here's what's available:

1. There's a strong trend to vanity lavatories instead of "free standing" ones. The bowl is sunk into a countertop that's convenient for setting out grooming aids. The space underneath, formerly "wasted," is now a storage cabinet. The cabinet and countertop themselves come in an infinite variety of styles or colors, enabling you to really customize your room. Many bathrooms now have twinbowl vanities.

2. The bowls can be almost any color, a subdued pastel or a strikingly brilliant one. You can get bowls decorated with a large variety of flower, classic, modern, etc. designs. They're fired into the enamel and do not wear off.

Honorable Mayor and City Council

Gentlemen:

We have examined the statement of assets and liabilities of the general fund of the City of Sikeston as of April 30, 1968, and the related statement of revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. In connection therewith, we have reviewed the system of internal control and the accounting procedures of the city and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, have examined or tested accounting records of the city and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of the City of Sikeston at April 30, 1968, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES H. BUCHER
Certified Public Accountant

Honorable Mayor and City Council
City of Sikeston

Gentlemen:

We have examined the statement of assets and liabilities of the general fund of the City of Sikeston as of April 30, 1968, and the related statement of revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. In connection therewith, we have reviewed the system of internal control and the accounting procedures of the city and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, have examined or tested accounting records of the city and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of the City of Sikeston at April 30, 1968, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES H. BUCHER
Certified Public Accountant

Ann Landers

Good Children Credit to Both Parents

Dear Ann Landers: I have two friends -- both widows. I like these women very much--until they get on the subject of their families. I am sick to death listening to them brag about their sons -- how smart and successful they are, what great fathers they are to their children. Then they start in on their daughters - in - law. They are dumbbells -- no family background, lazy, incompetent, can't do anything right. From there they go on to rave about their grandchildren. They are the most thoughtful, considerate, most popular kids in town. Everyone remarks on their beautiful manners.

Yesterday I stood it as long as I could. Finally I said, "Please tell me how come the children turned out so well when they had such lazy, dumb mothers?" They lit into me and insisted that the children had been trained by their fathers.

I have six wonderful grandchildren, Ann, and although my son is a fine person, I know his wife deserves 85 per cent of the credit. Please print my letter and comment. --FAIR IS FAIR

Dear Fair: When you see thoughtful, considerate, well - mannered children, it's a pretty safe assumption that both parents worked together to bring up those kids properly. The influence of the mother is usually the greatest, since she is the one who spends most of her time directing and disciplining the children in their formative years. I say your thinking is more nearly correct than your friends.

Dear Ann Landers: May I respond to "Old Starchy" -- the R. N. who complained about the way patients treat people who staff hospitals? She said, "Illness does not give a patient the right to be abusive or downright nasty to those whose job it is to take care of them."

Fortunately, Old Starchy's viewpoint "genuinely nice people remain nice in spite of pain and misery" is not shared by the majority of hospital people. Hospital administrative and medical staffs have long recognized that illness can alter one's personality remarkably. May I offer a paragraph from our Personnel Handbook?

"In working with the sick and injured, remember that you are dealing with persons in exceptional circumstances. Such a person is often upset by actions and events which he would not notice under normal circumstances. You will discover that many patients have fears and resentments which may manifest themselves in irritability, uncooperativeness and apprehensiveness. Remember what is routine for you may be a grave emergency in the minds of a patient or his family. Courtesy, kindness and, above all, patient understanding are the best weapons you have for overcoming these problems."

Old Starchy seems to have forgotten the creed of the health team. We are neither paragons of detached professionalism nor impersonal tools of technology. We are simply people caring for people. -- MRS. N. L., HADLEY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL; HAYS, KANSAS

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Farmer Brown raised cattle but with a low brow status. In fact, he owned one Angus that wasn't only low brow, but was low down as well. Casually strolling into Farmer Brown's pasture, the Angus had a dalliance with several of Farmer Brown's untouched heifers, and Farmer Brown claimed the experience so disturbed them that they refused to have anything to do with bulls thereafter.

Outraged, Farmer Brown sued Bumstead for damages.

"Since a cow can't breed by osmosis," he complained in court, "the value of my heifers for breeding purposes has been destroyed, and Bumstead is as much to blame as his bum of an Angus. He shouldn't have permitted his phlandering bull to go cavorting amongst my young and naive heifers."

"Bulls will be bulls," was Bumstead's answer. "It's not my fault that my Angus suddenly became amorous. Besides, there's no proof that Brown's heifers were any of the worse from the experience or that the intrusion of my Angus his heifers might never have appreciated the attention of a bull. They might have been latent bull - haters."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Bumstead pay for the philandering of his Angus?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that there was insufficient evidence to establish the reason for the apparent loss of the capacity of Farmer Brown's heifers to breed; that the cause was speculative and damages cannot be awarded on speculation. The verdict might be otherwise, noted the judge, if Farmer Brown had proven that his heifers shunned other bulls because of the philandering of Bumstead's Angus.

Lambeth to Direct M.U. Graduate Scribes

COLUMBIA -- Dean Earl F. English of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri - Columbia, has announced the appointment of Edmund B. Lambeth as associate professor of journalism to direct the school's new Washington, D. C., graduate reporting program.

Lambeth, 36, has been Washington correspondent for the Gannett Newspaper group for the last six years. He has a total of 15 years' experience in reporting public affairs.

Dean English said the program - which begins in September and offers 11 hours credit - will enable candidates for master's degrees to develop their competence further in understanding and reporting public issues in depth.

The student reporters will file stories with the Columbia Missourian, published at the School of Journalism, and each will serve as a special Washington correspondent for a newspaper or a radio or television station in his home area. Each student will have a turn at covering the Missouri congressional delegation as well as news events on capitol hill and in the executive departments.

The major portion of the students' time will be spent gathering material and reporting in depth on such issues as housing and urban development, civil rights, science and public policy, education, and environmental pollution.

The curriculum will bring students in contact, through individual and group interviews, with senators, congressmen, federal administrators, scholars, state and local officials, and lobbyists. The class also will meet informally with members of the Washington press corps.

California last year collected $1.06 billion from this source — more than any other state. Four other heavily populated states — Illinois, Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania — each drew more than one-half billion dollars.

Collections surpassing $100 million were recorded in each of no less than 23 other states, reports Commerce Clearing House, a tax law authority.

WIN WITH Tom Eagleton

We need Tom Eagleton's vigor, his intelligence, his keen sense of justice. Most of all, we need his fresh solutions to today's problems

A seat in the United States Senate can't be bought. It has to be earned.

As our Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General and as Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, Tom Eagleton has earned the respect and confidence of the people of Missouri—and national recognition as one of America's outstanding young leaders.

With your help, Tom Eagleton offers a brilliant future of service—not just to the special-interest few, but to all Missourians.

As our United States Senator, Tom Eagleton will continue to make Missouri proud.

"...we favor his nomination..."

"Mr. Eagleton at 38 is in his prime. He was an exceptionally able Circuit Attorney, an exceptionally able Attorney General, an exceptionally able Lieutenant Governor. Having thus gone through a rigorous period of political training, he is ripe for higher office, and Missouri would be the loser if his talents were not made use of."

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, June 11, 1968

Vote for Tom Eagleton, Democrat— a Senator for all Missourians.

Lambeth to Direct M.U. Graduate Scribes

COLUMBIA -- Dean Earl F. English of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri - Columbia, has announced the appointment of Edmund B. Lambeth as associate professor of journalism to direct the school's new Washington, D. C., graduate reporting program.

Lambeth, 36, has been Washington correspondent for the Gannett Newspaper group for the last six years. He has a total of 15 years' experience in reporting public affairs.

Dean English said the program - which begins in September and offers 11 hours credit - will enable candidates for master's degrees to develop their competence further in understanding and reporting public issues in depth.

The student reporters will file stories with the Columbia Missourian, published at the School of Journalism, and each will serve as a special Washington correspondent for a newspaper or a radio or television station in his home area. Each student will have a turn at covering the Missouri congressional delegation as well as news events on capitol hill and in the executive departments.

The major portion of the students' time will be spent gathering material and reporting in depth on such issues as housing and urban development, civil rights, science and public policy, education, and environmental pollution.

The curriculum will bring students in contact, through individual and group interviews, with senators, congressmen, federal administrators, scholars, state and local officials, and lobbyists. The class also will meet informally with members of the Washington press corps.

NEARLY GHOST TOWN

KONEYTRA, Israeli-held Syria (AP) — The Military Government reports this war-scarred city, almost completely abandoned by Syrians as Israeli troops stormed the Golan Heights in June 1967, may be a ghost town in a few months.

The 150 remaining inhabitants of the original 20,000 now want to move to Syria because they despair of an early peace settlement in the Middle East.
